Each Medal, Two Sides.
Bishops O. K. Birth Control.
Mr. Coolidge Sees Hope.
Awaiting the Baby.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

THE HIGH tariff question has two sides, and the much abused congressman, Will R. Wood, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, wants you to know it.

Our corn crop this year will be about two billion one hundred million bushels. The price is high because drought has cut the crop 600,000,000 bushels, but drought hasn't hurt the crop in Argentina and elsewhere.

WITHOUT THE new tariff and the duty of 25 cents a bushel on foreign corn, Argentina would be selling corn here at 65 cents a bushel. And American farmers would have to accept that price.

Thus on corn alone the tariff makes a difference of $500,000,000 to the farmer.

THE FREE TRADER may reply: "On the other hand, the American consumer must pay the $500,000,000, so what difference does it make?"

It makes much difference. The $500,000,000 goes to American farmers, and American prosperity. A man would rather the business and profit go to his own brother than to a stranger.

AT THE LAMBETH conference, 306 bishops of the Anglican Church, gathered in England from all over the world, request the nation "to return to spirituality." The next step is to DEFINE spirituality, remembering Voltaire's excellent advice "Definissons nos terms." What would be spirituality for a Congo native dancing around a dead hippopotamus, might be bestiality for the Archbishop of Canterbury.

SURPRISING TO ALL, and shocking to many non-Anglican bishops, is the fact that bishops at Lambeth voted 193 to 67, in secret conference, withdrawing objection to birth control.

It is no longer sin, from their point of view, to refuse to have a baby if you don't want one. That is good news for women with seven or eight children alive and sickly, two or three dead, and a drunken husband.

MR. COOLIDGE, writing every day for the Pittsburgh Sun - Telegraph and other papers, thus observes the educational effects of modern inventions.

"Now all kinds of cars with people from all sections are circulating all over the country. Another important influence is the radio. A third is the motion picture. These influences have supplemented the school house in banishing ignorance."

On the other hand these new inventions do not appear to have increased mental concentration. It is what the individual THINKS in solitude, not what he gazes at in a crowd, that makes him worth while.

Milton, Roger Bacon in his blindness, in prison, Bunyan in jail, Voltaire and Mirabeau in the prison of the Bastile, developed excellent ideas.

Life should not be spent with the radio turned on or the automobile engine "purring" always.

DOCTORS AND MOTHERS are interested in a gathering at Glamis, Scotland, where the Duchess of York, married to a son of King George, awaits anxiously the arrival of her second child, supposed to be nine days "overdue."

For nine days Mr. Clynes, home secretary of Great Britain, has been waiting at the castle, to certify to the birth of the royal infant. Four physicians also are waiting, chief among them Sir Henry Simson, noted obstetrician and expert in the "Caesarian section."

UNDER THE British law a child is declared legitimate and entitled to inherit property and have titles if born within 12 months of its father's death.

Infants have been born at the end of that period, but rarely if ever born alive.

ACCORDING TO the police, Chinese "tong" men in New York are learning racketeer methods from the West. Gentlemen of one tong sometimes kill gentlemen of another tong, and hitherto each tong has done its own killing.

It isn't so among modern gangsters and racketeers.

They hire somebody, usually a youthful cocaine victim, to do the killing and put the doomed man "on the spot." The killer shoots, not knowing the name of the victim, or why he is killed.

FOLLOWING THIS excellent idea, New York's On Leon Tong hired two young white men to murder seven enemies of a rival tong. The white youths told the police. Three Chinese and one Filipino arrested, six guns, several hundred pounds of ammunition seized.

ROBERT KRONFIELD, Austrian glider flier, betters his own world record, gliding 94 miles in a storm. Others feared to glide in such weather, but Kronfield went up, "hooked on to a little cloud," as he put it, and, carried by the wind that carried the cloud, he went sweeping 94 miles over the mountains.

NO WONDER gliding attracts romantic youth. Who would have dreamed a few years ago, looking at the clouds, that a man would go up on a frail board, "hook on" to one of the clouds and sail with it.

GUNMEN USE HANDCUFFS IN HOLDUP

Two in Saloon Linked to Bar Rail as Robbers Loot Safe, Till, Slot Machines

Handcuffed with his bartender to the brass foot rail in his saloon at 3239 McClure avenue, North Side, Paul Toncic, looked on helplessly while two armed holdup men looted the safe and cash register of $140.

The robbers broke open two slot machines, removing the money, the amount of which is unknown. The robbery occurred shortly after the saloon had closed last midnight.

Toncic and Kanko were alone in the establishment when the holdup men entered. One concealed his face with a handkerchief and both carried revolvers.

PAIR LINKED TO RAIL

While one robber kept his gun pointed at Toncic and Kanko, the other produced a pair of handcuffs and linked the two together. A second pair of handcuffs was used to fasten the victims to the brass bar rail.

The robbers then proceeded to open the safe and cash register. Later they smashed open the slot machines. In leaving one of the men said to Toncic and Kanko:

"We hate to leave you this way, but we got to protect ourselves."

FRIEND FILES 'CUFFS

A friend of the two saloon men entered a short time later and discovered their predicament. He filed the handcuffs and released Toncic and Kanko.

Police from Woods Run station removed the handcuffs with their own keys. They believed the 'cuffs can be traced through the manufacturer's number.

The broken slot machines, police say, were confiscated.

The men, arrested after whisky was found in the saloon, were discharged today at a hearing in North Side Police Court before Magistrate John J. Sweeney. No evidence of a liquor purchase was given by Sweeney as reason for his action.

SPURNS LEGACY, HELEN HINTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Helen Wills Moody today branded as absurd the suggestion she would jeopardize her amateur tennis standing by accepting the $20,000 legacy bequeathed to her in the will of the late James D. Phelan, former United States senator.

The legacy was one of numerous bequests revealed when the former Senator's will was filed yesterday, disposing of an estate estimated at $10,000,000.

Immediately the question arose in tennis circles whether Mrs. Moody, women's national champion, would endanger her amateur status by accepting the gift, which the will said was in appreciation of her winning the tennis championship for California.

She declared:

"It couldn't possibly have anything to do with my amateur standing, and I think the

Ernest Tanzer, 18, of 1 Carson street, Bellevue, died early today in St. John's Hospital of injuries suffered August 11 when he fell 100 feet from a bridge while working on the new Ohio River boulevard, near Bellevue, according to the coroner's report.

IMPORTATION OF LABOR CHARGED

Employers on County Project 'Freezing Out' Pittsburgh Workmen, Young Says

Charges that out-of-town labor was employed on construction work on the Ohio river boulevard, and that local men cannot get jobs unless they live in commissary bunk houses, brought conflicting statements today.

A number of men, residents of the territory in which work is progressing, have been refused jobs unless they agreed to live in the bunk houses, according to Alderman George A. Young, president of the Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade. Unable to keep up their homes and pay the commissary charges they have gone without work while imported labor earns the wages which would ordinarily go to them, Young says.

The matter was brought to the attention of the County Commissioners, Young says, at the instance of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. A ruling was recently passed that future contracts be granted on the understanding that only local labor be employed on the jobs.

VANG MAKES DENIAL

Previous to this action, Young says C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Board of Trade cited specific instances of importation of cheap labor from Washington, D. C. and Detroit, to the county commissioners. No action could be obtained at the time, Young says.

Sharp denial came from George Vang, president of the Vang Construction Company who, with Booth & Flinn, hold the largest

Coolidge Urges Care In Selecting Nominees

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 16.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

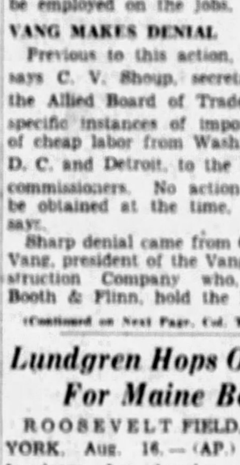
The right to vote is the very essence of the right to self-government. It is a privilege we are too prone to assume is self-existent and therefore unimportant. It is the foundation of our liberties. If this source be defiled, the whole body politic becomes contaminated.



Calvin Coolidge

At this season we are engaged in selecting candidates. Many of them are chosen by direct vote of the people. Those now nominated will dominate the government in a few months. They will then have charge of our destiny. If we wish to be in the hands of competent and worthy office holders we must act now. Election day may be too late. The beginning of good government is in good nominations. It is time we gave serious and conscientious attention to our right to vote by nominating the best qualified candidates.

The people may not always understand complicated questions, but they do know men. They can judge of character, ability and experience. Our government never needed good public officers more than now. The people can have them if they will take them. Unless we make our nominations on merit, public questions will not be decided on merit.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

RAILWAY DROPS 200 FOR YEAR

Between 200 and 250 motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railways Company were laid off today for a period of one year, according to Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the company.

At the expiration of the 12 months, conditions in the business will determine whether the men are to be given work or are to be removed permanently from the company's employ, Fitzgerald stated.

Falling off in business necessitated the move, according to the traction head. Use of one-man cars has reduced the number of men needed for the various runs, he said.

Recently the street car men by a close vote rejected a proposal for a six-day week to allow employment of more men.

R-100 REACHES HOME PORT

CARDINGTON, England, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Great Britain's giant dirigible, the R-100, came back home today after an 18-day trip across the Atlantic and back, to Montreal and other Canadian cities.

The dirigible passed up the Bristol Channel and across England to arrive over its mooring mast at 10:40 a. m. (5:40 a. m., Pittsburgh time).

Departure from St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, was at 3:28 p. m., eastern standard time, Wednesday night, the trans-Atlantic crossing of 3,287 miles being completed in 56 hours and 12 minutes at an average speed of 58 miles per hour.

The fastest crossing of the Atlantic by lighter than air craft was made in August, 1929, by the Graf Zeppelin, which needed only 55 hours and 25 minutes to travel 4,200 miles—nearly 1,000 miles more than the R-100 traveled—between Lakehurst, N.

Boy Flier to Hop For Kansas Today

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Edward Schneider, 18, of Jersey City, seeking a new junior transcontinental flying record, was to take off for Wichita today after an overnight stop here.

Schneider flew to St. Louis from Columbus, O., yesterday in 3 hours and 38 minutes. He is attempting to lower the coast-to-coast record made by the late Frank Goldsborough.

Policeman's Auto Stolen in Front Of Station

Patrolman D. Whitworth parked his automobile in front of the Center avenue station this morning and walked inside.

"Anything doing," he inquired of the sergeant.

"Nothing just now," the desk man replied.

Whitworth left only to return a moment later.

"I want to report my automobile stolen," he said.

Police were given a description of the machine and are searching for the nervy thief.

PLAYERS SCORN 300-1 SCALE

North Side "numbers" bookies and their customers went into a "huddle" yesterday to consider the "300-to-1 'doublet' and 'triplet'" payoff scale offered by North Side barons, and have apparently turned the proposition down.

This became evident today when a peep into the "numbers" cache revealed glum faces.

Those "in the know" point out there are two ways in which the North Side operators can continue to exist, namely: To return to the straight 600-to-1 scale, or to organize and control all other pools.

Reports believed started by operators, that all pools in the city were agreed on the reduced payoff scale were current today. But the players aren't taking them seriously. No siree!

A manager of a Fifth avenue restaurant complained that "numbers" writers were hurting his business, and police arrested Benny Saber, 17, of Carnegie. He was fined $10 by Magistrate Thomas Jones.

Archibald Roosevelt Escapes Drowning

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Archibald Roosevelt, son of the late President Roosevelt, and two companions narrowly escaped drowning in New York harbor Thursday evening when their canoe turned over, it was learned today. Waves from a schooner upset the craft, and a passing boat found the trio clinging to the sides of the canoe. Roosevelt and his companions were picked up and brought safely ashore.

TRAIN HITS CAR, 1 DEAD, 3 HURT

Two women and a man who were rendered unconscious in a fatal crossing accident at Dravosburg early today were saved by the presence of mind of Police Chief C. A. Livington, who flagged a second train approaching on the track on which the unconscious victims had been thrown. A three-months' old baby was killed in the crash.

Chief Livingston

The baby was James McCurry, Jr. His parents, James McCurry, 24, and Elizabeth, 21, and Mrs. McCurry's sister, Miss Helen Ruffing, 18, are confined to the McKeesport Hospital, suffering severe body bruises and shock.

They were riding in a machine driven by the husband when it was struck by an empty excursion train returning from Brownsville, Pa.

The automobile was hurled clear of the track and the occupants knocked unconscious. They were lying on the opposite track when Chief Livingston heard the whistle of the approaching train from Pittsburgh. He ran down the track and with the aid of a flashlight brought the train to a halt a short distance from the victims.

The child was dead when admitted to the hospital. It was said the condition of the others was not serious. The McCurrys live in Ohio avenue, Clairton, and Miss Ruffing in Monongahela City.

SHIP SINKING IN PACIFIC SEND SOS

Passengers and Crews Take to Boats as Sea Pours in; Rescue Vessels Far Off

BULLETIN.

SUVA, Fiji, Aug. 17.—(Sunday)—(AP.)—The master of the disabled British steamer Tahiti wirelessed at 12:30 a. m. today that passengers and crew were abandoning ship at 26 degrees 27 minutes south latitude, 166 degrees 5 minutes west longiture.

The message said the crippled ship's bulkheads were expected to give way any moment. A Norwegian ship, which passed the Tahiti yesterday and turned back to her assistance, was expected alongside at noon today.

International News Service.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 16.—An epic struggle between man and sea was being waged in the trackless wastes of the south Pacific today as the Royal Mail Steamship Tahiti, carrying nearly 300 pasengers and crew from Wellington to to San Francisco, wallowed in a sinking condition with a lost propeller, according to word received here.

With the ship's engine room flooded to a depth of 11 feet, and with no hope of immediate rescue in sight, every able man aboard manned the pumps in a desperate battle against the merciless sea.

The passengers, believed to include a number of Americans, stood by equipped with life-belts, prepared to take to the boats at a moment's notice.

The Tahiti, a 26-year-old twin-screw steel vessel of 7,898 tons, cast a propeller approximately 644 miles from Rarotongo in the Cook Islands group, far from the busy shipping lanes of the South Pacific. Fragmentary messages received from the captain of the steamer indicated she was helpless and in dire need of assistance.

Three ships are rushing to the Tahiti's aid at top speed, but even granting the weather remains moderately favorable, there seems little hope rescue vessels can

Lipton Arrives in Quest Of Yacht-Race Victory

By DAVID P. SENTER.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Sir Thomas Lipton, noted sportsman, arrived here today aboard the Leviathan on another crusade for the coveted America's Cup, emblematic of international yachting superiority, held for the last 79 years by the United States.

The 81-year-old British multi-millionaire yachting enthusiast appeared more feeble than on any of his previous pilgrimages in quest of the trophy, but his blue eyes still twinkled merrily and hope burned in his heart for victory.

"Shamrock V is a good boat," Sir Thomas said. "I think she will do the trick this time.

"I think it will be a good race, and may the best boat win. But if I do lose, I'll be back as soon as I can for another try."

The veteran yachtsman was transferred from the Leviathan to the municipal tug Macom at Quarantine, and escorted to the Battery by the mayor's reception committee to accompaniment of the usual demonstration by fireboats and other vessels in the harbor. Brass bands hurled stirring airs to a fog-cloaked sky as Sir Thomas disembarked from the Macom at the Battery, taking his seat in an official car for a triumphal parade.

U. S. DROUGHT RELIEF MAY BE OFFERED TO MORE STATES

AGRICULTURE AGENCIES RUSH AID

Montana's Plea Farm Board Buy Cattle and Sheep Weighed; Loans Problems

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Although rains have brought cheer throughout the nation's great agricultural regions and other showers are in prospect, President Hoover's program of drought relief through federal, state and local co-operation may be expanded to include at least 16 other states.

Mr. Hoover today awaited definite requests from governors of several states on the fringe of the drought area. Inquiries at the White House indicated that formal requests would be forthcoming.

While the Department of Agriculture attempted to define limits of the hardest hit areas as a basis for the Presidential plan, it is admitted many bad situations exist in states not represented at the governors conference.

MARYLAND COMPLAINS

The full story of the drought has not yet been told in Southern states. Unfavorable weather, it is said, may necessitate relief action being taken in at least three Southern states which hope to solve their own problems.

The first complaint of lack of an invitation from the President came from Gov. Ritchie of Maryland. The White House replied that reports showed some counties in Maryland badly affected, but not sufficiently to create a statewide problem. Maryland, however, will be welcomed in the fold.

Twelve governors originally were invited to co-operate and Tennessee later was included on request of Gov. Horton.

FARM AGENCIES ACT

With President Hoover at his Rapidan River camp for the week-end, federal drought relief plans were being carried forward by agricultural agencies in conferences with representatives of national farm organizations.

Advancement of allotments of federal aid road funds and the offer of the War Department to turn artillery ranges over to Virginia farmers for pasturage constituted the first concrete acts since the governors' conference.

The federal farm board was considering the appeal of Gov. Erickson, of Montana, for aid in saving thousands of head of cattle and sheep. Either feed must be imported or the livestock exported to other states with good pastures.

Erickson urged the farm board to buy the cattle outright, through subsidiary agencies, feed them and market them.

The loan problem, which has aroused critical comment from some governors, will be reconsidered by the federal government.

As soon as state drought-relief committees are named, President Hoover will invite the banking representatives on the committees to come to Washington and confer with the farm board and heads of the federal farm loan systems.

In the meantime, close watch was being maintained by government agencies on price fluctuations with a view to preventing profiteering.

The movement of fresh fruits and vegetables to market this season compares closely with last year and reflects only the usual seasonal changes, although the drought has reduced prospects for potatoes and sweet potatoes, it was said.

STILL FEEDIN' THE MICE :-: By Quin Hall

J., and Friedrichshafen, Germany. The Graf's speed was 75 miles per hour.

Crowds which had gathered from before dawn witnessed the arrival of the dirigible, which is the largest craft of its kind in the world. Lord Thomson, British Air Minister, headed the official welcoming committee. He himself was at the field since morning.

The dirigible in making the crossing traveled almost without deviation along the great circle route between the two places. At times with favorable winds it made as great a speed as 100 miles per hour, and at other times was slowed down by adverse winds to as little as 12 or 15 miles per hour.

Save for a rainstorm, which made rough going yesterday morning and caused some small tears in the fabric of the envelope, the return trip was made without incident. One of the ship's six engines, damaged on the trip over, was not in use at all, but through a large part of the return trip only three engines were used, so its lack was not felt.

Throughout the trip messages from abroad told of an enjoyable passage. Passengers were represented as wishing only that they might smoke. An accident to the ship's stove Friday, which necessitated cold meals during the latter stages of the trip, was accepted with good humor.

Woman Wandering In Street Identified

Whisky in 'Drunk' Game Fatal to Child, One Ill

GREENUP, Ky., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A child's game of "policeman and drunk" resulted in a fatality here when Everett Thompson, 4, died, physicians said, from drinking moonshine whisky.

Investigating officers said Everett and his 2-year-old sister had been selected for the roles of inebriates by their playmates. The children found the whisky in a patch of weeds, officers said, and the two drank some of it. The playmates placed them in an improvised "jail," but when they became ill aid was called.

The 2-year-old sister was expected to recover.

contracts for work on the new road.

"There is no truth in the statement that we bring men from out-of-town to work here when we can get local men to do it. The commissoary hut was necessary because so many local men, out of work, have no place to live. The highest number of men ever housed in the bunk house was about 50; we are now down to 10 or 15 and hope to do away with the commissary service this week."

Vang is employing between 75 and 100 men, he says, on a daily payroll of about $1,400. Of these, he says, the majority are local laborers. They earn the standard wage of $3.50 a day, he says. If they live in the bunk house, they pay $1.25 daily to the Carrado and Galardi Commissary for room and board.

WELFARE GROUPS REPORT

While no specific cases have reached the Family Welfare Association, reports have been heard of laborers being compelled to live at the commissary, according to Miss Eleanor Hanson, general secretary. Efforts have been made to obtain work for men on the Vang job, she said, but only those who daily stood about the construction work until a laborer quit found employment. Some were married men but were not forced to live at the commissary, she said.

The welfare department of the Salvation Army reported no cases have been brought to its attention. It was known, an official said, that out-of-town laborers were being employed.

Conference Favors Curb on Firearms

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws approved for submission to the legislatures of all states a firearm act which forbids carrying a concealed weapon "except in one's place of abode or fixed place of business" without a license. Twenty-eight commissioners voted for the law as drafted. Delaware, Georgia, New York and Porto Rico representatives voted against the proposal.

A uniform state air licensing act which amounts to an extension of the federal regulations to all states, was also approved for submission to the states.

HOOVER, LINDY AT CAMP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The Lone Eagle of the skies, bearing honors for his various achievements, rested today in the peaceful atmosphere of President Hoover's mountain retreat, engaging with the chief executive and federal aeronautical officials in a study of the government's aviation problems.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Mrs. Lindbergh, and the four members of the junior cabinet in charge of flying activities for the war, navy, commerce and post office departments, were among the week-end guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the Rapidan River camp.

The flier, who yesterday received a special congressional at the hands of President Hoover, came to camp by motor with Mrs. Lindbergh and other guests directly after luncheon at the White House, preceding their host, who was detained in the capital by late conferences.

The aviation officials came by air, however, landing at a temporary flying field 10 miles from camp, where the president's mail is delivered.

SKYLIGHT FALL INJURES TWO

Two children, injured when they fell through a skylight while playing on the roof of a vacant dwelling near their home late yesterday, were reported recovering in Mercy Hospital today.

The two, Frances Muraca, 10, rear of 44 Chatham street, and Nick Cerminaro, 7, of 708½ Wylie avenue, suffered deep cuts on the head, arms and legs. They lost their balance and fell about 14 feet to the floor while peering through the skylight at 35 Tunnel street.

A woman who witnessed the accident from the window of her home summoned police from the Central station. After forcing their way into the house, police took the victims to the hospital.

RECORD FLIERS FIND REWARD MEAGER

Manager Complains About Dim Financial Outlook as They Soar on in 27th Day

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine still were adding hours to their sustained flight record today, and Bill Pickens, their manager, still was complaining about what he called the meager financial returns harvested by Messrs. Jackson, O'Brine and Pickens.

Thus far Pickens had been able to close but four contracts, totaling about $1,800 for the fliers. This comprises "their sole reward" except for $1,000 they will receive from an oil company whose products they are using, Pickens complained.

PICKENS WAILS

He continued:

"Just to think, there are those two boys making the greatest endurance flight in history, and a great big New York company says $1,000 is too high a price to advertise one of its products. What those boys need is a high fence around their ship. The other night half of the people in St. Louis came out here and we didn't collect a dime. A free show and they all came out."

NO MYSTERY

St. Louis' "lack of financial generosity" is no mystery to Pickens. The city is "too close to big achievements in aviation," he said.

"Lindbergh spoiled you folks, and unless a show can be made to rival a trans-Atlantic crossing you are not interested—at least not financially."

SPURNS LEGACY, HELEN HINTS

SORRY IT AROSE

"I am very sorry that any such controversy should arise. There should be nothing said about it whatever. I do not wish it, and I am sure Senator Phelan would not have liked it."

The question was said to be without precedent in tennis, with the case of Bobby Jones a possible parallel in amateur sports. Jones some time ago refused to accept a palatial home tendered him by his Georgia admirers.

The exact wording of the will follows:

"To Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, in appreciation of her winning the tennis championship for California, $20,000 and Sigall's portrait of herself."

AMATEUR DEFINED

The definition of an amateur, as outlined in the rules of the International Lawn Tennis Federation, of which the United States Lawn Tennis Association is a member, follows:

"Any lawn tennis player is an amateur who does not receive, or has not received, directly or indirectly, pecuniary advantages by the playing, teaching, demonstrating or pursuit of the game."

Louis B. Dailey, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said the question probably would be referred to the amateur rule committee. He added:

VOICES NO OPINION

"Its a poser."

President Dailey refused to express an opinion. A prominent member of the rule committee, headed by Holcombe Ward, of New York, indicated that to compel Mrs. Moody to refuse the bequest, upon pain of professionalizing herself, would be going too far.

VOTE MACHINE CRITICS ACT

A special meeting of the executive committee of the Citizens' Voting Machine Committee, was to be held this morning in the office of the League of Women Voters, Peoples Savings and Trust Company, to frame an official statement on the action of the county commissioners in awarding the voting machine contract to the Poole Engineering Company, of Baltimore.

The committee recommended that the commissioners award the contract to the Automatic Voting Machine Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., in a report which said this company had been 35 years in the voting machine business, while the successful bidder never has built a complete voting machine.

State Senator Frank J. Harris is chairman of the committee, Mrs. John O. Miller is vice chairman, Mrs. John W. Lawrence is treasurer, and Mrs. Q. W. Hershey is executive secretary.

300 ABANDON SHIP AT SEA

reach the stricken ship's side before noon Sunday.

LIFEBOATS FOR ALL

Terror-stricken passengers, cheered but slightly by assurances of the ship's officers that the Tahiti's lifeboats were sufficient in size and number to guarantee safe rescue of all, were herded together on the boatdeck, their most cherished possessions in their arms, awaiting the expected word to take to the cockleshells of lifeboats when all hope of keeping the steamer afloat is gone.

The Tahiti, which was due at Rarotongo today, put out from Sydney, Australia, August 6, and from Wellington August 12. She was due in San Francisco August 29. The steamer, one of the largest plying between the Antipodes and the Pacific coast of the United States, is 460 feet long, 55.5 feet in beam, and 24.4 feet deep.

The propeller, according to wireless advices received here, was lost at 6:45 p. m. yesterday, at which time the engines were stopped. Since that hour, the steamer has drifted helplessly, with its crew working frantically to save the ship from founding. Not only is the engine room flooded to an extent bound to incapacitate the engines completely, but holds No. 3 and 4 are fast filling with water.

According to available information here, the Tahiti carried 128 passengers, a crew of more than 150 and a large cargo of mail.

The terse messages from the Tahiti's captain gave only scant clues to the drama being enacted on the broad Pacific. The ship apparently began to fill immediately after the propeller was cast, and after several hours of futile efforts to keep the seas from racing through the gaping aperture left in the stern, preparations were made to abandon ship.

A fairly heavy sea was running, the captain reported, with the barometer falling, indicating a change for the worse.

2 COYNE MEN GET STATE BERTHS

Schwartz, Laughlin Named Appraisers at $5,000; One Takes Job Davis' Kin Lost

Morris Schwartz, former theater owner, and Murray Laughlin, of the United States Labor Bureau, both political allies of State Senator James J. Coyne, have been appointed by Auditor General Charles A. Waters to vacancies on the board of mercantile appraisers at $5,000 a year, according to reports from Harrisburg.

One vacancy was created July 31, when Waters discharged David J. Davis, brother of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

Another member of the board was said to have received his discharge notice, effective yesterday, but has not announced the fact. Politicians believe he is A. L. Bowden, president of the board.

TAX WORKERS OUT

In addition to the two board members, Waters discharged four investigators in the inheritance tax division working out of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell's office and three clerks in the appraisers' office.

Waters has appointed, upon Coyne's recommendations according to report, George H. England, of the Twenty-seventh Ward, former police magistrate and James L. Griffen, of the Fourth Ward, former chief clerk in the city department of public works, to fill two of the vacant jobs in Mackrell's office.

Louis S. Schneider, Twenty-sixth Ward, has been promoted to chief clerk in the mercantile appraisers' office at a salary increase from $2,500 to $3,600 a year. He succeeds W. W. Poor, who was reduced to a clerkship at $2,500.

SCHNEIDER COYNE AIDE

Schneider was a lieutenant of Coyne's when the latter managed Senator Grundy's local campaign to succeed himself.

Employes discharged from Mackrell's office were James M. Rose, burgess of Braddock; C. D. Little, of Braddock; E. O. Kennedy, Twenty-seventh Ward, and Cecelia Bacher, relative of Joseph Engelsberg, Mayor Kline's Third Ward leader. Employes discharged from the mercantile appraisers' office were Walter Hosenfeld, former cashier; Morance Lemon, of McKeesport, and Harry C. Davies, of Allison Park.

PINCHOT, RIVAL ATTEND RALLY

FIRST TIME TOGETHER

It was the first appearance together of the two rivals, who waged vigorous campaigns before the primary, since a meeting of all the candidates at Pittsburgh in May. They constituted the chief objects of interest, although nearly all the members of the rest of the Republican ticket were also in attendance.

The meeting of the two gubernatorial candidates occurred only three days before the Supreme Court hears Brown's action to invalidate the perforated ballots cast in Luzerne County. The hearing is set for Tuesday at Philadelphia and if the Appellate tribunal upholds Brown's claim, Brown and not Pinchot will be The Republican nominee. Pinchot has pre-empted the Square Deal party, on which to run if he loses the perforated-ballot case.

LACKS SIGNIFICANCE

Because of the uncertainty of the situation, Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, has announced this year's rally at Fogelsville will not have the ranking of other years when it represented the formal opening of the Republican campaign. It was the first gathering, nevertheless, of all the Republican state-wide candidates since the primary and the meeting was given added interest by the attendance of both Pinchot and Brown, the first time in the state's political history that such a thing has happened.

Other candidates expected were Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, nominee for United States Senator; Gen. Edward C. Shannon, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and Philip H. Dewey, for Secretary of Internal Affairs. Judge George W. Maxey, nominated for justice of the Supreme Court, and Judge James B. Drew, for the Superior Court, as well as Judge William B. Linn, running for re-election to the Superior Court, were absent.

MAN DOUBLY WED SEEKS SOLUTION

Divorce to Solve Marital Tangle Discussed; Note Deepens Suicide Mystery

SPRINGFIELD, Vt., Aug. 16. — (AP.) — The tangled marital troubles of George J. Packard were nearer solution today but police and the Packard family still are anxious to ascertain the identity of the body buried as Mrs. Packard more than a year ago.

Packard, married a month ago after believing himself a widower, finds himself possessed of two "wives," the one he thought he buried as a suicide and the second whom he wedded this summer.

Sudden reappearance of the first Mrs. Packard gave police a mystery. When the body, now interred, was identified as Mrs. Packard No. 1, Packard identified the handwriting of a note at its side as that of his wife. Mrs. Packard admitted she wrote the note, but failed to state how it came to be found beside the body of the suicide. Packard was exonerated of any suspicion in regard to the dead woman.

TRIO MEET

The two Mrs. Packards met yesterday with the bewildered husband. Mrs. Packard No. 1 and her husband greeted each other in friendly fashion.

Mrs. Packard wept as she saw her two children, the baby failing to recognize her. Catherine Rockwell Packard, wife No. 1, discussed the possibility of divorce that Mrs. Packard might remarry Mrs. Packard No. 2.

In Concord, N. M., Robert B. (Romeo) King was taken in custody. Police believe he is the "Romeo" King Mrs. Packard admits she became friendly with after leaving her husband last summer.

TELLS OF THREAT

Mrs. Packard No. 1 told Sheriff Ernest H. Schonefield that when in Erie, Pa., she and King had a falling out. King warned her she might get "the same thing some of the rest of them got."

The sheriff considered this remark so significant he brought King to Springfield along with two others, Mrs. Packard No. 1 said had toured with them.

Meantime the mystery of the unidentified body irked police. It is buried in a grave marked by Mrs. Packard's headstone, and while an attempt was being made to unravel the mystery, States Attorney Lawrence C. Edgarton said he thought no member of the Packard family had anything to do with the girl found dead.

SLAIN MAN'S FILES SHOW GRAFT

Discoveries Reveal Strong Link to Jake Lingle Case; Canceled Checks Found

CHICAGO, Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Carefully preserved records of a slain gang leader were made public by the state's attorney's office last night, showing enormous receipts from liquor, gambling and vice interests on the one side of the ledger and substantial disbursements to judges, politicians and police on the other.

The canceled checks, notes and ledger sheets of Jack Zuta, vice overlord shot down in a Wisconsin dance hall recently, were found in a secret safe deposit box yesterday by investigators for the state's attorney's office assigned to solve the slaying of Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter.

ONLY PART REVEALED

During the day prosecutors refused to divulge the secrets they had found. Late last night they handed newspapermen photostatic copies of what they said were only a small part of the Zuta records.

The published records included the following items:

Canceled checks and notes aggregating $5,500, on which appear the name of a Municipal Court judge, who has been on the bench for many years.

A canceled check for $250 made out to a former judge of Municipal, Superior and Criminal courts.

An unpaid note for $600 on which appeared the name of a former police sergeant at one time assigned to investigation of vote frauds.

Checks totaling $600 either made payable to or indorsed in the name of a former state senator and West Side political leader.

Canceled checks of $500 and $100 indorsed in the name of an attorney who is the brother of a Circuit Court judge.

PROFITS REVEALED

A ledger sheet which is headed "period end, November 12 inclusive," shows receipts of $429,046.78 and net profits of $75,135.37. Investigators believe this was the record for one week of the gambling and bootlegging enterprises of the Zuta-Moran-Aiello gang.

One of the disbursements in this sheet—"East Chicago . . $3,500"—is believed to refer to officials of the East Chicago Police Station.

Patrick Roche, prosecutor's investigator, expressed the belief that the evidence wil have a definite relationship to the solving of the Lingle slaying. Police have investigated on the theory that Zuta, an ally of George (Bugs) Moran, plotted the assassination of Lingle, a friend of Al Capone, Moran's arch enemy.

Two threats against Zuta were found among his papers. One, written on a postcard, said:

"Your place next unless you close."

Penciled over this, apparently in Zuta's handwriting, was a large "O. K." Another warned him.

BAKER SUSPECT INDICTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. — (INS.) — Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate man, held in the Alexandria (Va.) jail for the killing of Miss Mary Baker, Navy Department clerk, was indicted for first-degree murder by a District of Columbia grand jury yesterday.

He was charged with having shot Miss Baker in the neck and with having strangled her. Trial probably will be held about the middle of October.

The long-postponed hearing to bring Campbell into the District of Columbia will be brought before U. S. Commissioner J. Barton Phillips on Wednesday.

Since the indictment and a ruling of District Judge Groner at Norfolk that the Virginia warrant under which Campbell is held was sufficient to warrant removal, it is expected Campbell will be ordered removed to the district jail at that time.

Although the girl's body was found in Virginia, just outside the Arlington National Cemetery, the prosecution has produced witnesses who declare the girl was attacked in Washington while she sat in her own auto near the Navy Department Building.

DOUBT BUCKLEY MURDER STORY

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Two Detroit detectives at Stryker, O., announced they did not want the man held there who is alleged to have confessed to the murder of Gerald E. (Jerry) Buckley, radio announcer, at Detroit several weeks ago.

Detectives said there were several discrepancies in the man's story. Despite the disbelief in the man's confession the detectives took him to Detroit last night.

Miller told detectives he obtained $25 for killing Buckley from a man whom he described only as a "Greek about 40 years old."

Miller said he shot the radio announcer and then returned to find his employer had disappeared and that he then fled in a yellow cab. Detectives said the flight of the murderer was made in a Checker cab.

Miller is also said to have admitted he had been taken to a hospital once for a sanity examination.

2 HELD IN 'PEN' FIRE INQUIRY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Investigation into the Ohio Penitentiary fire disaster of last April was intensified today since Warden Preston E. Thomas revealed that at least two convicts had been placed in city jail for questioning as to the cause of the catastrophe that cost the lives of 320 convicts.

First reports were that six prisoners were in the jail, but Warden Thomas said only two were held. Their names, the warden said, were Bernard K. Campbell and James H. Yeager, both from Cuyahoga County.

They were transferred from the penitentiary late Thursday night following an exhaustive investigation by Deputy State Fire Marshal Joseph Clear. Clear declined to say what evidence he had uncovered.

Indications were that the state fire marshal's investigators leaned toward the incendiarism theory. Should any of the prisoners be accused of plotting the disaster, they would face charges of murder, arson and manslaughter.

OAKLAND FIRE ROUTS SCORE

A score of persons were routed in night attire early today when smoke from a fire in a store at 601-603 Wilmot street, filled the apartments on the second and third floors of the building with smoke. The fire was confined to the P. H. Butler store on the first floor of the establishment, causing damage, according to police, estimated at $500.

Acting Lieut. Morgan O'Brien and Patrolmen William Tearmey and T. M. Donoghue entered the apartment and calmed the excited residents while they fled through smoke filled corridors.

Three East Liberty business houses were damaged by fire today. Believed to have started in the plant of the Liberty Candy Company, 5805 Penn avenue, the flames spread to the A. and P. chain store at 5807 Penn avenue and to the P. H. Butler store at 5809 Penn avenue. Total damage to the three places, police estimated at $4,000.

Most of the damage was in the Liberty Candy company plant, a one story frame building. The two other stores were but slightly damaged.

ALIENS BARRED FROM CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Immigration from continental Europe to this country is prohibited today as Canada's first move toward solving the unemployment situation.

Announcement of the ban was made yesterday by W. A. Gordon, minister of immigration and colonization, who said the only exception to the order would be admission of experienced farmers of suitable type.

Minister Gordon's announcement said:

"This policy is rendered necessary by reason of the unemployment in Canada. The purpose is to prevent persons from coming to this country who will not be able to find work upon arrival and to protect the people of Canada from the burden of such unemployment. We regard the present situation as temporary, but we propose to apply an effective remedy until unemployment conditions have improved."

Unemployment relief was the present conservative government's chief campaign pledge before the recent elections which put it in power.

COURT REFUSES BABY TEST BAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Charles Bamberger has been denied a circuit court injunction to restrain Mrs. Margaret Watkins from having further blood and other tests made in her efforts to straighten out the Bamberger-Watkins baby tangle.

The Bambergers and the Watkinses are involved in habeas corpus proceedings which demand the Bambergers surrender the baby they received from Englewood Hospital a month ago, in return for the one held by the Watkinses. Because an adhesive tape label bearing the name Bamberger was found on the Watkins baby, and vice versa, the Watkinses claim the Bambergers' child is theirs. Bamberger denies this and has refused to surrender the baby he has.

In today's petition, Bamberger alleged adequate tests have already been made and that additional tests might injure the child. He asked that the Watkinses be restrained from bringing eastern physicians here to examine the children and this request was likewise refused.

Like efficient police officers, Wagonmen George Wood and Lawrence Deszcz, of Central Station, are always prepared to meet emergencies. For this reason they were nonchalant when a difficult problem faced them during the early morning hours today.

Officers Wood and Deszcz had been ordered to remove a man from the roof of a building at 52 Chatham street. It was alleged he was disturbing the neighborhood by throwing stones into other people's bedrooms.

Wood climbed to the roof and approached the disturber. The man immediately threatened to leap to the ground four stories below if the officer came near.

Wood went into a huddle with his brother officer, Deszcz, who soon afterwards produced a long section of rope. Fashioning a lasso, Wood put Tom Mix to shame by capturing the man at the first throw and tying him up against a chimney. With the aid of Deszcz and two other officers the man was carried to the street and lodged in Central Station. He said he was Bazellio Zallo, 49, of 50 Chatham street. He will be held for observation.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Mary Lewis, opera star, was granted a divorce from Michael Bohnen, operatic singer whom she married in New York in 1927, after a 10 minute hearing yesterday on her complaint charging cruelty and desertion.

Miss Lewis testified Bohnen "quite frequently tossed both me and the furniture and dishes all about. Shortly before we separated he was in some trouble with a motion picture studio over his contract and proceeded to take his ill luck out on me.

"After he left I gave a dinner party and he came back. I begged him to stay out but he wouldn't. He went to New York and I went there to see him, but couldn't effect a reconciliation."

Miss Lewis said her husband, according to what she had "heard and read," is in Germany and "engaged to marry a German acrobatic dancer, known on the stage as La Jana."

First intimation that the celebrated "ideal romance," as theirs was described at the time they were married, was endangered, came a year ago when Miss Lewis filed a divorce suit which she later withdrew. Under a property settlement, Miss Lewis will receive $35,000.

AUTOS COLLIDE HEAD-ON; SIX INJURED

Victims Taken to Hospitals After Forest Hills Crash; Same Car Strikes Three

One man was critically injured and five other persons, one a woman, were hurt in a head-on collision of automobiles in the Ardmore boulevard, near Brynmawr street, Forest Hills, early today. The four occupants of one car were taken to the Braddock General Hospital, and the others received treatment at the Columbia Hospital.

Stanley Kenny, 37, of 525 Rose street, Wilkinsburg, who police said was driver of one car, suffered a fractured skull, and his condition was said to be critical at the Braddock General Hospital. His three companions were Earl Comp, 17, of 1410 Stokes avenue, North Braddock, condition serious; Edward Bauer, 20, of 4 88 Aloe street, and Edward Trusuella, 20, of 547 Rosedale street.

It is alleged that Seibert obtained an agreement with Harkins that after he learned to be a mechanic in the former's shop the latter was not to engage in business for himself in McKeesport for two years. On April 8 Seibert discharged Harkins, who is alleged to have gone into business for himself, using his wife's name, at 535 Evans street. A hearing will be held August 22.

VOTE TAX TEST CASE LISTED

A test case to determine whether a husband acting for his wife is included in recent rulings requiring persons to either pay their tax in person or sign an order authorizing another to pay it for them, is on file today in Common Pleas Court and will be heard in the fall.

Attorney J. Garfield Houston, in behalf of the elections committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association, filed an appeal from a decision of the Board of Registration Commissioners in refusing to strike off the registration list the name of Mrs. Grace Clementson, who was registered and voted in the Second precinct of the Third Ward last November. It was alleged she did not personally pay her tax, nor sign an authorization for it, her husband merely paying it while paying his own taxes.

ASKS $100,000 IN CLIFF CRASH

One hundred thousand dollars is asked for the deaths of her father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Earle A. Hayman, killed when their automobile went over the cliff along the Boulevard of the Allies to the B. & O. Railroad tracks 200 feet below, June 27, by Mrs. Manilva H. Gaffney, of Los Angeles, in suits on file today in Common Pleas courts against Mrs. Louise Peters, of McKeesport, and Phillip Zuckerman, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Gaffney says her father was driving west on the boulevard and that Zuckerman was driving east in a zig-zag manner. She says Mrs. Peters, also driving east, started to pass Zuckerman, when he swerved his car outward, causing her to cross over the center line and crash into the oncoming Hayman car. As a result, she says, the car of her father went through the guard rail and down the cliff.

PROOF REQUIRED ON VOTE BOXES

In the future aldermen and justices of the peace who have been paid for the custody of numerous ballot boxes in their bailiwicks will have to produce evidence that they have actual physical custody of boxes or the county controller will refuse to pay them.

DEMANDS ROAD PAY U. S. FUND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered the Etna & Montrose Railroad Company to pay $18,207.97 to the commission on or before September 24.

The sum represents the amount of excess net railway operating income received by the company as trustee for the United States.

It was further ordered that $14,100 be placed in a reserve fund as provided by Federal statute.

The $18,207.97 is excess income of the company during war years when it received aid from the government.

The commission stipulated that if the company disagrees with the findings of the commission, it may file protest on or before September 24.

The Etna & Montrose Railroad is 1.03 miles long, has four locomotives and employes three persons. It extends from Etna to Pine Creek and is controlled by the Carnegie Steel Company. It is 34 years old.

ALCOHOL UNIT MOVING EAST

Removal to Philadelphia Sunday of three truckloads of files will mark the virtual passing of the industrial alcohol permit section of the prohibition enforcement unit from this city, which numbers some of the largest users of industrial alcohol in the country.

Thirty-five office workers, mostly young women, also will be transferred to Philadelphia under orders of S. O. Wynne, newly-appointed supervisor of permits in the third district, including Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

The shift will mean a delay of 48 hours in obtaining industrial alcohol permits for the large manufacturing industries of this district, it is said.

Employes who will remain here will be principally warehouse watchmen and gaugers.

CHURCH ROSTER SHOWS LOSS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, through the Rev. Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of its general assembly, announced the total communicant membership for the year ended March 31, this year, was 1,984,108, a decrease of 20,359 from the previous year.

Two factors are mentioned to account mainly for the decrease. One is that Easter, when large numbers of members were accepted, was included within the last church year. The other is the increasingly rigid requirements for the retention of names on the communicant membership rolls.

The total number of Sunday School members enrolled was 1,596,030, a net increase of 717. The actual increase, it is stated, is much greater, but the figures are held down by the increasingly rigid standards of enrollment.

The number of churches stands at 9,327, a decrease of 34. The total number of ministers is 9,987, increase 21.

The total contributions for all purposes was $63,038,063, a decrease of $3,065,047.

Saloon Advertises Self Into Trouble

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—In this case it didn't pay to advertise. Under "business opportunities" in the Bergen County Record appeared an advertisement of a saloon for sale. "Doing $40,000 a year business; never any legal difficulties," said the ad. But prosecutor West promises a close watch hereafter on the thriving place.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM TALK; NEW PICTURE REVIEWS

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

"Hey, you:

"I found out more about Rudy than you did, you loafer. He got his hair cut in the William Penn the last day he was here, and he told the barber to cut it short, even as you and I. And the barber tossed away the clipped curls. Just as if they were yours or mine. I found out, too, that Rudy has his shirts made to order, for some reason or other, and that he was very polite and gushy to all the local gals he met, but that he didn't stumble for any of 'em.

"Yours for bigger chimneys.

"ELIM WHEEL."

Things are moving ahead steadily on the George Westinghouse Memorial in Schenley Park, but the tree surgeons are being bothered by mischievous, fully-clad youngsters, who sneaked around one night and ripped the cement out of a huge sycamore which is to be part of the memorial. One stuffed-celery spy was out there the other day and he reports that a huge willow, which is to be part of the background, is already filled with cement and resembles, as you might jolly well have guessed, an inviting slice of stuffed celery. He added, seriously, that the entire picture is one of beauty.

"American Youth" is at ease in the museum, ready to take his place in the memorial. You may remember that "American Youth" was agreed upon as the substitute for the gayly unclad nymph which was in the original plans. The nymph was ejected, so to speak, because she was (we shall not mince words) nude. "American Youth" is wearing clothes. And if we were an editorialist and opposed to the Westinghouse Memorial (which, of course, we aren't) we'd point out that the youngsters who ripped out the cement also were wearing clothes.

When Mr. T. W. Dawson, a permanent resident of the William Penn Hotel, wants service, the bellhops speed into action, for Mr. Dawson and Mrs. Dawson are their favorites. Each summer Mr. Dawson takes the bellhops and his other friends at the hotel to his summer home near Scottdale and plays host for the day, thus reversing their positions. This summer the date is August 24 and the "bells" are pruning their appetites already in anticipation of the Dawson repast.

Among the Pitt students who received degrees at the commencement program recently was a young Negro, Samuel H. Cooke. He speaks five languages, including Chinese and Hebrew. He worked his way through college by cooking the meals of three physicians who together maintain an apartment. Among whites and Negroes he is no ordinary person.

The caption for this paragraph should be, "Of such stuff are heroines made." Miss Agnes Riley, an attache of Carnegie Museum, was driving her car along the museum driveway the other day when a mouse scampered into the path of the machine. Quickly Miss Riley jammed on the brakes and brought her car to a stop, saving the life of the mouse, which continued to scamper on without thanking his benefactress. But the reason Miss Riley so acted was this: She thought the mouse might have been an escaped specimen from Rheinold Fricke's collection in the museum.

Indians Are Coming Again As Movies Turn Back To Old West

By HARRISON CARROLL,

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.

When I was a youngster, nearly every picture had Indians in it. Now, after several years of absence from the screen, they are coming back. I ran through a list of current productions with this result; Dick Arlen's, "The Law Rides eWst," will employ Navajos; Gary Cooper's, "Fighting Caravan," Crows and Blackfeet; Universal's serial, "The Indians Are Coming," Sioux; I-K-O's, "Cimmarron," Osages; M. G. M.'s, "Billy the Kid," Navajos; Cecil B. De Mille's forthcoming "Squaw Man," Blackfeet and Shoshones; Will Boyd's, "The Painted Desert," Hopis; Fox's, "The Big Trail," Shoshones, Arapahoes, Crows, Cheyennes and Blackfeet; and Fox's "Arizona Kid," Piutes.

Gary Cooper

Several thousand Indians in all will be used in these pictures.

ANOTHER SONG

Apropos of Scotch jokes, Robert Woolsey is singing a Scotch song in "Half Shot at Sunrise." It was written by Harry Tierney, who titled it "Nothing but Love."

I know I've heard Scotch jokes that were much worse than this before.

MARY'S SIDELINE

The craze for miniature golf has lured Mary Pickford into the business. She is building an expensive 18-hole course on the edge of Beverly Hills, and will operate it as a sideline to her film work. Mary is a canny business woman, and has widespread investments.

Mary Pickford

A great many of the film people play this game. You can see them almost any time of the day or night on the courses.

Speaking of miniature golf, there's a course opposite Paramount which calls itself "El Toro" (The Bull).

They say confession is good for the soul.

HE'S SUBTLE

Will Rogers is one actor who makes no pretext about letting his director know when it is time to call it a day. Directors engrossed in their work are sometimes lax about realizing that it is the dinner hour and actors usually start a campaign for dismissal by looking at their watches and cracking about how dark it is outside. However, this is not Rogers' method. He merely collects his wardrobe and makeup box and, as he walks away, innocently inquires, "What time tomorrow"? And he usually gets away with it.

Kennywood Plans Closing Carnival

Mardi Gras atmosphere is promised in the second annual Kennywood Park carnival, August 25 to 30. An automobile will be given away each night and all guests going to the park in costume will be given free amusement tickets. On Labor Day, the close of the 1930 season, an automobile also will be awarded. Jayne Jarrell's Gypsy Revue will be heard in four concerts in the band stand tomorrow afternoon and evening. Next week the same free aerial attraction that has been shown will be presented.

Roosevelt Seeks Report on Ewald

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP.) Gov. Roosevelt took the first step toward what may be a state investigation of alleged corruption in New York City affairs when he asked New York's district attorney, Thomas T. C. Crain, for all records and a full report on the Ewald case. The governor refused to comment on his action.

Roosevelt has long been pressed for an investigation of conditions in New York City, both by Republican leaders of the legislature and by private individuals in the city.

Heroine Fair

Sally Starr is the heroine fair in Eddie Quillan's new comedy, "Night Work," now on screen in the Sheridan Square.

THIS 'COMMON CLAY' IS LIVING THING IN THE PENN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Common Clay," screen adaptation of Cleves Kinkhead's play, which some years ago won a Harvard prize, opened yesterday in the Penn. It is crowded with sentiment; it seeps with melodrama. But, in a way, it is a glorious picture. It is breathing, living. It is of the stuff of which life itself is made.

Like life, however, its story isn't all so new. It has been done in one phase or another in the movies many times. Yet seldom, if ever before, has it been done so well.

A pretty girl, with a past—how ominous this sounds!—runs into romance with a handsome boy of wealth. But the boy's father will not hear of it. He wants to buy the girl. But it isn't the gold she is after. "I'm proud of my baby," she says (And you're glad she is. It has such big, wondering eyes).

WITHAL, THE RAINBOW

The girl's pride is idealistic and fanatical. More, it is something deeper. Almost alone, almost to the wall, she fights them—the father, the son and the courts. She fights them tearfully, emotionally, dramatically; fights them fearlessly withal until fade-out time sneaks in with a brand new rainbow.

Constance Bennett portrays the heroine, the role that Jane Cowl essayed on the stage. There is a strange grandeur to some of her emotional outbursts. It is with terrific earnestness that she gets over the idea that the best families and the worst may both be "common clay."

Beryl Mercer is present in another "little old lady" portrayal. She shrouds every word, every gesture of her character in a mantle of reality. She makes you believe in the make-believe. She is a mistress of simplicity and sincerity.

A CIVILIAN NOW

Lew Ayres, of "All Quiet On the Western Front" fame, is the leading man. He appears well in evening dress and acts well enough—as an actor! Tully Marshall, as an attorney, introduces a slight comedy element.

The sophisticated, or rather, the over-sophisticated, may have a quiet sneer for this film. But they can't elude it in real life. Common clay is everywhere. Human weakness crouches on many door stoops.

Ted Claire is on the stage in "Cheer Up." 'Tis a lively show. And Mr. Claire is a clown and a showman. He's one of the best in this master of ceremonies parade. A number of entertainers, including Spotty, a dog, figure in the revue in a large way.

Wild Oscar's organ presentation features a happy tribute to Charles Danver, newspaper columnist. There is a song by Mr. Danver on the organ and there is a picture of Mr. Danver on the screen. Both claim a lot of applause.

David Pesetzki entertains with an overture.

MISS GRIFFITH STARS IN PICTURE IN HARRIS

Corinne Griffith comes to the screen in the Harris today in "Back Pay," the story of a girl who finds love an exacting creditor. Grant Withers and Montagu Love are in the cast. Victor Graff is on the stage.

"Unguarded Girls" is to remain on the Pitt screen for another week. Beginning with a Sunday midnight show tomorrow, performances will be for men only.

Eddie Cantor is the current feature on the Stanley stage. The screen has Jack Oakie in "The Sap from Syracuse."

Dancing Tonight Aboard Roosevelt

Johnny Jones will have charge of an old-fashioned dance on the steamer Roosevelt tonight. The boat will leave the McCandless street wharf, Allegheny River, at 8 o'clock and the foot of Wood street, in the Monongahela, at 9, and then proceed down the Ohio. Sunday there will be excursions down the Ohio at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

COPYRIGHT 1930 DAILY MIRROR INC.

Lines to an Unapproachable One

I builded a ladder to reach her
And reaching her, found it in vain,
The structure, quite shaken, makes me so forsaken
So I'll tear down my ladder again.

I shopped 'mid the stars for her favors,
Found the prices exceedingly high,
And the Gods thought I'd better return and forget her
And, well, wotthehell, so did I.

Since penning this moronic drivel,
I've found that strange things DO occur,
So hand me those tools and I'll show you how fools
Build ladders to heaven and her!

—Zico.

Oh, Mr. Vizetelly!

A New York newspaper in reporting the passing of Paddy Roche, said in part:

"Roche flourished in the days of the old Tenderloin before there were any Broadway columns to make him famous. Roche was a Broadway big shot when sport meant big shot, and spree meant whoopee."

You mean, then, that whoopee isn't 300 years old as Mr. Vizetelly, of the Standard Dictionary, announced?

Show Business

Helen Menken is one of America's major stars. But, as Miss Menken was saying the other night:

"No matter how big you think you are in this business there is always that devastating problem 'What will I be doing next year this time—what show—what job?'"

Miss Menken, it appears, is seeking a job. And hasn't a thing to look forward to—and is forced, mind you, to give auditions! She had to try out for Arthur Hopkins the other day for his revised version of "Torch Song."

And Miss Menken failed to get the assignment—because she cannot sing.

So a lesser-known actress will get it—because of the song that must be sung in the piece. And it should give you the shudders when you pause to recall that Miss Menken was cheered in such plays as "Congai," "Infinite Shoeblack," "The Captive" and "Seventh Heaven!"

For the Records

Whether or not it has been chronicled before we do not know. At any rate, W. C. Handy, the sepia song genius, coined the word "blues," but when he first employed it, he did not intend to mean that "blues" was "hot music" or "torch" ditties.

Handy's orchestra wore blue coats, among other apparel, and his men once were known as Handy's Blues." Then he wrote torrid-tempo'd melody which he called "Handy's Blues" and later, his grand number, "The Memphis Blues."

Thus the word "blues" was originally the nickname of an orchestra because it wore blue coats.

Swifty

Take it from George A. Stark, of the Detroit Athletic Club group. When Baird Leonard was recently appointed dramatic critic for Life, she received the following telegram from Irene Franklin:

"I hear you got Life. No girl deserves it more."

By Way of Report

There is a phoney in the town who took too many chances just to impress pretty girls. He asked them to name the show they wanted to see and then he got them passes. He called press agents and said: "Please leave two tonight for Winchell" (or the name of any dramatic critic) and as a rule when the girls called for them the tickets were there. The phoney would tell the girls: "They will be in the name of (the critic) and he explained that he got the critic to get them for him. This invariably made the girls think that the pass-getter was a bigger shot than they first supposed.

Well, the other night during a performance two girls were arrested for getting the tickets under false pretenses, and in their hysteria they named the phoney, who comes up for a hearing next week.

Is My Face Red?

To hear Mr. Walter Trumbull, of the Dallas newspapers, tell it: "Among the snappiest dressers in New York are Mayor Walker, Damon Runyon and Walter Winchell. The latter goes to his daily toil in a double-breasted, beautifully tailored white linen suit, black and white shoes and a Panama hat."

What! no sox?

Add Bad Breaks

Similar tales have been told. This one, however, still is causing gab along the Canyon, where the pair were well known. She is a show gel and her admirers showered her with coin when she told them she wanted to get rid of her husband, who didn't want to lose her.

After spending $5,000 to "frame" him for divorce evidence, she eventually got the divorce.

Three weeks later he died!

Heheheh

Thank Louis Reid for the information concerning Sir Harry Lauder, who, when asked what his favorite Scotch story is, replies:

'NIGHT WORK,' PICTURE IN SHERIDAN, HAS GOOD POINTS

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, JR.

Baby interest, romance, parent love, music and character actors, one with a distinct Shavian flare, go to make of "Night Work," showing in the Sheridan Square, a good picture. That, in spite of poor sound reproduction.

Eddie Quillan, male lead, is a gullible little window dresser for a big department store. He earns his $20 a week because the big boss uses him as a buffer when people complain. They stage a big act and Eddie gets fired—until the customers leave.

Unwittingly, he pledges himself to donate $10 a week to a high-hat orphan asylum. This while he's admiring a nurse and orphan decoy, while a high-pressure social worker talks. At the home the next day, instead of explaining his way out of it, he promises to support a specific baby. It all ends when he undertakes to support, not only the baby, but the nurse, too.

In between times, there are society shots, baby shots, and songs in the palatial garden of the asylum. Sally Starr goes over big as the nurse. Frances Upton takes you right back to "Pygmalion" in her part as a shop girl. Robert Edeson growls his way to your heart as the big boss.

POWELL CELEBRATION, 'DAWN PATROL' IN ENRIGHT

By KAYE GODARD

Dick Powell's fifteen hundredth performance in Pittsburgh is being celebrated on the Enright stage. In the show there's a chap in a vividly striped blazer who juggles tennis balls and Indian clubs in a nonchalant manner, while uttering numerous clever gags. Olive Faye, with a babyish voice, sings a few songs in a creditable way and then proves to an unsuspecting audience that she can dance. Dick, himself, is at his best when he gives some sleepy choruses of "Swinging in a Hammock."

The screen presentation, "Dawn Patrol," features Richard Barthelmess in a portrayal of the ghastly routine of the life of the World War aviators. With Neil Hamilton and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., he shows the hard-boiled attitude of an air organization at the front. There are endless cycles of new recruits, first flights, cruel deaths, and more new recruits. With a gay toast "to the next man to die" and a shout for "happy landings" the men, in this area that is full of the deafening throb and hum of airplane propellors, are masking their bitterness against the whole thing.

Johnny Mitchell at the organ, and short subjects, complete the bill.

NEW HOSPITAL FOR NEGROES

The former Montefiore Hospital Building in Center avenue opposite Herron avenue, has been purchased by the Livingston Memorial Hospital. It will be operated as an institution for Negroes. The Montefiore Hospital has been using a new building in Fifth avenue, Oakland.

The property includes three acres of ground, a three-story hospital with a capacity of 65 beds, a nurses' home and smaller buildings. The hospital building is being modernized.

The price of the property is $100,000, including a $25,000 gift by the Montefiore Hospital. Agreements have been signed and deeds will be passed September 2. Homer S. Brown is the attorney for the purchasers.

SHOES THAT SQUEAK PURSUE LUPE IN ALDINE

By MILDRED FILLMORE

"Hell Harbor," one of those tropical melodramas where everything is hot but the movie itself, is the current attraction in the Aldine. The picture goes a long way in photography; it is colorful and that sort of thing—but when it comes to story interest it just isn't there.

Lupe Velez is the heroine. She has feet that are never still. Jean Hersholt is a bad, bad trader. Worse, he wears shoes that squeak. John Holland is present as the hero, alert when danger confronts him or the heroine.

This heroine is supposed to be a descendant of the old pirate, Morgan. The bad trader wants to marry her, but she'll have none of him. So when Mr. Holland comes she figures that he, in some way, shall be the implement of the fate that saves her. And, as things turn out, he is.

The film is a melodrama. There is a great display of knives, and murder is done. There is lust for gold and a brute who wields a big whip against a seemingly defenseless maiden.

Lupe sings a song, and some incidental music by a strange orchestra is introduced. The best thing about the production is the photography and Mr. Hersholt's acting. The picture, we understand, was made somewhere around Tampa, Fla.

There is an all-barkie, all-dog comedy on the bill that is a wow.

FIVE DETOURS ELIMINATED

Five detours removed in Western Pennsylvania, only one new detour established anywhere in Pennsylvania, and no oiling anywhere in the state is the way the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh sums up this week's detour report from the Department of Highways.

The new detour is placed on the Lincoln highway in the eastern end of the state. It is at Mountsville, less than a mile long, and is routed over a macadam road.

The following detours were removed: Route 711, between Normalville and Indian Head; Route 861, between New Bethlehem and Leatherwood; Route 8, between Belle Valley and Wattsburg; Route 78, between Grove City and Centertown; Route 18, in Greenville Borough.

Will Rogers Says:

MINDEN, Nev., Aug. 16.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Just coming through that Yosemite Park and passed those giant redwood trees. Fred Stone proposed that there is where these tree sitters ought to be located. And say, you talk about a mountain. Just composed of one solid rock, why it's right in there. Coolidge's 500 words of Republican history of America would get lost on this boulder. This rock is big enough to reproduce a Hiram Johnson anti-treaty speech. John W. Davis is in the park somewhere and the rangers are looking for him. They don't allow dogs or Democratic candidates in there.

Yours,

WILL

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question—Do you approve of Federal intervention to prevent excessive food costs, likely to be levied following crop shortage due to drought?

MISS MARY CLUNAN, saleswoman Mt. Washington —Why of course. If there isn't some kind of intervention the prices are going to go too high for comfort and then everyone will suffer.

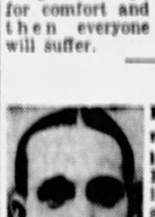
Miss Clunan

MISS JEAN SMALL, saleswoman, East End —Why, yes. If there isn't some kind of interference before long the prices are going to go higher. Everyone suffered enough because of this drought and high prices would be further discomfort.

Miss Small

C. J. JOYCE, salesman, Mt. Washington. —I certainly do approve of Federal intervention in regard to excessive food costs so that a certain few will not profit at others' expense.

C. J. Joyce



B. G. Schubert

B. G. SCHUBERT, shop manager, Oakland—Yes, I do. Farmers are going to step in and take advantage of the drought to make a lot of money if someone or something doesn't stop them.

Miss Crowley

MISS M. CROWLEY, assistant shop manager, Oakland.—I approve of any move that is going to keep prices from going higher and if Federal intervention will do that, then I am in favor of it.

Miss Bennett

MISS BARBARA BENNETT, saleswoman, Hazelwood. — Yes, I think there should be intervention. The unemployment situation would demand it sufficiently even if nothing else would.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgher Weds Today At Shore

Fall weddings have already begun! For with a delightful chill in the late August air, we're all in a gay autumnal mood.

And the final days of August will boast of several weddings of note in society circles. One of them is taking place today at Cape May, N. J., at the summer place of the Kenneth Raffertys of Pittsburgh.

The bride is Bernice Taylor, sister of the Franklin McCawleys of Forrest Hills, L. I., and the bridegroom is Alan Donnelly, of Pittsburgh, brother of the Rafferty's.

The wedding is taking place this afternoon in the church of St. Mary's Star of the Sea.

Franklin McCawley, of Forrest Hills, L. I., will give his sister-in-law in marriage, and Mary Ewing Rafferty, daughter of the Kenneth Raffertys, is the bride's only attendant.

A small reception is to follow the ceremony in the home of the Raffertys.

The guests include the Franklin McCawleys, of Forrest Hills, L. I.; Mrs. Robert, of Chicago; Mrs. David Dick, of Cobourg, Ont., and Miss Natalie Donnelly, of Pittsburgh, all sisters of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin J. Donnelly, of Pittsburgh.

Another wedding took place today in Pittsburgh, Elizabeth Alexander Chalters, daughter of the Samuel B. Chalterses, of Bigelow boulevard, became the bride of Richard Patterson Snyder, son of the C. E. Snyders, of Schenley Farms Terrace, this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock, in the Third United Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Dr. William M. Woodfin officiating. Only the immediate families and a few friends attended the simple ceremony.

Bride Today

After a wedding trip the young Snyders will be at home in Pittsburgh after October 1.

Many entertainments have been given for the bride. Mrs. J. Clifford Evans and Miss Ruth Pugh gave a tea, and Mrs. Howard Braun gave a tea. Rhoda Gamble entertained with a bridge luncheon, and so did Mrs. William Whitcomb. The Paul M. Skooglunds entertained at a bridge.

On Tuesday night the Solon Armour Persons gave a dinner dance, and Thursday night Elizabeth Goehring gave a spinster dinner in her home, Center avenue; and Robert Boyd gave the bachelor dinner in the Wildwood Country Club the same evening.

Yesterday society leaders at exclusive Newport welcomed Vice-President Charles Curtis, who'll be feted this week-end at the resort. His visit to Newport is the first of a ranking national official since that of Vice-President Schuyler Colfax in 1875. He's the week-end guest of Mrs. George Mesta, widow of the late George Mesta, of Pittsburgh, Washington and New York.

Honor Leader

A public reception yesterday by Mayor Mortimer A. Sullivan marked his arrival. A bouquet of American beauty roses was presented to Mrs. Mesta.

Last night he was guest of honor at The Rocks, the Clewis mansion, where Mrs. Mesta is summering with her brother-in-law and sister, the Robert J. Adamses, at a dinner party. A tea was also given in his honor yesterday afternoon, at Bonnicrest, with Mrs. Stuart Duncan as hostess, and last night he attended a ball given by the Henry Walterses at Sherwood.

Today Mrs. Mesta's guest is honor guest at a reception given by Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt, president of the Newport County Women's Republican Club. This evening he will be honored with a dinner given by former Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtis James at Beach Hill House. And today Mrs. Vanderbilt Church will drive Mrs. Mesta and Mrs. Adams and Mr. Curtis from the Newport horse show to the Children's Fair at Oakland farm, the estate of the Vanderbilts, in a coach and four. At the horse show, Mrs. Leona Curtis Knight, daughter of the distinguished visitor, is exhibiting her horses.

Varied Program

Mrs. Mesta and Mrs. Adams have been prominent among the hostesses of the summer colony. Their Independence Day celebration, with a ball and fireworks, was one of the most notable events of the season. They are planning the purchase of a villa for future seasons.

Another fall date has been named by a bride-to-be. Florence Eleanore Bingay, daughter of the Robert V. Bingays, has selected October 18 as the date for her marriage to Paul Aitkenhead, of Lafayette, Ind. The ceremony will take place in the evening at the Bingay estate, Acadia Lawns, on the Perry highway.

Autumn Wedding

A member of our younger set will share honors with an Ardmore girl at a dinner dance in the fall. On Monday evening, September 8, the J. Howard Pews, of "Knollbrook," Ardmore, will give a dinner-dance in honor of their niece, Ceora J. Hufnagel, daughter of the Frederick B. Hufnagels, of Sewickley, and Catharine McCormick Anspach, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Brooke M. Anspach, of Ardmore.

Mrs. Hufnagel and her daughter will go East early in September to be guests of the Pews. And later in the month Ceora will return to Smith, Catharine Anspach will make her debut this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. David Morrison Jones, of Baum boulevard, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Jones, to Winfield M. McAlister, son of Mrs. Olive McAlister, of Wilkinsburg, which took place yesterday morning in Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church. Mr. and Mrs. McAlister will live in Callowhill street.

Miss Sarah Katherine Lytle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Penney Lytle, of Monongahela, Pa., and Hugo Holly Hanft, of Chicago, son of Judge and Mrs. Hugo O. Hanft, of St. Paul, Minn., are being married this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the garden of the Lytle home with the Rev. William F. McKee, of the Monongahela Presbyterian Church, as officiant. Summer flowers, trees and foliage form the setting for the ceremony.

Garden Wedding

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her father, is wearing ivory satin, fashioned with a high waist-line, long sleeves, and a circular court train. Her veil of rose point lace over tulle falls from a coronet of lace, caught with orange blossoms. She is carrying orchids and gardenias.

The bride's sister, Mrs. John Shaw Campbell Herron, as matron of honor, is wearing yellow organdie fashioned with short puff sleeves, a high waist-line and long full skirt, and a hat of black horsehair braid and black lace mitts. She is carrying an arm boquet of garden flowers and roses.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. F. Dranke Pinkney, of Ridgewood, N. J., Mrs. Otis Hovey, of Harrisburg, Miss Marie D. Chalfant, of Pittsburg, are wearing similar gowns, developed in green organdie, and are wearing black horsehair braid hats and black lace mitts, and are carrying garden flowers and roses.

Quaint Gowns

Nancy Anne Wine, of Connellsville, in pink organdie, is flower girl.

Richard Jones, of Pittsburgh, is best man, and John Shaw Campbell Herron, of Monongahela; Murray Lanpher, of Davenport, Ia.; William Way Walker, of Elizabeth, and Robert Gemmell, of Pittsburgh, are ushers.

A reception is to follow the ceremony. After a motor trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Hanft will be at home in Chicago in early September.

Yesterday, Mrs. Lytle gave a luncheon for her daughter and her attendants and last night Mr. and Mrs. Herron gave the rehearsal dinner in the Monongahela Valley Country Club. A party in the Urban room of the William Penn Hotel, given by Miss Chalfant and Mrs. Hovey, followed.

The bride is a graduate of Winchester School and Vassar; the bridegroom of Shattuck Military Academy and the University of Minnesota. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

AUTUMN MOON TO REVEAL A NEW EVENING SILHOUETTE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, AUG. 16.—New shadows will dance through the night when the first crescent moon of autumn lights the fashionable world. The prediction is founded on the silhouette seen emerging in a graceful, fluid form distinguishing evening gowns of late creation. With consummate ease the material is manipulated to form a soft bodice, mold the hips and gradually attain a wide, flowing hemline which is almost universally of even floor length. Pleats are a favorite medium for attaining this effect, sometimes being pressed or stitched down to a point well below the knees. Again the material is pleated to radiate from a fitted hip yoke to attain a gradual flare. Where stiff material is employed the wide hemline is more definite, the impression being attained by masses of the material itself or again extended by means of a horsehair foundation. Although these changes are not radical they are certainly sufficient to give the evening mode of 1930 a distinct character that is altogether captivating.

IN CREATING A GOWN for Mrs. Milton Holden, Molyneux gave current recognition to this trend. Note in drawing here the ease with which the model of blue printed chiffon attains skirt fullness. Enhancing the graceful quality of the gown is a cape of the same material that may be tied over the shoulders or removed according to the discretion of the wearer.

ANOTHER MODEL which remarks that cape effects are still shouldering style responsibility for many costumes is the afternoon ensemble from Worth. It is of black crepe de chine and is worn under a short sleeveless jacket which has a short cape buttoning in front.

FIREMEN RACE FOR HONORS

The Brackenridge Volunteer Fire Department walked off with honors at the speed races of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association convention yesterday.

The only department that competed with the Brackenridge volunteers was the Parnassus department. The races were run on a 30-foot stret. Judges, with a stopwatch, accompanied the trucks.

A mummers' parade in which several thousand visiting firemen took part, last night closed the convention.

The afternoon program was given over to races, both for speed and hill climbing, and first aid demonstrations by a mine safety appliance concern.

MILLVALE ROAD LINK OPENED

After six months' operation, work is nearly complete on the concrete road, connecting Millvale with the Babcock boulevard. The road, being built for the county by Michael H. Parish, Inc., contractors, follows the course of the old Millvale road.

The road is 27 feet wide and will allow three traffic lines. Three concrete bridges have been built where the road crosses Girty's Run. Traffic already is passing over the stretch while the cleanup work is being completed. The cost of the improvement was $147,071.

Adams, in Drunken Stupor, Annoys Raquel

CHAPTER XXVIII.

When Bertie Adams threw off his ennui and ceased being a scoffer at life, he could be very attractive, Raquel decided. He was likable. He had an infectious laugh. He reminded her of a finely tempered steel blade: sure of himself, even when he bent.

"We'll dress for the races," Greta told Raquel. "Exactly as if we were going to Longchamps or one of the other swell French tracks."

"Yes, we ought to" Raquel welcomed any chance to delve into the closet with the yards of bewildering clothes. Alphonse would want them to look their best.

Greta thought Raquel should try a frock of black and white, a striking creation that carried out the idea of the modernists. And a svelte black coat with a silver fox collar.

"I'll wear this periwinkle blue," Greta said. "It makes me look as if a swear word would cause me to swoon."

She hailed Bertie when they joined him on deck.

"Wouldn't you think Kris Kringle had given us a millionaire for a bangle?" she asked.

"You'll do," he said to Greta. "But Miss Rojos—if Kris Kringle ever got a peep at her, he'd hang himself on her Christmas tree."

"He's teasing you, Greta," Raquel was not accustomed to banter.

"Oh, no. He's just got bad eyesight. As I said to the Prince of Wales when he insisted on having my picture autographed —'Dave,' I said—"

"What number are you playing today?" Bertie cut in.

Picks Winner

"Exactly what I asked the Prince," said Greta. "But let my girl friend here, who has probably never played the ponies before, have first choice."

The races were a disappointment to Raquel. Miniature wooden horses on a long board or track. One chose a horse that was numbered, then bought slips marked with that number. A man rolled dice. When the dice turned up, the horse corresponding to the number rolled was moved forward. It did not appear to be exciting.

"Your number?" Bertie asked.

"I'll choose three."

"I've got a hunch on five and seven," said Greta. Then, while Bertie went for the tickets, "Why didn't you take two numbers, old dear?"

"But—if I lost—"

"For the love of Pete, you don't think we are paying for these bets, do you?"

Number three won.

"Come around again tomorrow, Lady Luck," Bertie urged Raquel. "I trailed you on that three and I've made a cleaning. First race I ever won since I began buying bungalows for bookmakers. Wait here till I get our money." He was off to cash his tickets.

"Do you think I ought to take it?" Raquel asked Greta. "I didn't really buy the tickets—and I lost tossing coins." She had accepted money from one man—Farrell. Money she still owed.

Greta groaned.

To Pay Loan

"Honest," she said, "I don't make you at all. You get a swell break, and then you wonder if you ought to take it. And me! I had two chances to your one, and I drew a blank. With your luck, and my technique, dearie—can you imagine?"

"It just happened—"

"Yes. So did the flood." Greta sighed disconsolately. "Of course, the tickets didn't cost me anything. I couldn't lose, but think what I might have won."

Bertie put some money in Raquel's hand. She did not know how much until she went to her room to dress for dinner.

"It's enough," she said to herself, "to pay the loan. I will send it as soon as I get to Paris. Then I will owe Jack Farrell nothing."

She had not assured herself entirely that her debt to Farrell would be paid with money. Didn't she owe him something more than a mere roll of bills? He had stood by her. Had been willing to marry her that night she hid in San Jeronimo Mission from Pancho, her father, and from Bill Johnson, the man to whom she was affianced. Farrell had promised her adventure, the thing that was to fill her world. Until she met Beauty.

She could not pay Farrell except in money. He was better off without her while this hunger for Beauty was in her veins, in her soul.

Alphonse joined her and Greta at dinner. He had put in a full day over his sketches. He would remain for the concert after dinner. Then he must finish his work.

Greta Insists

"You need not stay for the dancing, Mademoiselle Raquel," he told her, hopeful that she would take edvantage of his thoughtfulness.

"Sure, she'll stay," Greta insisted. "I can't show your whole line alone."

Bertie Adams did not leave Raquel's side during the evening. His presence there aggrevated the envy she could see in women's eyes. He drank a great deal. Thirstily, as if not only his throat, but his very soul, was parched. She remembered the Bosart ball. When Elsworth, the pink pig, had taken too much to drink.

"I feel tired," she said. "If you'll excuse me—"

He insisted on seeing her to her door. Nonchalant. The steel blade was stronger than the wine.

Raquel retired. She was hovering on the border where troubled reality meets peaceful oblivion when, suddenly, she was wide awake. Someone was in the gray room. Not Greta. Instinctively she knew it was not Greta.

There was a dressing-gown at the foot of her bed. She wrapped it around her, pushed open the door to the gray room.

A disheveled figure stood by the table under the dimed lights. Bertie Adams. He smiled at her. A grave, tired smile.

"Can't find my bally stateroom," he said. Not a trip in his tongue. Only his glittering eyes told Raquel he was as a man in a trance.

Helps Adams

"What can I do?" she asked blankly.

Her mind was in a crystal maze, struggling wildly to find its way out. Should she call the steward? No. She couldn't do that. With him here in her room. Should she order this man to leave? He wouldn't even hear her.

Alphonse! Down the corridor.

"I'll find a room for you," she said, as if she had offered to get him his hat. "It's just around the corner."

He took her arm. Correctly, almost gallantly.

"M. Alphonse!" Her hand was a beating of imperative wings against the door of the cabin. The door opened.

"Ma petite—"

"This man, he cannot find his room. Look to him. Look."

With a strength that sent the dazed Bertie Adams stumbling across the threshold she pushed him from her and, turning, fled like a bright leaf in a breeze to the safety of her cabin.

Fay King Blames Modern Man for Changing Old-Fashioned Girl's Styles

By FAY KING

The old-fashioned girl in her voluminous flowered silks made a more beautiful picture of femininity than the modern girl in her form-fitting fashions.

That's why the modern girl so often chooses the costume of her great-great-grandmother for the masquerade ball.

The modern girl wouldn't mind being old-fashioned today if she were sure an old-fashioned beau would make her feel very much the little queen of his heart.

But, alas, an old-fashioned girl would have a dull time sitting home these days in a bower of brocades, waiting for a modern man to give up his golf, motoring, swimming to come and pay her homage.

It is the modern man that made the old-fashioned girl change her style.

Harry Warns Madge to Keep Watchful Eye on Mary

For a half minute that seemed to me like a century, Harry Underwood delayed his answer to my question, "But what?" which had followed his hesitation at my news of Mary's accompanying us on the Catskill trip.

"I don't want to frighten you," he said at last, "but you must remember that we never were able to put our hands on Jack Leslie after that attack on Noel. I boasted too soon, that trip. He simply evaporated into thin air and nobody's seen or heard of him since. But that he's around somewhere I'd be willing to bet my last Christmas galluses, and as he's a half maniac, and a whole rotter, I'd keep Mary well incognito if I were you, when you're in the vicinity of the city."

"Oh!" I breathed. "Perhaps she'd better stay here."

"No," he decided. "It's only a fifty-to-one chance that you'll run into him. And when you get back to New York I'll be on the job. I just want you to keep your eyes open, that's all."

"I'll not let her out of my sight," I said fervently, and he smiled down at me.

"You won't need to be that careful up in the Catskills," he said. "The tastes of the 'capering cock-roach' do not run to lonely mountain regions. He has to be near the white lights of some city. Sooner or later he's going to sneak back to Broadway and then I shall be able to nab him. Don't worry any more about him. I ought not to have spoken of him, but I thought you ought to be on your guard."

"Oh! I'm so glad you did," I said.

The door was barely shut after him before Mary came rushing down the hall, her eyes bright with excitement, but her face pallid.

"Oh! Aunty Madge!" she exclaimed. "Mrs. Bickett just told me. It is perfectly heavenly of you to take me, but—do you think I ought to leave Noel! Aunt Katherine says I ought—"

"Then there is nothing more to be added, Mary," I answered, smiling at her, but with decision in my voice. "After all, Mrs. Bickett is in sole charge of Noel's case, and a nurse must be obeyed, you know."

Mary's face clouded. "It isn't much shopping I'll be doing," she said. Then as if something had just flashed into her memory, her eyes lightened.

"What do you know, Auntie Madge?" she asked childishly. "Ever since that day when I met Jack Leslie, I've been hoarding away my money, so if he met me and demanded the money he asked for leaving Noel alone, I would have some ready for him. But I don't need to do that, do I?"

"Indeed, you don't, Mary," I told her vigorously. "Take your money with you to the city, and have a shopping orgy. Your uncle and I will add something to it. You're almost due, dear child, for a fling of some sort, and a shopping trip is the most harmless thing I can imagine. After that, if things go right, we're going to 'sling a party for you'—isn't that the right phrasing?"

"Not if Noel isn't well enough to be there."

"But he will be," I told her with more confidence than I felt.

"I hope that's true," Mary answered. "But I forgot to tell you Noel wants to see you before you go. He was very high hat about it, said he couldn't help it if you were busy, he must see you."

"I'll go to him at once," I said, "while you get ready."

"I've been getting my things together ever since Mrs. Bickett told me," she answered. "It won't take me more than five minutes more."

"We ought to start in 10," I said as I left her and walked toward Noel's room.

He will forgive her for turning a gun upon him—but never for turning "the laugh" upon him.

He may forgive the woman who hath sought to murder him—but never the damsel who hath besought him to MARRY her.

He will pardon her for accusing him of that, of which he is not guilty—but never, for suspecting him of his besetting sin.

He may condone her for running away from him—but never for running after HIM.

He may smile, when she calleth him a brute, a ruffian, and a Don Juan—but, let her call him a "goody-goody" and behold he is filled with wrath.

He will forgive her for deceiving him in love—but never, for beating him in an argument, a game, or a business deal.

He may pardon her for seeking to improve his manners and renovate him morals—but not for cleaning his DESK or throwing away his old shoes.

He may forgive her for upbraiding and denouncing him in private—but never for correcting his accent, before company.

Verily, verily, a man is reasonable and long-suffering; and there is nothing under the sun for which he will NOT forgive a woman—save for pursuing him, embarrassing him, and BORING him!

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Handing Over Your Sorrow for Another to Bear Is A Pestiferous Habit!

Are you full of bleats and bruises?

Do you love to broadcast 'em to the lady across the hall or the girl in the next office?

And do you think you're giving them a treat when you do? Yes? Then read this! Faire wrote it.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"This is a protest against the sort of friends who insist on sharing all their griefs, petty disappointments, temper fits and nerves with you.

"Does a cleaner ruin a dress? A boy friend break a date? An expected letter fail to come? Then they dash over to your till then peaceful room, and emote all over the place and you.

"They are as pleasant to have around as poison ivy, and just about as safe. Their emotional outbursts get you on edge, as well as them, and your day is spoiled.

"I don't mean I'd object to helping in a real trouble, Sally. I wouldn't, and I never have. In time of actual need I would stand by my friends to the last ditch. But what gets my goat is the way people continually and eternally talk about their troubles. My heavens! All that talk can't bring things back the way they were. It can't do anything. So why keep on hashing things over and over?

"I'd no more think of inflicting all my bad temper and grief and disappointments and rocky hours on my friends than I would of dumping my garbage on their front steps.

BREAKS HER ROUTINE

"But these same friends rush in and break up my routine, take up my time and grate on my nerves with their agitation, almost to the breaking point, with their hysterics and tears over some silly mess that would be better forgotten.

"But you have to submit to this infliction of torture in the name of friendship, or else be called heartless and unfeeling. That is, I have until now. But I'm serving notice right here that the very next person who tries to dump her emotional garbage on my shoulders is going to get one politely, but firmly, on her ear.

"This is a final warning that I hope the people I'm thinking of see. I am writing it to you because a slight hint about my feelings to my friends has brought about a lot of hurt feelings. They say I am unsympathetic and unfeeling. But am I?

"Exasperatingly yours,

"FAIRE."

SALLY FOR HER

Do I think you're heartless? Nope. I'm for you, kid! There isn't a pestier or more useless habit in the world than unloading all our agonies and irritations and disappointments on the neighbors.

And it actually is an unhealthy habit. It magnifies our troubles and keeps them alive, when if we'd just allow them to, a hundred chances to one, they'd die a natural death in time.

But remember, too, my dear—there's another side to this story. All of us have times when we need to let off steam. You've had those times as well as other humans—times when you needed to pour out all fret and fury that was festering in your heart. And how much happier and quieter and stronger you felt when it was all over! But suppose no one had listened to you? Suppose they'd resented your "emoting all over the premises?"

Get the point? If you don't let them pester you, they won't let you pester them. So go easy on the glooms, kid. For who knows when you'll need to unload a bunch of gloom, yourself.

Horoscopes

Sunday, August 17

Sunday's horoscope, although holding augury for a very lively and possibly exciting day, may not be considered a fortunate or happy one. In both private contacts and in employment and relations with superiors and those in authority adverse influences prevail.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and eventful year, with some phases of business moving rapidly and successfully, but there is a menace of discord and danger for those in the employment of others or those seeking favors or advancement from superiors. Personal affiliations may also disturb or disappoint.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, aggressive and versatile, but it may do better for itself than in the employment of others, as such relations are adverse.

Monday, August 18

Monday's astrological chart holds figures of promise for happy and profitable conditions in all domestic, social, artistic and romantic affiliations and activities. These may engage the attention, but are accompanied by a menace of duplicity, craft or subterfuge, that may also be a hostile factor in business. With such prospect met with vigilance all affairs may prosper and give comfort.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of active and prosperous personal as well as business conditions.

A child born on this day may have splendid equipment for a successful, prosperous and happy life, but it may be subject and inclined to subtle, shrewd and peculiar actions.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

City Dwellers Live Unnatural Lives

Every year millions of dollars are wasted through absences from business due to illness.

This means much in the commercial world, but what does it mean in terms of wasted health to the individuals who suffer from illness?

DR COPELAND

The majority of city dwellers today are living unnatural lives so far as fresh air and sunlight are concerned. Shut in for long hours in the day, business and professional people, and many housewives, too, are cut off from the life-giving rays of the sun.

Our modern school system requires the child to spend the best hours of the day in the classroom. He is there during brightest hours of sunshine and deprived of its benefits. He needs the ultra-violet rays of the sun to stimulate the chemical activities of the body. He needs them to aid in his growth.

Educators have awakened to these truths. They know now that in the construction of school buildings some thing must be provided for besides heating, lighting and ventilation. It is realized now that it is equally important for the pupils to be provided with sunlight.

For some years past experiments have been conducted to test the comparative merits of the various types of window glass. Efforts have been made to find one that permits the ultra-violet rays to pentrate. Ordinary window glass does not have this property because of certain substances in its composition. Already many schools, hospitals and public buildings have been equipped with such glass.

An interesting test of the effects from this window glass was made at the Adams School in Birmingham, Mich. From February 1 to June 1 one group of children occupied a room with a southern exposure that was equipped with an ultra-violet transmitting glass. Another group was kept in a room which had windows of ordinary glass.

Consideration was given to all the factors that might affect the test. Measurements of growth in height and weight and attendance and absences on account of illness demonstrated that the group from the ultra-violet room scored higher than the children from the other group in every way.

This is only one of many other experiments of like nature in recent years. For the underweight and anemic child, in the prevention of rickets and other degenerative diseases of childhood it is very necessary that every means be taken to provide health measures of every sort. Every child during every day of the year needs fresh air and direct sunlight or sky-shine to promote health.

These summer days, with long hours of sunshine, is the time for the kiddies to make up for the time lost in winter. Now they should be out in the parks, or the country and seashore. It is good news that more playgrounds in the big cities are being furnished. Let the children be out in the open and store up health for the coming closed-in season.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Telephone Calls

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper for a young lady to call her boy friend up on the telephone? He thinks it is proper. And I think it is improper.

ONE OF YOUR READERS.

A girl shows very much better taste, better breeding and for better common sense if she does not telephone to her boy friend—that is, as a general rule. Of course, if she really has some definite message that makes it convenient for her to telephone him, then it is all right. But it is a mistake for a girl to make a practice of telephoning to boys. And, lady, did you ever hear boys make comments about it? Occasionally one hears a boy who is flattered by it, as he is flattered by any superficiality, but usually they are bored and thoroughly annoyed by the inconvenience. And I am sure that the mother of every boy who is "pursued" by telephoning girls will add her "O. K." to this statement. Girls will, if they are wise, leave this prerogative to the boys.

Engraved Cards

DEAR MRS. BEEKMAN:

Will you kindly settle an argument? Is it correct in having a gentleman's social visiting card (also at Christmas time in having Christmas cards made) to have them engraved Mr. John Smith or just John Smith?

A. claims it should be John Smith. B. claims it should be Mr. John Smith for social calling cards, but for business cards just John Smith. B. W. H.

For a gentleman's visiting-cards, it is correct, in this country, to have the "Mr." engraved before the name. For business cards, the title of "Mr." is not used on the cards. When a man orders his Christmas cards, he has the "Mr." engraved before the name if the card is worded in the third person.

Mr. John Allen Smith sends hearty greetings
and a Happy New Year.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When applying cold cream to the cuticle about the fingernails, take time to rub it in well. Let it remain on over night. Hang-nails are caused by dry skin that clings to the nail structure, then acquires abrasions. An infected hang-nail should be covered with moist boric acid dressings.

The paper curl is achieved by taking small short wisps of hair, forming into flat curls, covering with paper and pressing with a hot iron clamp made for the purpose. When properly done, there is an almost perfect marcel line close to the head, while the ends of the hair fall into ringlets. On a thick head of hair 40 or 50 curls are necessary.

When filing the fingernails, don't go cutting down far on either side. If this bad habit is continued the nail cave will sink down lower and lower and, as it does so, the cuticle at the sides will become sensitive and delicate. Use the file from sides to nail center, forming a sharp point, and then round the point off with the few last licks. To make a clean-cut job, the beveling file of emery should be used.

MARTIN SCHOOL ROUNDS OUT COURSES

Presents Diplomas to 110 Students at Closing Of Thirteenth Year.

The Grace Martin's School, eighteenth floor Keenan Building, has completed the thirteenth and most interesting year since its founding. Of the class of 165 students, 110 graduates have been presented with diplomas. Each year the school has added to the duties ascribed to the secretary's problems, until now the secretarial training course is the most complete that can be arranged.

For the teacher of music, organ, public speaking, violin and school the secretarial course, presented and completed in 10 months, gives each young woman an opportunity to draw a very remunerative salary.

The subjects included are Gregg shorthand, typing, English, spelling, business law, bookkeeping, office practice, secretarial English and business organization. The only elective subject is Spanish.

The student is led on by the motive of interest to study secretarial procedure as carried out in the different kinds of offices. The "cases" described have a lively narrative but personal appeal. The way in which the student learns about secretarial work follows as closely as possible the way in which the same student would obtain a knowledge of this work in actual offices.

CROP DAMAGE EXAGGERATED

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Reports from the agricultural regions have been the controlling factor in the market during the last week, and the crop outlook has naturally formed the basis of almost all forecasts concerning the probable development of business during the autumn, according to James B. Clews, of Henry Clews & Co.

The truth is that real or final information concerning the extent of crop damage, either present or prospective, is still lacking, and the uncertainty concerning its probable character leaves the market in a disturbed and unsettled situation, which can be brought to a close only when positive knowledge is in hand concerning the outcome regarding the major crops. While awaiting this information, it is to be noted that the current government forecast for cotton, amounting to 14,200,000 bales, is considerably above what had been predicted, and is above normal, while the government estimate of wheat production is now 20,000,000 bushels ahead of the Farm Board estimate of a month ago, being figured at 826,000,000 bushels, or about 15,000,000 bushels more than last year. Had it not been for the drought damage, which seriously affected corn in some regions, the total output for the season would have been very much larger than last year. Apparently it is mainly in corn and in some of the fruit and vegetable crops, that serious harm has been suffered. Whether the loss of corn will actually amount to the 600,000,000 bushels, which has been lately estimated by the government's crop reporting board, is still to be determined, and evidently depends much upon the weather that may prevail between now and the end of the season. There is no occasion for hysteria, and there is much to indicate exaggeration of the damage thought to have been already done.

Negotiations are nearing completion for the use of the eastern portion of the Buckeye Pipe Line system by the Gulf Oil Corporation. Gulf officials stated that they are not in a position to discuss the details of the transaction. It is understood that the Buckeye lines will be used in connection with the Tulsa to Pittsburgh line being built by Gulf and the recently acquired Toledo refinery.

MARKET THEORY ANALYZED

For the first time since the beginning of the "new era" in finance, a really outstanding book on Wall street has made its appearance. "Stock Market Theory and Practice," by R. W. Schabacker, financial editor of Forbes Magazine, is not merely another book on speculation and investment. It is an up-to-date encyclopedia, crammed full of useful, workable information, and seems about as complete a work on all aspects of organized stock markets as it would be possible to include in a single large volume.

All subjects are covered in this concise treatise, and yet one of its most laudable points is that it is written in simple and interesting style, the author preparing even the mere beginner, in the first part, for the more technical and professional sections to come.

Yet there is real meat for both amateur and professional in every one of the 27 chapters. The work is generously illustrated throughout with over 100 reproductions of market documents, charts, graphs and other illustrations, and a valuable appendix bulks the volume to nearly 900 pages.

Chemical Prices Close to Bottom

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—While the price movement in the market for heavy chemicals during the past month was again downward, the belief is growing that values are about at the low point, Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering reports. Seasonal influences in the near future should work in favor of more active trading, and this, combined with the fact that stocks in consumers' hands are admitted to be low, should act as a stabilizer of values.

TRADE INDEX MOVES UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—With the Business Index moving up, for the first time since the beginning of July, to 87.4 per cent, as against 86.5 last week and 113.7 per cent in the same week last year, business in the United States took an upward turn, and while productive activity is lower, the decline has been less steep, says the Business Week in its report covering the week ending today.

The upturn occurred in spite of disposition of many business men to sit tight until effects of the drought can be more accurately appraised. These, as early exaggerations fade, will be discovered not to be calamitous.

There is reason to believe the worst is over, that recovery has begun; that it will be rapid as compared with recovery in 1921.

Chicago grain traders evidently agree that early drought damage reports were exaggerated; grain prices sagged. Other raw material prices continue to weaken. Approach of fall weather will start the seasonal upswing; renewed buying will strengthen prices.

TROPICS SEND ICE TO N. Y.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The first shipment of condensed cold from the tropics to New York is arriving here on the SS. Panuco, of the New York and Cuba Mail Line. In a section of her hold, specially insulated with a solid foot of corkboard, the vessel carries 400,000 pounds of "sub-zero ice," or solid carbon dioxide, which has a latent temperature of 140 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. The shipment is a product of wells 18 miles inland from Tampico, in the Mexican oil fields. While the paradox of bringing "ice" from the tropics to the North is without precedent, it is believed to mark the beginning of a new trade.

The Globe Petroleum Company was drilling for oil when it struck the carbon dioxide gas supply, which rushes to the surface at a pressure of 1,000 pounds to the square inch. The wells have for years been shooting into the air sufficient gas daily to make 1,600 tons of solid carbon dioxide, for which there has recently been created a rapidly growing demand on the part of quick-frozen food companies, ice cream makers, dealers in dairy products and fruit and vegetable growers.

NEVILLE COKE DEMAND GAINS

Firm Produuces 1,500 Tons Of New Smokeless Fuel Daily in Modern Plant

A year of manufacturing smokeless, sootless, dustless, odorless domestic and industrial fuel has convinced the Davison Coke and Iron Company, makers of Neville coke and by-products, that Pittsburghers are steadily and increasingly interested in clean fuel as indicated by gain in demand for products.

River barges bring coal to the Neville Coke plant on Neville Island averaging a consumption of 2,100 tons a day. This is transmuted into 1,500 tons of coke a day, together with by-products of tar, benzol, sulphate of ammonia and other properties, as well as of 12,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

MODERN OVENS

The Neville Coke plant, which utilizes the latest discoveries of chemical and engineering science, was built by the Koppers Company. It consists of two batteries of 35 ovens each. The dimensions of these ultramodern ovens are 16 inches in width by 30 feet 6 inches in height and 42 feet 6 inches from front to back.

Beside giving maximum heat and economy value, three tons of this coke should give as much heat and last as long as five tons of ordinary coal. It is a fuel that is easy to handle and requires little attention. With these highly interesting features to the consumer, community interest in smokeless neighborhoods is likely to crystalize into definite movements, as it is doing in other cities, notably St. Louis.

SIEVE BRANCH BANK POLICY

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Controversial issues that have arisen as a result of proposals to amend the Federal statute relating to the taxation of national banks by the states will be made the subject of a special tax conference at the American Bankers Association convention to be held in Cleveland, O., September 29 to October 2.

Another meeting to which special interest is said to attach among bankers is that of the Economic Policy Commission, to which has been given the assignment of investigating and reporting on developments in chain, group and branch banking. It is pointed out that the comptroller of the currency at Washington has officially recommended a radical broadening of the powers of the national banks so as to allow them to conduct branches throughout what he calls the trade areas of their operations, whether comprising one or more states. The association, it is stated by an official, has long been on record as being opposed in general to the extention of branch banking except as allowed under the present McFadden law which permits restricted establishment of branches by national banks in their home communities in states permitting branch banking. The report of the Economic Policy Commission is expected to play an important part in the convention's consideration of this subject.

VISITORS' WEEK AT DUFFS

During the coming week Duffs Iron City College will hold its annual visitors' week. Although it might be said that every week is visitors' week at Duffs, since scores visit the school every week throughout the year, yet a special week is set aside each August to permit those, who may be interested in the progress of the present study body, or those who may be forming plans for the future, to visit and observe the work of students and teachers.

The college is the pioneer business college in America having been established in 1839 when Pittsburgh was scarcely more than one-half square mile in area.

Duffs-Iron City is a consolidation of Duff's College, Iron City College, Martin School, and Curry College. The last member of the consolidation joined by merger in January of this year.

JEWEL TEA CO. MAKES GOOD SHOWING

Profits from Low-Priced Coffee Raise First-Half Earnings Above Last Year

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Despite decline in sales and in commodity prices, Jewel Tea Company, Inc., in first 28 weeks of 1930 earned net profit somewhat in excess of the net of $801,426 earned in the similar period of last year. These 1929 results were equivalent to $2.70 a share on 280,000 shares of no-par common stock after allowing for dividend requirements for 13 weeks on 26,500 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock, which was called for retirement as of April 1, 1929. This favorable showing in large measure was the result of unusually large earnings in the early months of the year, because of favorable inventory position, particularly in coffee, which permitted Jewel to take full advantage of the lag between the decline of wholesale prices and the decline of retail prices.

PREPARED FOR BREAK

About the middle of last October, when the coffee market started to break, Jewel Tea had only meager stocks of coffee on hand, and was therefore able to make purchases at advantageous figures. While retail prices moved downward in sympathy with the wholesale quotation, this decline occurred somewhat later and more slowly, thereby enabling the company to realize unusually large profit margin on its coffee sales.

Currently, company's rate of earnings is still large enough to cover dividend requirements at rate of $4 a share annually, of which $1 is an extra, a showing that can be considered good inasmuch as August is usually the month in which Jewel's sales curve reaches bottom. Until a few years ago company rarely operated at a profit during the lowest sales period.

Outlook for remainder of 1930, contingent as it is upon recovery of general business, naturally is obscure. The Jewel organization, nation-wide in extent, is optimistic regarding the outlook for a fall revival in buying, but the management is inclined to discount any predictions of sales equal to those of corresponding periods of 1929.

TONNAGE SALES UP

Although Jewel's dollar sales for the 28-week period declined to $8,549,110 from $9,013,418 in similar weeks of last year, a decrease of 5.15 per cent, sales on a tonnage basis were above those of first 28 weeks of 1929. Average sales a week a route operated (the most accurate results), were $248 in first 28 weeks of 1930 compared with $276 in like period of 1929, a decrease of 10.14 per cent. In July, decline on this basis amounted to 17.7 per cent, as compared with decline in dollar sales of 13.5 per cent. Thus far in current four-week period, begun July 14, decline in average sales a route from average of preceding period has shown a tendency to slow up, which is interpreted by the management to mean that commodity prices are reaching bottom.

Farm Wage Trend Analysis Finished

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The trend of agricultural monthly wages in this country from 1914 to 1920 closely paralleled that of average weekly earnings in manufacturing industries, but in the depression of 1920-1922 wages of farm labor declined to a much greater extent than those of wage earners in manufacturing, and the gain since 1922 has been much less for agricultural workers than for those engaged in manufacturing, according to an analysis of wages in the United States recently completed by the National Industrial Conference Board.

Thus, at the peak in 1920, the average farm wages were 135 per cent above 1914. The depression of 1921 brought them down very sharply to 47 per cent above 1914. But in 1929 farm wages had increased to only 67 per cent over 1914, while the weekly earnings of wage earners in manufacturing had risen 125 per cent above 1914.

Federal Reserve Bank Credit Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended August 13 as reported by the Federal Reserve Banks, was $1,001,000,000 an increase of $13,000,000 compared with the preceding week and a decrease of $380,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1929.

Holdings of discounted bills decreased $15,000,000 during the week.

AUGUST STEEL BUYING DOWN

Lower Demand Attributed To Business Depression; Price Structure Shaky

By B. E. V. LUTY.

Steel buying decreased slightly late in July and there has been a little further decrease this month. The decrease is not traceable to specific lines of consumption and may be regarded as general in character, reflecting perhaps an accentuation of the trade depression at large. In the light of precedent it is impossible to consider the decrease seasonal, the time for that being past.

Steel ingot production was practically uniform during July, the average as officially reported being 56.35 per cent of capacity. The rate in the past week was at least two or three points lower and one estimate makes it about five points lower, or nearly a 10 per cent decrease from the tonnage rate of July.

PIPE DEMAND UP

The consuming lines that can be observed individually do not account for any decrease. Two activities structural fabricating and line pipe production, are fully maintained and the latter indeed is increasing a trifle as recently installed units get into better working order. On the other hand, lines marked for ordinary or usual seasonal decrease had their decreases at such times to exert the full force upon the steel producing rate before the end of June. There was the agricultural implement industry, the automobile industry and finally the rails.

Producers of line pipe are still well sold up, and much business is in prospect, as there are promising projects, involving large tonnages. Piping natural gas relatively long distances is only a development of the last four years or thereabouts, and there is the interesting point that with large discoveries in various fields the nearer markets are taken care of first and then more distant markets are sought. Thus it may be said in a general way that year by year the tonnage of a gas line pipe order increases while the individual line carries only about the same amount of gas.

SCRAP MARKET QUIET

Steel prices continue to show a sagging tendency at various points. There is scarcely a product that does not show irregularities and irregularities gradually work out into a lower openly quotable market. Standard rails and merchant pipe are practically the only exceptions. Rails have had no price change since the advance of October 1, 1922, while pipe has had no notable decline since the long advance that culminated in April, 1923, except for the reduction last April of about $4 a ton.

The scrap market has been very quiet. Deliveries to mills are light but prices hold, indicating a very light outcome of scrap, that of course being likewise affected by the depression.

G. HAROLD MOORE

MOORE NAMED SUPERVISOR

G. Harold Moore, representative for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, has been advanced to the position of unit supervisor of the local agency. Following his graduation from the University of Pittsburgh, Mr. Moore was asociated with the Pennsylvania Railroad in various posts which he resigned several years ago to enter the life insurance business.

He entered the local agency in 1928. His success as a producer soon brought him to the attention of the agency officials. In his new position he assumes responsibility for the supervision of a newly organized unit of trained salesmen in the Pittsburgh district.

In announcing this appointment Holgar J. Johnson, local general agent, states that this post has been made necessary because of the increase in the local agency's business.

In spite of abnormal business conditions, the Penn Mutual Agency has experienced a 34 per cent increase in Pittsburgh this year over the same period in 1929, whereas, the normal increase throughout the United States has been approximately 8 per cent.

Terminal Coal Plans Cleaning Plant

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

PITTSBURGH TERMINAL COAL Corporation has started construction of a coal cleaning plant at its No. 8 mine near Coverdale. The plant will cost about $100,000. It will be the first installation of this type made by the company.

The plant will use the Chance process for preparing the coal by flotation. The construction of a cleaning plant follows similar steps taken by other producers to improve the quality by reducing the content of ash and other impurities.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company, which is in no way connected with Pittsburgh Terminal Coal, has four cleaning plants. These had much to do with the regaining of many of the company's markets from producers of other districts.

Coal Prices Low

LOW PRICES HAVE kept the operations of Pittsburgh Terminal Coal at a loss in common with most other producers. The statement for the second quarter, however, showed some improvement. The deficit of $206,775 for the second quarter, after all charges including depreciation and depletion, was only slightly less than the loss of $216,653 reported for the first quarter, but a closer examination of the statement shows that substantial progress has been made in the face of continued low prices.

In the first quarter of the year a deficit of $57,811 before depreciation and depletion was reported. In the second quarter, however, a profit of $6,277 was shown before these charges so that the loss for the latter period was confined to reserve items and did not reduce working capital.

Outlook for Industry

PESSIMISTIC REMARKS made recently in this column about the outlook for the coal industry and the development of other types of fuels were responsible for the following letter to the editor of the Sun-Telegraph from B. P. Tracy, who supplies materials and equipment for electrically operated coal mines:

"I have noted Mr. Snyder's articles on the industrial situation, and what he has had to say with reference to coal.

"Particularly noting his article with reference to natural gas expansion, does he think coal mining will become as obsolete as buggy whip manufacturing?

"I would like to have him say something more regarding the outlook for coal."

Coal Always Needed

THE DISCUSSION OF THE TROUBLES of coal was not intended to convey the impression that this important part of our industrial activity is to be consigned to limbo along with horse cars, hat pins and bustles. Coal is very necessary to industrial development. Science and invention will have to make many revolutionary changes before the last solemn rites can be said over coal. So far as can be seen at present, coal will always be needed.

The remarks about coal were intended to present the exceptionally difficult problems which the coal industry is facing. There is no doubt about the fact that a serious condition of over-production exists. Any coal man will admit that current prices are too low and that the industry's outlook for the next few months is not particularly bright. While other fuels have taken business away from coal there are certain purposes for which coal cannot be surpassed. But the fact remains that coal will have to do a vast amount of house cleaning before it can be restored to its former place in the investment picture.

Optimistic

W. L. HALL

PRINTING TRADE HOLDS UP

The industrial depression has not had any serious effect on the business of printing establishmens serving large corporations, according to W. L. Hall, of Hall Printing Company.

The organization, which is one of the largest privately owned printing companies in this city, has been in existence for 25 years. It specializes in the production of letter heads and forms used in loose leaf systems by the accounting departments of leading corporations. The plant is also equipped to do practically every type of printing and binding work. An exceptionally large supply of paper stock is kept on hand to insure prompt service to customers.

A large portion of the business has been developed through Mr. Hall's ability to work in co-operation with accountants and auditors in developing loose leaf forms specially adaptable to the keeping of the most intricate accounting records. Many of the forms used by leading steel companies in this district have been put into use at the suggestion of Mr. Hall.

WORKERS GET GROUP POLICY

Joy Morton, president of the Morton Salt Company, announces that the company has entered into a group insurance contract with the Equitable extending the benefits of group life insurance and group accident and health insurance to the employes of the company's plants located at Port Huron and Ludington, Mich.; Hutchinson, Kan.; Burmester, Utah; Newark, Cal.; also various docks, main and branch offices.

To date approximately 1,500 employes are group insured in the Equitable for a volume of group insurance exceeding $3,700,000 and with a weekly sickness and accident indemnity of approximately $1,400.

RETAIL TRADE CONTINUES QUIET

Cooler Weather Fails To Stimulate Buying; Lumber Prices Drop.

There has been no improvement in the general business situation locally, although cooler weather is prevailing and buying in some lines is showing slightly greater activity, according to R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review. Trade at retail continues very quiet and jobbers of men's and women's wearing apparel, dry goods and shoes report buying very light, and future orders not very numerous. The usual August furniture sales now in progress have not proved altogether encouraging, thus far.

There has been no improvement in the building trades with demand for lumber and building material from 25 per cent to 30 per cent lower than a year ago, and prices for many grades of lumber are about 25 per cent less than last year at this time.

OIL OUTPUT CUT

The demand for sanitary and heating equipment continues well below normal, although some improvement is looked for soon. Electrical equipment continues to move in fair volume, although fixtures, etc., are in light demand. Crude oil production shows a slight decrease, with Pennsylvania grades being reduced still further in amount of production.

Local collection conditions have changed but little. Jobbers report payments still averaging slow in most lines.

Germany Best U. S. Cotton Customer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—This country's best customer, so far as raw cotton was concerned, for the year ending July 31, was Germany.

Census bureau figures made public showed that Germany took 1,687,366 bales, one-fourth of the raw cotton going to foreign countries. England, for many years the largest importer of cotton, was in second place, with 1,256,042. Japan was third with 1,020,016. The number of bales exported was 6,690,709.

GENERAL TRADE PICKS UP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Business activity during the week ended August 9, as seen from bank debits outside New York City, showed an increase of 16 per cent over the preceding week, but was materially lower than the corresponding period of last year.

Wholesale prices, as measured by Fisher's composite index, registered a slight gain over a week ago, but as compared with the week ending August 10, 1929, showed a decline of 15 per cent.

Bank loans and discounts of Federal Reserve member banks fell off from a week ago and were well below the level of last year. Prices for representative stocks declined from the preceding period and as compared with a year ago were considerably lower. Bond prices, on the other hand, were higher than either prior period. Interest rates for call money were higher than a week ago, while time money rates showed no change. Both rates were lower than the week ended August 10, 1929. Business failures during the past week were fewer than during the week ended August 2, 1930.

The production of petroleum and the value of contracts awarded for new construction for the week ended August 2 registered increases over the preceding week, while the production of lumber and bituminous coal declined. The activity of steel mills in the United States showed no change when compared with the week ended July 26, 1930.

Detroit Aircraft Gets Army Order

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—The Detroit Aircraft Corporation announces receipt of an order from the United States Army for a metal Lockheed Vega transport plane to be delivered September 1. It is reported that this is the first of a number of these planes that will be built by the Detroit company for the Army.

Award of the contract followed extensive competitive tests conducted by the Army Corps on practically every cabin plane produced in this country, to find the best all-around standard transport plane for Army use.

Building Contractor Of Brownsville Dies

Leather Exports Up for 6 Months

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Exports of leather increased during the first six months of 1930, above the last half of 1929, but are far below 1929. From January 1 to June 30, total is $19,813,241 against $19,504,097 for the last half 1929 and $23,435,000 in first six months of 1929.

Middle Atlantic Construction Declines

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Contracts let for new construction in the Middle Atlantic States during July totaled $46,303,700 as against $83,202,200 in the previous month and $74,864,700 for July, 1929, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. The July, 1930, contract record showed the following distribution: $13,634,800 for public works and utilities; $9,901,300 for residential buildings; $6,511,200 for industrial buildings; $4,898,500 for educational buildings; $4,313,900 for commercial buildings, and $3,950,700 for public buildings. All other nonresidential building contracts let in July totaled $3,093,300. For first seven months of the current year new construction undertaken in this territory was valued at $374,784,100, as compared with $462,798,100 for the corresponding period of 1929.

General Tire Sales Increases for Half

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company, of Akron O., said dollar sales for the six months ended May 31, the first half of the company's fiscal year, were about 11 per cent below the same period of the previous year, but unit sales increased. He said net profits for the half year covered the full year's dividend requirements on both the preferred and common stocks.

West End Landmark Damaged by Flames

A one-story frame house at 1 Elliott street, West End, a landmark in that section of the city, was damaged by fire late yesterday. The blaze gained headway while firemen were dragging their hose up a steep hillside from Steuben street.

ARMSTRONG CO. OUTLOOK GOOD

Dwight L. Armstrong, general sales manager of the Armstrong Cork Company, points out tangible evidence which indicates a bright outlook for the floor covering industry.

He said:

"In spite of the seasonal inactivity which usually characterizes the month of July the past 30 days have produced tangible evidence to substantiate the optimism that has characterized the predictions of our leading economists. There seems to be more reason at this time for expecting a real increase in business activity than there has been for the past six months.

"With retail stocks as low as they are in the floor covering industry, any noticeable increase in consumer buying is almost certain to be followed by the placement of many orders for immediate delivery.

Bond Offerings Lower for Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 — New bond offerings this week totaled $30,767,000, compared with $70,940,000 last week and $34,322,000 in the corresponding week last year.

MEAT PACKERS' OUTLOOK IS CLOUDED

Advance in Corn Prices May Force Hog Supplies To Unprofitable Levels

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.

Earnings outlook of packers for the balance of this fiscal year, and possibly for next, depends largely on the extent to which unfinished livestock is shipped to market because of the drought. No rush of unfinished stock has materialized as yet although receipts are light and only a small increase would bring more livestock than packers would like to handle.

If corn quotations confirm high hog prices may be forced to levels unprofitable to packers and in turn bring provision prices out of line with the present value of the buying public's dollar. High corn prices will encourage the marketing of more of it as grain and discourage the finishing of hogs before marketing. However, unless there is a vast improvement in price of wheat it will go into hogs as well as cattle, thus helping to restrain heavy livestock marketing.

FACE UNCERTAINTIES

Heavy receipts of both hogs and cattle from now until the end of the fiscal year and the possibility of higher prices for hogs during the winter killing season as a result of higher cost of feeding are uncertain quantities facing the packers for 1931. Such conditions might boost the investment in provisions carried over to the next summer selling season to a point which would make it more difficult to realize normal profits. Consumption of meat at present price levels is large and any reduction in amount consumed because of higher prices would be reflected in earnings of packers.

PROVISION STOCKS LOW

With stocks of provisions at the lowest point in four years, the immediate position of the packers is good. Nevertheless they are reluctant to estimate probable results for the remaining three months of the fiscal year. The present view that the worst effects of the drought can be escaped may be changed over-night.

Cattle shipments are steady at present but are made up of unfinished stock. The disposition of stockers and feeders is to hold livestock in some instances at the expense of moving them considerable distances to better water and feeding conditions. However, if water becomes much scarcer, the market is going to see a damaging rush of unfinished stock. Water is a greater need than feed. Packers are hesitant in estimating the exact loss of feed corn from drought conditions.

RADIO'S PROFITS DECLINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Radio Corporation of America which omitted a report of earnings for the first quarter of 1930 issued a statement that showed net income for the first six months of the year was $505,098, an amount insufficient to pay dividends on either class of preferred stocks. Dividends on these issues were therefore paid from surplus.

The net income compares with net of $4,926,437 in the corresponding period last year. Gross in the first six months of 1930 was $52,732,079, against $60,439,593 in the 1929 period.

Dividends for the period on the class A preferred stock totalled $684,400 and on the class B preferred $1,914,500. These payments for dividends, totalling $2,598,900, after addition to surplus of the $505,098 net income, reduced the surplus from $30,195,342 on January 1, to $27,596,442 on June 30.

THREATEN JAIL IN MILK GOUGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Acting on reports that milk racketeers plan another price increase, the attorney general's office today opened a special inquiry. Milk advanced a cent a quart last Monday and a further increase is planned for next week, it was said.

A threat to jail the racketeers if a conspiracy is found to exist was made by the attorney general's office. A state inquiry into alleged food profiteering will open Monday.

Latest reports from the Department of Health show a lessening of high prices in the retail markets here. Fresh fruit and vegetables are reported at wholesale lower than for last year. The reports say there is an abundance of all kinds of food and that high prices are not justified.

BURNET GIVEN REVENUE POST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The task of collecting more than $2,000,000,000 a year to help run the federal government was entrusted by President Hoover to David Burnet, of West Virginia.

Burnet, who has been deputy commissioner of internal revenue since last winter, was elevated to the post of commissioner, and will assume his new duties today.

At the same time Robert H. Lucas, of Kentucky, will retire as commissioner to take over the post of executive director of the Republican National Committee.

Burnet entered the government service 10 years ago. In his new position he will have charge of assessing and collecting all internal revenue taxes which comprise the bulk of the government's receipts.

Woman Calls Down Policeman, Fined

Charged with being disorderly when Patrolman William Roberts placed a tag on her car, Lois Carr, 28, of 1015 Galveston avenue, was arrested and fined $3 in North Side Police Court today. It was testified the woman administered a tongue lashing to the officer in front of her home.

Broad Gauge Service From Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—Broad gauge railroad passenger service will be operated out of Waynesburg for the first time in the town's history Sunday, when a special train will be chartered here by members of the I. O. O. F. Lodge to a reunion at Grove City.

MONTH LEADS IN PIPE OUTPUT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 16.—Due to activities of the steel tube division the Mahoning Valley iron and steel industry will be able to maintain operations next week at 55 to 57 per cent of capacity. There is not as much improvement developing in flat-rolled steels as producers had hoped but it is believed underlying conditions are getting better.

August is proving the best month to date this year for production and shipments of steel pipe but ranks with July as being the poorest month in flat steels. Ford Motor is taking larger tonnages, and this is an encouraging factor in sheets and strips.

Leading fabricating interests continue to operate at 70 to 80 per cent in this area. Truscon Steel Company, catering largely to building construction, has experienced some letdown in its new business, with a consequent decline in operating schedules.

Employment conditions in Niles and Warren, where sheet and strip capacity is concentrated, are not so favorable as in Youngstown where the tube mills are located.

Republic Steel Corporation expects to maintain operations in its steel pipe department at a rate close to capacity for the remainder of the year, it was announced today. This is due to the volume of unfilled tonnage and impending orders overhanging the market.

SHARP UPTURN IN BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(Universal.)—A sharp upturn in business activity during the week ended August 9 was reported by the Commerce Department today.

Measured by bank debits outside New York City, the volume of business for that period was 16 per cent greater than for the preceding week, although below the unusually high level of 1929.

For the first time in many weeks the general level of wholesale prices registered a gain over the preceding week. Although the advance was slight, it gave rise to the hope that the decline has been definitely checked.

Steel operations remained at the same level as for the two preceding weeks, standing at 76.3 per cent of the 1923-25 average.

Building contracts showed a material gain over the preceding week but were far below the 1929 boom year.

Business failures were fewer than in the preceding week, standing at about the same figure as in 1929.

WALL STREET HEARS

That perhaps a score of fairly important automobile, copper and industrial corporations may reduce their dividends during the next two months, but it is pointed out that dividend reduction usually come toward the end of a business depression.

That better prices are looked for in the merchandising shares during the next month or two. Market groups are said to be planning moves in Grand Silver, Hahn and Atlas Stores.

That Chicago and Northwestern will maintain its dividend rate despite the slump in earnings.

That bullish dividend action by International Salt is expected shortly.

That American Machine and Foundry is attracting some following, owing to the increasing business of its cigar and cigaret machine making subsidiary.

July World Copper Output Is Lower

World copper production in July as computed by American Bureau of Metal Statistics, totaled 143,615 short tons, against 145,797 tons in June and 174,507 tons in July, 1929.

STOCKS OPEN DECIDEDLY HEAVY

Upturn Invites Selling by Bears, Profit-Taking; Westinghouse, Steel Off

Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The stock market opened decidedly heavy today, as the violence of yesterday's upturn invited profit taking and renewed bear selling. Shares losing 1 to 2 points included American Telephone, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse Electric, Columbia Gas, Paramount Publix, International Telephone and Eastman Kodak. Case lost 3 points. U. S. Steel opened up ⅜, but soon showed a loss of ¼. Canadian Pacific, however, shot up 2¾, reflecting reassurances as to the dividend.

DROUGHT CRISIS REACHED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Discussing the agricultural situation, the drought and weak markets, the bureau of agricultural economics said today that July had not been favorable, either in conditions of crop growth or in markets.

The important late crops are now in the critical stage where a great deal depends upon the weather during the next two or three weeks, the report said:

"The winter wheat crop has been harvested and mostly threshed, a crop of high quality gathered under splendid weather conditions. It was estimated last month at 558,000,000 bushels or some 20,000,000 bushels less than last year. Spring wheat harvest is now under way. A total wheat crop of around 800,000,000 bushels is expected, about the same as last year.

"Haying is practically finished. The total crop is light, due to dry weather, but apparently is fairly ample in the chief feeding regions and has been gathered in good conditions."

Regarding the wheat situation, the report said:

"It is apparent that there will be large surplus of hard winter wheat for export, while the soft winter wheat crop east of the Rocky Mountains will scarcely equal domestic requirements. Soft winter wheat prices consequently may be expected to maintain an advantage over hard winter prices similar to that of the past season, though their level will also be affected by the world situation."

172 Railroads Show Earnings Decreased

June net operating income of 172 class-one railroads including 16 switching and terminal companies totals $68,863,475 comparing with $105,817,808 in June, 1929. Six months net operating income was $376,428,839, as against $562,729,734 in the first half, 1929.

RISE IN COPPER PRICE IN 60 DAYS SEEN

Red Metal Being Mined Without Profit, Says Calumet Company Head

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—In spite of the new rationalization of the copper industry, prices have fluctuated over a wide arc in the last two years—from 11 to 24 cents a pound. The apparent unity of command in the industry kept the price pegged at 18 cents for the first eight months of the recession, but gradually economic forces operated to bring the price down to 11 cents a pound.

Merryle S. Rukeyser.

Since the break below 18 cents early last spring copper executives have been singularly reluctant to talk for publication about conditions and prospects. Accordingly, there is more than ordinary interest in the interview arranged by this column with Gordon R. Campbell, president of the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company, with headquarters at Calumet, Mich.

Asked whether the low price for copper was stimulating domestic and foreign sales, Mr. Campbell said:

"The present low price of copper has resulted in heavy sales, both domestic and foreign, and will eventually stimulate the consumption of copper. The price of copper should go higher and probably will advance within the next 60 days."

PROFIT PROSPECT

Queried concerning immediate profit prospects, Mr. Campbell replied:

"There is no profit to American producers in copper with the metal at 11 cents a pound regardless of tonnage sold, but if producers continue to refrain from increasing production in a desperate effort to show low book costs, they will secure a better price for the copper which they mine and sell.

"American copper mines, with one or two possible exceptions, cannot break even on 11-cent copper, but suffer less by producing a limited amount of copper, even at a small loss, rather than by closing the mines entirely during this period of depression. No copper mine has ever shut down because of low price of copper with the exception of the year 1921.

"The marginal producers to which you refer keep on producing in hopes of a higher price for the metal and the opening of richer ores. They will not shut down until all mineral is exhausted. Small prospects may be affected but the mount of their production is nominal. There is no difficulty in financing in new copper mines in any part of the world at the present time, but speculation is, of course, dormant."

FOREIGN COMPETITION

Raising the question of foreign competition, Mr. Campbell remarked:

"The development of immense deposits of copper in South America, Africa and Canada, and free importation and sale of the copper produced from these mines is undoubtedly placing the position of the whole copper mining industry of the United States in a very precarious position, and the necessity for a tariff on copper to protect American mines and miners against foreign invasion is becoming more apparent every day. The American copper miner is no more able to compete against cheap foreign labor and low taxation than is the labor in the manufacturing districts in the East."

Prof. Irving Fisher and others have been worrying about an impending gold shortage. Addressing his remarks to the bankers of the country in the organ of the American Bankers Association Hiram L. Jones, economist of Denison University, pointed out that gold's use can be stretched. He wrote:

"Many plans have been suggested for regulating or reducing the demand for gold. It would be possible, for instance, in case of a continually falling price level, to reduce the bullion content of the dollars. The nations could continue to withdraw gold coins from circulation, thus enabling them to serve more effectively as a reserve or backing for notes and for bank deposits. Since the universal practice is for banks to hold greater reserves in gold behind notes than behind deposits, the use of the bank check might then be encouraged.

CHECK HELPFUL

"In France, for instance, the notes of the Central Bank exceed the volume of the deposits of all the savings and commercial banks. In the United States, on the other hand, where the bank check is widely used, the total bank deposits are equal to almost seven times the amount of paper and metallic money. Thus, at the present time France needs more gold per dollar of purchasing power than does the United States.

"Moreover, we may witness a continued reduction in the number of banking centers, leading ultimately perhaps to one or two world banks performing the central banking functions for all nations. The gold exchange standard can be more widely adopted. The rapid growth of branch and group banking, with the consequent economy of cash and reserves, is also important.

"Outside of the field of banking, certain developments are also taking place which result in economies in the use of gold. The rise of huge corporations with widely scattered branches and agencies facilitating the cable and telegraphing of funds. The increasing integration of industry is reducing the number of actual cash or commercial transactions."

Foreign Trade Figures Cause Uneasiness in Financial District

Although appearance of July foreign trade statistics appeared to find little reflection in price movements on the stock exchange they attracted attention in the New York financial district where the decline of more than 30 per cent from the July, 1929 figures created a feeling of uneasiness. The shrinkage in transactions abroad to the lowest point in almost 10 years was believed to give a fairly good idea of the severity of the business recession.

With the knowledge that July earnings reports are soon to appear and that they likely will continue to be poor in view of the further decrease in car loadings last month, traders continue to steer clear of the carrier shares. After Thursday's late dip, rail averages were within a point or so of the low of the year for the group. The break of more than 10 points in Canadian Pacific in the last hour Thursday was said to represent real liquidation, some of it from abroad. The outlook of the carriers has been complicated by the farmers' troubles.

While oil shares as a group have held fairly well through the recent selling, an important member of the group, Shell Union Oil, sagged to a new low yesterday. Liquidation has been on in the stock recently on the possibility of a reduction or omission in the dividend. Directors meet next week for dividend action. The company has been expanding its marketing facilities rapidly on a nation-wide scale, requiring a huge outlay of funds. Last year $90,000,000 was raised for expansion purposes.

Six months ago, the dairy companies were confronted with a situation in which they were carrying large and in certain instances excessive inventories while prices were declining. Production was at a high rate despite a substantial carry-over in most of the products made and sold. At that time, the situation was anything but favorable or satisfactory. Recently, the drought curtailed production materially, and benefited the dairy companies. It is likely that the leaders in this industry will enter next year with a good inventory position and only normal carry-overs. Therefore, benefits from conditions of the current year may be reflected in the earnings and financial position of those companies in 1931.

General Motors has been a leader in the motor group for a long time, chiefly because of the diversification of the corporation's output, which gives it an advantage over competitors with fewer models to attract the public. Switching from other motor stock into General Motors has been in progress. The leading company has passed through a most unsatisfactory period in good condition and would be the first to reflect a definite improvement in business. Those who have been active in picking up General Motors on reactions insist that they have adopted a long-pull position.

To obtain accurate information on the short position, it is necessary to make a canvass of the commission houses, because considerable of the borrowing has been done by firms rather than the loan crowd on the floor of the Stock Exchange. The transactions are arranged at the rates ruling in the regular loaning market. Houses that had been lending stocks actively for the last two weeks report that borrowers were returning the shares after Wednesday's close. That would seem to indicate that the rally on Wednesday was due to a run-in among the shorts who had become frightened because the market failed to decline further following publication of unfavorable steel news by the trade journals.

STANDARD GAS OUTLOOK GOOD

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Direct effect of drought on revenues of Standard Gas & Electric system as a whole is expected to be relatively small, as bulk of revenues is derived from operations in big cities. In Wisconsin and Minnesota, where service has been extended to numerous smaller communities, drought conditions have not been so severe as elsewhere. Although drought in Oklahoma has been severe, revenues of Standard Gas properties there have not yet reflected it.

Revenues of Standard Gas system thus far this year have suffered more from general business depression in the cities than from other causes. Revenues have continued to show an increase over 1929 month by month, but the rate of increase has been only a little over half the rate prevailing in 1929 and previous years. Domestic business is holding up well, and depression has been reflected principally in reduced sales of power.

BLAME 'CARRIER' AS TYPHOID ENDS CAMP

One of 250 Vacationists At Erie Resort Held as Cause, Food Germ Free

In order to safeguard the health of the boys enrolled at Camp Porter on Lake Erie, near Conneaut, O., the Y. M. C. A. of Pittsburgh has decided to terminate the camping season there. Approximately 250 boys from the Pittsburgh district will be returned to their homes at once. This decision has been reached as a result of three cases of typhoid fever among boys and three other suspected cases. A "typhoid carrier" among those in camp is believed responsible.

When the first cases were discovered all sources of water and food supply were retested, and no contamination was discovered except in Lake Erie itself. Swimming was stopped immediately, and upon the advice of public health authorities and physicians it was believed this would be sufficient. Since then, however, it has been decided that the best precaution is to close the camp.

CAREFUL TESTS MADE

The following statement was issued last night by John E. Manley, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of Pittsburgh:

"Before Camp Porter was opened, most careful tests—the customary procedure with Y. M. C. A. camps—were made of water, milk and food supplies. The kitchen help was examined and the Ohio State Board of Health passed upon the camp sanitation. At different times and in varying degrees the advice of at least eight physicians and other experts has been obtained.

"All the evidence would seem to clear from suspicion the drinking water, milk, food supply and employes as sources of infection. While the lake water shows a high bacteria count, the doctors are doubtful that it is the cause of trouble.

CAN'T FIND "CARRIER"

"The concensus of opinion points to a carrier, whose identity could not be determined except through a highly complicated test of the nearly 300 boys involved, which is deemed impractical by the medical advisors. Since there is apparently no general source of infection, it is not likely that many other cases, if any, will develop.

"Letters have gone to the parents advising them of the situation, and their intelligent and friendly co-operation is helping greatly in meeting this unusual situation. They understand that the condition up to this time is not serious and they appreciate the fact that the precautions taken are for the benefit of all."

SHORT CHANGE PAIR HUNTED

Two short change artists who victimized several Wilkinsburg merchants in the last few days were being sought by police and detectives throughout the county today.

The pair riding in an automobile bearing Ohio license plates, operated in Wilkinsburg for several days, county detectives said. One who plays the part of making a purchase and then confusing the salesman was described as being 30, six feet tall and weighing about 150 pounds.

The Fatal Rendezvous

WINDOW SHADE DRAWN AND THE CENTER LIGHT STILL BURNING
NASH FOUND GAGGED AND BOUND IN CLOSET
DALE CHIEF WESTERVELT PROSECUTOR BENNETT BRINGING THE BODY OF EDITH NASH TO THE LODGE.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Robin Dale has a visitor, a Miss Geraldine Knight. She tells him of the mysterious murder of Jack Sharon, a wealthy promoter. The crime took place at a mountain lodge. Dale drives there with Miss Knight. Upon arrival they are astounded when a shrieking woman runs toward their car in the moonlight. The lady is Mrs. Nash, a guest, who said she was about to be killed. Dale learns of the strange, amatory relations of a number of the week-end guests at the lodge. Next morning he inspects the murder scene. It is a sandy beach adjoining a lake, but the only footprints in the sand are those of the murdered man. Dale inspects a tiny island in the lake. He finds a clue which he keeps to himself. The murder-shotgun is found in the lake. Dale drives to the village and entices the hardware shopkeeper to come forward and identify the person who bought shotgun shells the day of the murder. Alan Knight is identified. It develops he is Geraldine's brother, working as Sharon's secretary under an alias. Alan is arrested. Dale throws doubt on the lad's guilt. The county police question the other guests, and they all testify that they were in their rooms at the time of the murder. Dale, by clever questioning, elicits the fact that none were in their rooms. Next he forces Warren Sharon's lawyer to admit an affair with Mrs. Sharon. He finds Nash, Sharon's partner, to be in love with Fay Turner, an actress. All are guests at the lodge. Sharon's affairs, Dale learns, are in good shape. Then comes the startling discovery that Mrs. Nash has been drowned in the lake by the murderer!

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER VI.

During the excitement following this discovery, which put the harassed county officials into more of a muddle than ever, Robin Dale took occasion to send Alan Knight into the village to dispatch a telegram to New York. It was addressed to the city editor of the Daily Journal. The contents of the telegram mystified young Knight, but Dale only smiled and told him to get it off and insist upon having it rushed through.

The body of Mrs. Nash was brought into the house. When everyone had assembled it was suddenly discovered that, during the excitement, no one had noticed the absence of Kenneth Nash! Calls were sent for him in all directions and finally all mounted to the upper floor.

The door leading into the Nash room was found unlocked. Westervelt opened it and strode inside. It was empty, and, strangely enough, the center lights were still fully ablaze and the window shades were down. These were quickly snapped up and the lights switched off. In the center of the room was a quite sizeable table. On it was a key. In searching for Nash, Westervelt came to the closet door and found it to be locked!

Dale, having spotted the key, went quickly to the closet and, as he expected, it fitted the lock. The door was swung open and in the closet, bound with heavy double-strand covered wire, such as is in use for radio aerials, they found Nash, propped against the rear wall. He was tightly gagged. The wire which was drawn a number of times about his wrists, had the two ends twisted tightly in the manner of a cork-screw until the wire had dug into the flesh. The ends were fastened and looped over a hook in the closet so that his hands were drawn upward, leaving him in an utterly helpless position.

Nash was quickly released. It was some moments before he recovered sufficiently to speak. There was a nasty blow over his forehead.

"Edith? . . . Where is she?" he finally asked weakly.

Bennett shook his head, signaling that the truth should not yet be told. He asked a question quickly, trying to keep Nash from the subject of his wife.

"When did this happen?"

"Last night . . . I went downstairs for a cigaret . . . Mrs. Nash had already retired. I put out the light because she wanted to sleep. Fifteen minutes later I came back . . . in the darkness something struck my forehead. I don't remember anything until, hours and hours ago, my senses returned and I was helpless, just as you found me."

He paused a moment in utter weakness. His voice had became quite low as, after his ordeal, it was with an effort that he could speak.

"Where is Edith? . . . Edith! . . . Edith!" he called.

A silence fell upon the group . . . most of those in the house were now in the room or at the door. It seemed as though no one wanted to tell Nash the truth. Dale was the one who finally spoke.

"You must have a feeling that something's happened." Dale wanted to have Nash get it as easily as possible.

"What is it? For God's sake, don't torture me any more!" His voice was taking on a note of frenzy.

"Brace yourself, old man . . . she is . . . dead!"

"Dead? Dead!" he shrieked. "And none of you able to do anything. Let her be killed!"

The strain was too much. He collapsed weakly and the only sign of his feeling was a grim, steady stare into the distance. Most of those in the room had turned away. Slowly they went out of the door, haunted by the grim fear that a murderous fiend was still in their midst.

Who would be the next victim? That thought haunted the minds of all of them.

As Dale turned to go, his features suffused for the first time with a grim, hard look, he felt Nash tugging at his sleeve.

"How?" was all Nash said, weakly.

"The lake—" Dale replied. He could not bring himself to explain any more than that.

Nash's arm fell listlessly to his side. Subconsciously, then, he began to rub the deep ridges in his wrists.

Dale descended slowly. He knew now who the fiend was. It was an utterly horrible sensation to be so positively sure. Vampire he had said . . . the fiend was almost a vampire. Killing without leaving footprints, with guns which made no sound, drowning women in the eerie hours of night because they knew too much.

Dale knew who would be next if the killer were not unmasked. Robin Dale would be the next. For Robin Dale knew too much.

Dale walked about in the garden for a long time. He wanted to be alone. The most difficult act of all would be the unmasking. Who would believe him? It was really a study in psychology . . . he knew the guilty one, but who would accept his solution.

He heard the chugging of a car as it came over the brow of the knoll. It stopped outside the lodge. A long, lanky figure came leisurely toward the house. Dale, sensing the reason for the visitor, intercepted him. It was a man from the station with a telegram for Robin Dale.

Dale signed and hastily tore it open. He set his jaws grimly as he read. It was rather as he had expected. With a quick movement he pocketed the telegram and strode rapidly toward the house. He found Prosecutor Bennett in the library with the other county and village officials. They were still dazed somewhat by the startling events which had transpired, and seemed at a loss to know how to proceed.

"Gentlemen, I think I can hand you your murderer! If you will have everyone assemble in the main room I'll try to explain all this horrible mystery. It is horrible, gentlemen, and I'd like to warn you to keep all doors and windows carefully guarded. The killer is desperate and utterly ruthless and would not refrain from murdering every person in this house if it meant freedom."

(What was in the telegram Robin Dale sent? And in the one he received? How was Jack Sharon murdered? Who killed him? And why? Who killed Mrs. Nash? Who attacked and bound Mr. Nash? What was the motive for these acts?)

SOLUTION TO

Falling Star

By ARTHUR HOERL

"Forsythe, what made you kill Irma Gladden?"

For a long moment Forsythe gazed at Robin Dale in silence. Slowly his face became livid and then distorted in rage and fear as a mania took possession of him. Suddenly he sprang to his feet and in a fury grasped a heavy bronze statuette from the desk and sprang to attack Dale. The reporter was prepared and stepped back and drew an automatic from his pocket and covered the half-crazed author.

"You spied on me!" Forsythe almost shrieked. "I'll give you what I gave that other spy! You won't have the police on me!"

"I never intended to, Forsythe . . I was going to step down and have them work it out for themselves. I don't belong to the police to hunt down my friends . . . but after that fiendish killing tonight I realized something inside you must have snapped."

"She deserved what she got . . . you don't know what she made me suffer . . and he did, too, willing to peach to the police!" Forsythe shouted.

For an instant Dale had lowered his automatic. With a cry Forsythe leaped toward him, the bronze weapon upraised. Just in time the reporter warded off the attack and held the frenzied man at bay. Dale realized that he was face to face with a madman. He strove to keep him calmed by talking gently to him until the police arrived.

Capt. Sommers and Maurice Kenton were astounded beyond words when they came in with Andre Leighton. One of the detectives snapped handcuffs on the unfortunate Forsythe.

"We won't need Mr. Leighton now, captain," Robert Dale explained. "I wanted merely to confirm that Mathilda Christine, Miss Gladden's maid, was reporting to him regularly. Is that right, Mr. Leighton?"

"Yes, that's right."

"And on the night of the murder she received a bogus message from you and was at your home when you returned the next morning . . . is that correct, also?"

"How did you know? I told her to say nothing," Leighton responded.

"It was in a picture we saw this evening. Whoever committed the crime knew a great deal about Irma Gladden's life. The one who wrote her last story paralleled much of her life in it. So much so that it frightened her—you remember she was afraid. She feared Rex Forsythe, feared that which was written as fiction would happen to her. He probably told her as much, for he was deeply enamoured of her. Yet, if she had tried to tell anyone she would probably have been laughed at. In that script on the table you will find underlined sentences which only she understood the full import of. That's why it was important to confirm the fact that Mr. Leighton kept a servant in his wife's home. It was the running of the picture that gave the final clues. The author had gone through with almost the actual thing he had conceived as fiction. Even the clue to the murder weapons was there . . . a knife stuck through the skin of a reptile . . . just so does the bronze lion on the lawn of Irma Gladden's home at this moment hold the revolver which killed her and the knife that ended the life of Robert Worth. It was an ingenious hiding place, but Falling Star told of it."

During Robin Dale's explanation Rex Forsythe had broken down and when the reporter had finished the man was sobbing softly. It was a pitiful sight. There was a choke in Dale's voice as he whispered to the district attorney and Capt. Sommers.

"We all have dual natures, fortunately the subconscious remains submerged in most of us . . . poor Forsythe's was aroused and took the form of homicidal mania . . . that's what the wrong kind of a woman can do to a man."

MILK SHORTAGE FEAR FADES

As the August price of milk went up a cent per quart yesterday, representatives of local dairy products distributors gave assurance that unless the dry spell continues another month there will be no shortage.

A meeting called by the City Bureau of Food Inspection to discuss possibilities of a shortage, revealed there is none, it was said. Representatives from the Reick-McJunkin Dairy Company, Liberty Dairy Products Corporation, Dairymen's Co-Operative Association, and independent dealers were closeted late yesterday in a two-hour session in the bureau offices in the City-County Building.

New prices of milk, scheduled after the drought became serious a few weeks ago, effective today, are:

Grade A milk, 17 cents per quart; 10 cents per pint.

Standard quality milk, 14 cents per quart; 8 cents per pint.

Cream, 18 cents per half pint.

Although drought has dried up pastures, winter rations of ensilage, corn and wheat are being fed stock in stables. This guarantees a continued high standard of product, it was said. A number of those who conferred said cattle was being fed cut corn which was dwarfed by the sun.

BAM! THERE GOES A TRIPLE!

Adam Comorosky, Polish outfield star, yesterday became the first Pirate to knock in 100 runs this season. His triple in the tenth inning sent home P. Waner with the winning run of the second game with the Phillies at Forbes Field. Pitcher Glenn Spencer, of the Corsairs, was injured as he took a spill trying to score in the fifth inning of the second game, and, after he had pitched four straight balls to the first batter in the next inning, he had to be taken out of the game. Photos show how the collision with Catcher McCurdy caused the accident, and Spencer being helped from the field by his teammates and Dr. Berg, the club physician. Swetonic, who finished the first game, also finished the second and got credit for the victory.

ROBINS FACE BUCS TODAY

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Value of Good Catcher. Desautels Makes Tigers. Gunn's Glory Returns. | Cubs Poison to Robins. Come-Back by Cooper. Promoters at War.

KID BACKSTOP TRANSFORMS WHITEHILL

IN LOOKING ABOUT for the explanation of the surprising change in form that suddenly converted Earl Whitehill, Detroit southpaw, from a dismal failure in the first 10 weeks of the season into the pitching sensation of the major leagues in the second half of the campaign, don't overlook the probability that a kid catcher from Holy Cross College had a whole lot to do with it. Eugene Desautels, the only college backstop ever to jump straight to the majors and make good, may be the answer to Whitehill's amazing success in winning 10 straight games after a most disappointing start in the campaign of 1930.

Bucky Harris.

Some of the critics have been referring to the "clever handling of Manager Bucky Harris" as the main factor in the Whitehill transformation, but their conclusions are not borne out by the dope sheets. For in 1929 also, Harris was manager of the Tigers, but the left-hander did not pitch even .500 ball, winning only 14 games against 15 lost. And the same Harris was on the same job during the first half of this season, yet the best that Whitehill could do in that period was to win three games out of 12 pitched.

NOR WERE EARLIER Tiger pilots able to get much better results out of the fork-hander. In two years under George Moriarty he won only 27 games against 30 defeats, and in three seasons under Ty Cobb he won 44 and lost 33. In only three full seasons out of six, starting in 1924, did he succeed in winning more games than he lost, and during 1928 and 1929 he won, all told, only 25 decisions while losing 31.

So there isn't much evidence in the records that Whitehill was helped a great deal by the handling of any of the three Detroit pilots under whom he has worked. Rather it appears that what he needed was a capable catcher, and a comparison of his previous work with what he has accomplished since Desautels came along to support him behind the bat would seem to indicate that the Holy Cross boy is entitled to not a little of the credit for his remarkable improvement.

JOHN McGRAW once remarked, in stressing the importance of a backstop and his influence upon a pitcher, that in trying to get a line on the probable outcome of a ball game the observer should note who was catching rather than who was pitching.

The meaning of the Giant leader's words was that a competent maskman would bring out the best in a pitcher and steer him through the tightest situations, whereas a poor receiver might easily cause the loss of a game.

John McGraw.

McGRAW'S VIEWS ON catching values would appear to support the belief that Whitehill owes much to Desautels. Gene joined the Tigers on June 22. Whitehill's winning streak began on August 2. Prior to that the southpaw had won only three games and lost nine, and had not won two in succession. He has since won 10 in a row, going the route in eight of them, allowing only 77 hits and striking out 56 men. Desautels has been his catcher in every one of the 10 games. Corresponding improvement is to be noted in the work of other Detroit hurlers. The Tigers have won 27 of their last 44 games, a percentage of .614. Previously they won only 30 out of 73, a percentage of .411. The difference is generally admitted to have been due to improved hurling. All around, the figures appear to bear out the indications of late June that in Desautels the Tigers have picked up one of the catching finds of recent years. And he didn't cost a cent except his bonus for signing, which is another angle that emphasizes Detroit's luck in getting him in a period of lofty playing values in the American League that began when the Yankees paid the Red Sox $137,500 for Babe Ruth after the season of 1929.

WATTS GUNN has proved that he wasn't a mere golf flash after all, such as he was pronounced in some quarters when he failed to shine in a series of tournaments following the one big stand-out that carried him to the final round against Bobby Jones here three years ago for the United States amateur title.

Gunn's waning glory surely was restored this week. First he was the leading amateur in the tournament for the West Penn open championship, next he was medalist in the qualifying play for the West Penn amateur championship, and finally he won the latter title, at Oakmont, by defeating Fred Weppner, 2 up, in the 18-hole final. It took more than golfing skill to keep coming back in the face of repeated failures and disappointments, but Gunn had everything required. The sectional title is in worthy hands.

IF THE ROBINS had not been required to play the Cubs this season, they would now have the National League pennant tightly sewed up. But they couldn't beat the one club it was necessary to

GUNN RALLIES TO COP W. PA. AMATEUR

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Making one of the finest comebacks in his career and playing against some of the stiffest opposition he has encountered since he left tropical moons in Atlanta, Watts Gunn, of Oakmont, intimate friend of Bobby Jones and runner-up in the state amateur championship recently, came into his own at Oakmont yesterday when he won the Western Pennsylvania amateur golf championship by defeating Fred (Dutchie) Weppner, Stanton Heights warhorse, 2 up, in the 18-hole final match.

Weppner, tired from the terrific pace he was forced to go in advancing through the second and semi-final rounds, in which he played extra-hole matches, stepped off in a spectacular manner yesterday as the finalists began their fight, and before he knew it, Gunn found himself no less than 3 down on the sixth hole.

Dutchie copped the first, third and sixth holes to attain this status.

SOUTHERNER RALLIES

But right then and there prosperity started to take its toll, the Southerner knocking off two holes in a row, the seventh and eighth, to be only 1 down. Weppner saved the match from being squared by dropping a beautiful putt on the ninth green and went 2 up again.

While the first nine was "all Weppner" the last was "all Gunn." The former Southern Intercollegiate champion and runner-up to Bobby Jones in the National Amateur of 1927, at Oakmont, immediately trained his guns on Weppner and after they had left the eleventh tee, the contest was squared by virtue of Watts having won the tenth and eleventh in rapid order. They halved the twelfth in 6s and the

PIRATES SPLIT DOUBLE BILL WITH PHILS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The Robins weren't chirping when they landed in Pittsburgh this morning, but to be truthful in their behalf it should be said they were not poppin' off when they were in Pittsburgh with a sizable lead about 10 days ago.

Uncle Robbie and his slumping Flock reached here from Chicago with little time to think things over before they headed for Forbes Field, where they will take on the Pirates this afternoon in a doubleheader.

Losing seven out of nine battles since they departed this city last week, the Flatbush crew this morning found themselves more than two games below the fighting Cubs, and to add to their woes, the Giants are little more than one full game behind them.

LOCAL STAFF SHOT

The ray of hope in the Brooklyn cloud lies in the fact that the Robins are due to take the Pirates in four struggles at a time when the home pitching squad is almost shot to pieces.

The four-game series will get under way this afternoon with a Forbes Field doubleheader. After the completion of the games the two clubs will move to Brooklyn, where a game is on the books for tomorrow. Then back to the Oakland Orchard for a Monday contest.

Manager Ens' curtailed pitching staff was narrowed down to two or three hurlers today owing to new misfortunes within the ranks.

The principal casualty today was Glenn Spencer, who suffered a bruised knee in the second clash of yesterday at Forbes Field. Ervin Brame still is suffering with mashed fingers on his left hand while Larry French is nursing a sore arm.

Brame and Remy Kremer may have to do the honors today, according to a statement made by Manager Ens this morning. Brame will be unable to swing at the plate in his natural manner, but there is nothing wrong with his throwing hand. Kremer pitched a full game on Wednesday, but

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. — Every time the Cubs meet Brooklyn it's just a benefit game for John McGraw. Folks have been so busy watching the Robins peck at the Chicagos they haven't noticed the Giants nibbling at the flagpole, too. And it wouldn't jolt your Uncle Nicholas if the New York Club scrammed in.

What a world series that would be—Connie Mack vs. John McGraw. There would be enough master-minding going on to stop the town clock. Players would be knocked down and trampled by the thought waves. # CUBS' ROUT OF ROBINS BOOSTS FLAG HOPES

GIANTS CLOSE ON HEELS OF LEADERS

Associated Press

If the Chicago Cubs are going to win the National League pennant again this season the time is at hand for them to strike the deciding blows of the battle. The Cubs are in a fine position today to settle the matter for once and for all having scored a thorough triumph over their closest rivals the Brooklyn Robins by winning three of the four games of the series which ended yesterday.

By virtue of their 4 to 3 victory in yesterday's 10-inning struggle which closed the series the Cubs are out ahead by two full games. Today they open a series with the comparatively easy Phillies with five games ahead before they tackle the New York Giants in a series which may become as important as the one just ended.

TOUGH ROW AHEAD

Brooklyn meanwhile moves on to tackle the somewhat tougher Pittsburgh Pirates with comparatively few hopes of regaining the lead in the near future.

The final struggle which put the Cubs into their commanding position was all that could be expected of two teams that were fighting for the top. From start to finish it provided one thrill after another for the overflow crowd of 45,000 and it ended in a blaze of glory for Danny Taylor, substitute outfielder, who broke up the struggle in the tenth inning with a drive into the crowd standing in the outfield.

The Robins made a quick start, bunching four of their 8 hits off Charley Root in the first inning for two runs. But from that inning to the ninth the Chicago hurler was almost invincible and the brilliant Cub fielding provided a perfect background for his work. Old Adolfo Luque was just about as good most of the time and forced the Cubs into a long uphill pull to overcome Brooklyn's first inning lead.

TAYLOR STARS

The same young Dan Taylor who won the game started the Chicago scoring in the fifth with a double which Grimm duplicated. He drove in the tying run in the sixth. In the eighth inning Chicago forged ahead only to have pinch hitters Boone and Hendrick tie the count and send the game into its extra inning.

While the two leading contenders were mauling each other about in Chicago the New York Giants came up into a position menacing to either one of them by trouncing the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 0, for their fifth victory in six games. This triumph, made easy by Carl Hubbell's four-hit pitching and Bill Terry's timely clouting, left the Giants only a game and one-half behind Brooklyn, and only three and one-half games behind the Cubs.

PHILS, BUCS SPLIT

With the entire American League schedule washed out by the rain, it remained for the elder circuit to supply all the day's baseball news. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh divided a hard-fought double-header. The Phillies took the first clash, 7 to 5, as Fred Brickell, a former Pirate, walloped two singles and a triple and scored three runs. Pittsburgh went 10 innings for a 3 to 2 triumph in the second.

The St. Louis Cardinals picked up their winning streak where Boston broke it Thursday, defeating the Braves, 8 to 4. Home runs by Hafey and Watkins featured the game.

THE "OLD MUG" ITSELF

Here is the America's Cup, priceless yachting trophy, for which Sir Tom Lipton has been contending all of these years. It was put in competition in 1851, cost about $500, and would bring only about $40 if melted into silver bullion, but its traditional value is estimated in the millions. It is made of solid silver, weighs 134 ounces and stands 27 inches high. The races for the America's Cup will be run off Newport, R. I., next month.

SARAZEN'S 67 TOPS FIELD

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Gene Sarazen, a great money player with his eyes focused on another bag of gold, led a spectacular assault on par over the Keller County course yesterday and snatched a one-shot margin in the big struggle for the $10,000 St. Paul open golf championship.

The stocky New York Italian professional, whose big clubs carried away the largest cash prize in golf's history at Agua Caliente, Mex., last winter, whizzed around the championship course with a brilliant 67. Five lusty strokes under par, which not only netted him his scant advantage, but gave him a new competitive record for the course.

One stroke behind him at the end of the quarter way junction of the 72-hole medal struggle were Johnny Farrell, of New York, like Sarazen, a former national open champion, and Otto Hackbarth, the veteran professional from Cincinnati, who made his first appearance in championship play in three years.

Three other well-known shotmakers scored 69's to land among the leaders. They were Johnny Goodman, the Ohama youth who upset Bobby Jones in the national amateur at Pebble Beach last year; Tony Manero, of White Plains, N. Y., and "Lighthorse Harry" Cooper, of Chicago. Manero muffed a five-foot putt for a 68 on the final green.

Flaming Hoop Dive Features Swim Meet

Two unusual features will greet the aquatic fans who travel to the Rock Bottom pool, Edgewood, tomorrow night to attend the swimming meet sponsored by the Rock Bottom Club.

A dive through a flaming hoop from the 60-foot cliff into the water by Joe McCann, of Wilkinsburg, is one of the main attractions, and the other will be the first appearance of Jack (Buck) McTiernan, classy middleweight, of Swissvale, as a judge of the events. Buck usually has some one judging him, but now the tables are turned.

SCOTTIES PRESS M.-A. LEADERS

Hammering out a 14-1 victory over Johnstown, the Scottdale Little Cardinals clambered to within half a game of leading Black Diamonds in the Mid-Atlantic League yesterday.

ROCCO BATTLE BIG 'DRAW'

The Meyers Bowl management reports unusual interest in its Emmett Rocco-Patsy Pirrone heavyweight show, scheduled for next Monday night, due to Rocco's record of battles with many of the leading big fellows and Pirrone's sensational work in bouts with Harry Williams here.

A delegation of fans from the Ellwood City district will be on hand to root for Rocco, and Pirrone is bringing over a small army from Ohio to cheer for him. Pirrone figures he has a chance to greatly enhance his reputation in this battle. He is taking the place of George Panka, of Homestead, who strained the ligaments in one of his sides and for this reason cannot box. A victory over Rocco would make Pirrone greatly in demand here, as well as in his home state and around the country.

Tiger Joe West, of Donora, who handily defeated Lynn Jordan at Hickey Park, Millvale, last Thursday night, meets K. O. Husk, of Akron, in the main bout of a show at the Washington (Pa.) armory next Thursday night. Ross Fields and Tony Marino are in the six-round semi-final, and Eddie Henber boxes Nick Caruso, Johnny Warner battles Jimmy Chapman and Marty Gornick is in with Leon Zampetti in the other preliminaries.

Reed Brown has Frank Monroe, 165 pounds, and Patsy Gallagher, 128, ready for bouts. Promoters may reach him by calling Mayflower 6100.

RETZLAFF WINS

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Charlie Retzlaff, young Duluth heavyweight, won a newspaper decision over Leon Chevalier, Oakland, Cal., Negro, in a six-round bout here last night. Retzlaff weighed 192 and Chevalier 209.

PASS UP CAMP

MASONTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Departing from a custom established 12 years ago, the Masontown High School football team will not attend a training camp this fall. Necessity for economy was given as the reason.

Marquette University, of Milwaukee, is to play five games of football at night this fall.

GARDEN SIGNS TAR, CAMPOLO

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey yesterday dropped negotiations for a heavyweight engagement with Primo Carnera, the Italian Giant, and signed with Madison Square Garden to fight Victorio Campolo, the Argentine, in the Yankee Stadium, September 25. The bout is for 15 rounds.

The signing of Sharkey came as a big surprise to the boxing world, as the Boston Sailor had been expected to sign a contract with Mique Malloy to meet the man mountain of Italy at Soldier Field in Chicago. In the Sharkey-Campolo battle Madison Square Garden paves the way for a bout between the winner and Young Stribbling in the annual battle of the palms in Miami next winter.

LAWLESS VICTOR

J. O'LOUGHLIN MAKES TITLE BID TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Staff Correspondent.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 16.—John O'Loughlin, brilliant young star of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, will encounter Bob Considine, rangy Washingtonian and holder of the District of Columbia title, in the final tussle for the Western Maryland men's singles tennis championship on the gallery court of the Women's Civic Club here today.

O'Loughlin crashed through to the finale yesterday morning by virtue of thrilling 6-2, 6-2, 3-6, 2-6, 6-2 victory over Billy Ramsay, Uniontown and Lafayette College star, while Considine registered an impressive 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 decision over Edgar Alcorn, driving Steel City boy, in the other semi-final contest.

WINS IN DOUBLES

O'Loughlin likewise broke into the men's doubles semi-finals, in which he paired with John Brown, former Latrobe ace, now playing from Mt. Lebanon, to eliminate Alcorn and Bill Servick, also a Pittsburgh district pair, 6-1, 6-2. Alcorn and Servick had previously downed the Mexico-Pittsburgh coalition of Manuel Martinez and Paul Sullivan, 6-0, 6-3, and the Greensburgers, Don Snyder and Dillinger Hixson, 6-3, 6-0.

With O'Loughlin and Brown in the two-man semi-finals are Considine and his Pasadena partner, Lieut. S. K. Robinson; B. F. Arkle, Wheeling luminary, and Ramsay and the Hammer brothers, of Greensburg.

The O'Loughlin-Ramsay duel was an affair of ups and downs. The Winged Head contender started in spectacular fashion as Ramsay attempted to trade drives with him. O'Loughlin ate up the Uniontowner's speed, forced numerous opposing errors, and carved off quite a few perfect placements with heavy cross-court forehands to lead at 6-2, 6-2, 3-0. Then as suddenly as if he had the wind knocked from him, he blew to drop six games and the set.

O'Loughlin failed to revive in the fourth bracket, which he lost at 6-2, but not before he had steadied considerably to chase his rival back and forth aplenty and wear to a state bordering on exhaustion for the fifth frame.

RAMSAY CRACKS SERVICE

Ramsay cracked hostile service to inaugurate set five. It was his last gallant gesture. Drawing upon some hidden nerve of energy, O'Loughlin assaulted with sweeping drives to backhand, with follows-ups for placement volleys at the barrier, Ramsay, badly fatigued, saw his hitherto reliable backhand crack to out a number of easy chances and to dump others into the mesh.

Alcorn drove well, fore and backhand, against the versatile Considine, but his strokes lacked the sting to disconcert the more experienced and resourceful capital satellite.

WOMEN STARS WIN

Seeded favorites entered the womens singles semi-finals without exception. Margaret Carspecken, accomplished Morgantown girl, hung up a quick 6-0, 6-1 win over Evelyn Claybrook, of Cumberland, in the quarter-finals, while Marywill Wakeford, Mobile luminary and defending champion, accounted for Mrs. Margaret Graham, of Washington, 6-3, 6-4.

Frances Walker, capital chopster, outsteadied Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. performer, 6-3, 6-0, to earn right to encounter Miss Wakeford. Mrs. Ruth Martinez, Washington public parks premier, after a protracted struggle, carded for Helen Carson, courageous little Greeensburg southpaw, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0.

Sport Vignettes

Campolo and Sharkey are matched for New York, thereby killing a Sharkey-Carnera fight in Chicago and also a good crack suggested by a headline in the paper reading, "Sharkey-Carnera Match in Offing," which is our idea of a swell place to stage that one . . . Jimmy Dykes, of the Athletics, has been ordered by his doctor to cut down to one cigar a day, so he has 'em made special, two feet long, and saws 'em in half for convenience in carrying 'em around. . . . Wonder how Bill Tilden would relish the idea of playing to a lot of empty stands? . . . At that, the tennis crowds are getting quite rowdy these days . . . Time was when they didn't know how to laugh . . . Emmett Rocco, the heavyweight, of Ellwood City, who boxes Patsy Pirrone, of Canton, O., at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night, has met a lot of good ones, and don't forget it . . . Included among his opponents have been Johnny Risko (twice), Yale Okun, Marty Gallagher, Jack Gross, Al Friedman (twice), Otto Von Porat, Joe Sekyra, Moise Bouquillon, Frankie Wine, Tom Kirby and Frankie Simms . . . He's fighting now under the management of Al Zill, the Youngstown promoter . . . Frankie Cawley, the young heavyweight, who is coming to the fore around Philadelphia, where he meets Jack Gagnon Monday night, grew up a coal miner in the anthracite region of the state and still works at his trade there between fights . . . He is a former sparring partner of Tommy Loughran and is being handled by the latter's manager, Joe Smith. . . . Joey Thomas, the Chicago featherweight, who boxes Jackie Rodgers at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Thursday night, has boxed Andy Martin, Phil Zwick, Jackie Dugan, Billy DeFoe, Howard Mayberry, Mike Dundee and Roger Bernard, among others, and has been matched for bouts with Benny Bass and Bud Taylor that have been called off . . . Mickey Heath, first baseman of the Hollywood Sheiks, of the Pacific Coast League, says he can't sleep nights for the baseball games in the daytime because his two kids keep him awake whooping it up with the whooping cough and can't sleep in the daytime for the night games because he can't get accustomed to the odd hours . . . Such a life! . . . Johnny Gill, who was a prominent welterweight boxer a decade ago, now has a kid brother, Dave, a 150-pounder, fighting out of Beaver Falls under the management of the firm of Mutscheller and Henry . . . Ray Eberle, the well-known announcer, will be absent from his Meyers Bowl post for a couple weeks while on vacation . . . # LONG'S SPORT COMMENT beat, and the rout they have suffered in losing 14 out of 19 games with the Bruins—nine out of 11 in Chicago and five out of eight in Brooklyn—may cost them the championship in the end.

Charley Root.

Charley Root has won more games than any other Chicago pitcher from the Robins. Though losing to them twice, he has taken their measure four times. Pat Malone and Sheriff Blake have won three each without a defeat, Guy Bush has won two and lost one, Bob Osborn has won one and lost none, Lynn Nelson has won one and lost one, and Bob Teachout has lost one. It was an important game that Root took from the Brooklynites yesterday, not only keeping them from drawing up to practically even terms for first place, but possibly shaking their morale at a time when the Dodgers were facing three consecutive nights on trains and a hard five-game series with the Pirates, with the Cubs meanwhile being privileged to meet the tail-end Phillies. The Robins, after losing seven of their last eight games will have to step fast now even to keep ahead of the Giants. The latter are right in the fight again, actually ahead of Brooklyn in the "Lost" column by one game, and being charged with only two defeats more than Chicago.

WHAT DOES THE batter get when a line drive caroms off the third baseman's shins and goes into the grandstand? That question has been the cause of a big argument in the Western League. Outfielder Nietzke, of Pueblo, bounced such a hit off Third Baseman Vigore, of Wichita. The umpires allowed two bases, but Pueblo claimed a home run and protested Wichita's 8-to-6 victory. League President Dale Gear at first decided to allow the protest and ordered the game played over from the second inning, with Nietzke being given a home run.*

UPON FURTHER CONSIDERATION, however, President Gear reversed himself, upheld the umpires and allowed the game to stand as a victory for Wichita, with Nietzke getting only a two-bagger. The umpires were right in the first place. The point is covered by Rule 48.

This provides that when a fair batted ball goes over a fence or into a stand at a distance LESS THAN 250 FEET FROM THE HOME PLATE the batter shall be entitled to two bases only, instead of to a home run, as is the case when it goes out at a distance more than 250 feet from the plate.

WILBUR COOPER, former Pirate star, recently released by Shreveport in the Texas League and signed by San Antonio in the same circuit, has started out in earnest to show that he is not nearly so close to being done as a pitcher as was generally believed.

The veteran southpaw gave a masterful exhibition on the slab for his new club when he defeated Joe Schultz's Houston team, 3-to-1, and allowed only two hits. The only blows marked up against Cooper were a single by Carey Selph in the first inning and a home run by Homer Peel in the ninth.

WITH SO MUCH money in sight as a result of the sudden development of a series of heavyweight naturals, it might have been expected that the rival promoters of the East and the Middle West soon would start cutting one another's throats. The game got under way when the chiefs of Madison Square Garden in New York knocked out the Jack Sharkey-Primo Carnera match, scheduled for next month in Chicago under Mike Malloy's promotion, by "discovering" that Sharkey was under a contract to fight for them once more before engaging in any other contest. So instead of meeting Carnera in Chicago, a show which might have brought a million-dollar gate by reason of Carnera's drawing powers as a circus attraction, Sharkey will be forced to take on Victorio at the Yankee Stadium in New York on September 25.*

Victorio Campolo.

THERE IS NO demand for the latter match, and it does not promise to break any records for intake. Sharkey is none too popular at present and cannot draw nearly as much with Campolo, whom he figures to beat easily, as he would have drawn with Carnera, who carries an appeal of his own. Young Stribling and Campolo would have been a far better money-getter in New York, as Stribling has become a big card.

Then the Gotham promoters would have made a second killing with a bout between the Stribling-Campolo and Sharkey-Carnera winners. But they appear to get more satisfaction out of spoiling somebody else's game. Malloy may counter with a Stribling-Carnera match, the only drawback being that the men have met twice and that on each occasion the fight ended in a foul.

ALL DOUBT AS to the real 3-year-old turf champion should be swept away this afternoon, when the foremost contenders for the title, Gallant Fox and Whichone, clash again in the Travers Stakes at Saratoga. It will be their rubber meeting. Whichone beat Gallant Fox as a 2-year-old in the Futurity of 1929, but this season the Fox ran away from the Whitney horse in the Belmont Stakes.

It is said that Whichone, owing to a split hoof, wasn't right in the Belmont, and his fine showing in winning three races handily during the last 10 days, featured by a new Miller Stakes record of 1:56 2-5 for a mile and three-sixteenths last Saturday, leads some turfmen to predict that he will turn the tables on Gallant Fox this afternoon.

W. PA. SECTION CARNIVAL ON AT PITCAIRN

By JESS CARVER.

A vigorous attack on all existing division records was launched today by half a thousand athletes of the Western Pennsylvania divisions of the Pennsylvania Railroad, competing in the annual division track and field meet at the fine athletic field at Pitcairn.

H. Schnellbach

The winners in today's events will represent the division in the regional championships at Altoona in September, in which the Central Division, of which the Western Pennsylvania sector is an integral part, will risk the region title it won two years ago and successfully defended last fall.

COMPETITION KEEN

Today's battle for the point trophy was expected to develop into a close battle between stars of the Pittsburgh and Monongahela divisions, with the not-to-be-slighted band of stars, headed by Henry Schnellbach, sprint star, and Joe Pesci, distance runner, wearing the colors of Conemaugh.

A brilliant field of sprinters, including in addition to Schnellbach, Lou Patterson, E. S. and W. R. Weimer, W. H. Buell and Johnny Weisenbach, promised times of 10 seconds or better in the trials and finals of the 100-yard event and of corresponding speed in the furlong.

Jim Watkins, favored in the 880, and Joe Pesci, the choice in the mile, may meet in the shorter event, Pesci's name being listed among the half-milers, and if this occurs one or the other if certain to be pressed to near record time. Pesci and A. H. Amick will tangle in the mile, with the former seeking revenge for the defeat he suffered in the same race at the Philadelphia Company meet a week ago.

RELAY TEAM STRONG

The mile and a quarter relay team of the Pittsburgh division, made up of Watkins, Amick, Patterson and H. W. Smith, appears to have things about sewed up in this event.

Smith, an all-around star, who on more than one occasion has jaunted off with the high individual scoring honors, will compete in the low hurdles, high jump and the quarter-mile, with better than an outside chance of winning two of these events.

Tennis, trap and rifle shooting, quoits and horseshoes, and an elimination baseball tussle between the Pitcairn and Cleveland nines will complete the program.

While stars of the Western Pennsylvania division are competing at Pitcairn, the Eastern division will hold its tryouts at Carlisle, Pa.

The Tipoff

Pete MacRae, who was an All-American end at Syracuse during his collegiate days and served as scout for both Syracuse and New York University in '28, '29 and '30, is visiting headquarters for a few days. He's residing in Buffalo at present.

Elmer Layden, Duke grid mentor, leaves tomorrow for a vacation at St. Jovite, Canada, where he'll swim and golf and ride horseback until time to start fall practice on the Bluff.

Nate Loose, the sport boss at Harding High, Allentown, is adding rope-skipping to his training program for his footballers.

A'S STAR ON ROAD

The Athletics won 17 out of 24 games during the club's July road trip.

Campus Comment

Member, All-America Board of Football.

ALL-INDIAN TEAM

This All-Indian team really is the only real American team that could be picked, as all of them can trace their ancestry back before the Mayflower:

Knute Rockne

Exendine, Carlisle, end; Wheelock, Carlisle, tackle; Stidham, Haskell, guard; Artichoke, Haskell, center; Lone Star, Carlisle, guard; Roebuck, Haskell, tackle; Gardner, Carlisle, end; Mount Pleasant, Carlisle, quarter; Thorpe, Carlisle, halfback; Guyon, Carlisle and Georgia Tech, halfback; Hauser, Carlisle, fullback.

Those were great team that Pop Warner used to have at Carlisle, back in the old days before the government gave up that famous Pennsylvania institution. Several on this all-star team are from Dick Hanley's more recent Haskell team, which achieved quite a bit of national fame.

There were some really great Indian players who are not included on this team, such as Seneca, Hudson, Johnson, Cayou, Welch, Pierce, Wasewa and Calac, of Carlisle, and McLain and Levi, of Haskell. Perhaps they belong on it. Who knows? At any rate, it is a real All-America team, representing all of the tribes from the Iroquois in the East to the Arapahoe and Chinnok, of the Far West.

GENE TUNNEY — FRANCIS T. HUNTER

Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, looks on at Rye, N. Y., with Hunter, former Davis Cup star, as the latter's pal, Bill Tilden, resigns a match to Cliff Sutter, intercollegiate champion, rather than submit longer to abuse from the gallery. "They don't resign under fire like that in the ring," was Tunney's comment.

GUNN VICTOR IN AMATEUR

thirteenth in 4s. The Oakmonster went up by passing a beautiful second pitch shot to within a couple of feet of the pin and dropping his putt for a birdie three.

They played No. 15 perfect with two putts each for par 4s and then the fun began.

GUNN WINS SIXTEENTH

Gunn was over the sixteenth green in a trap to the left with his drive, while Weppner flubbed one into a trap well in advance of the green. The Stanton Heights star played a beautiful pitch, and the back-spin was so strong the ball rolled back away from the cup, several feet, from where it lit, and he faced a good 30 foot putt. Gunn drew applause by chipping neatly two feet past the pin, and won the hole when Fred missed his long tap, and he sunk his for a par 3. That made Gunn dormie 2—2 up and 2 to go.

Nothing daunted by his status, but showing unmistakable signs of the strain of the match and his extra-hole competition, Weppner came back to win the seventeenth with a beautiful par 4.

But he blew up completely on the home hole—the hole that he had to win to carry on. Gunn was straight down the middle from the tee, while Fred was away over in a gully on the fifteenth hole. When Weppner only half-hit his second, Gunn placed a beauty No. 2 iron shot 12 feet from the pin. Weppner dubbed his third, chipped up with his fourth, and when Gunn tapped his first putt to the very lip of the cup, it was all over—and the assembled gallery of almost 1,000 did the shouting.

LEHMAN PRESENTS TROPHY

Chester H. Lehman, of Westmoreland, former president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, in the absence of J. Bernd Rose, reigning chief executive, presented Gunn with the William C. Downes, Jr., trophy, emblematic of the title.

Gunn had reached the final by defeating Les Miles, of Oakmont, 8 and 7, in the first round; Greer McIlvain, of Oakmont, state amateur champion, 6 and 5, in the second, and George McClure, of Chartiers Heights, 4 and 3, in the semi-final round. He won the qualifying round medal with a 77—the only man in the entire field to break 80.

Weppner eliminated Sam Greer, Butler champion, 5 and 4, in the inaugural test; Sam Parks, Jr., of Highland, former junior champion, 1 up, 19 holes, in the second, and Fred Brand, Jr., of Shannonin, former district amateur and junior king, 1 up, 20 holes, in the semi-final round.

BUCS, ROBINS CLASH TWICE

the veteran will be willing to work ahead of his turn if Ens deems it necessary. There is a chance, however, that French will be able to pitch one of the day's contests.

MAY USE WOOD

Ens announced that he might pitch Southpaw Charley Wood in one of the games if the Wichita graduate arrives in time.

The Pirates and Phillies split their doubleheader of yesterday, the home boys winning a 10-inning classic after dropping the opener. The scores were 7 to 5 and 3 to 2.

Adam Comorosky drove in his one hundredth run of the season to win the twilight struggle for the Oaklanders. Commy came up with Paul Waner on first, one out and the score tied at two all. The Polish Flier walloped a savage triple against the fence in left-center and Brother Paul, who had singled, scampered over with the winning marker.

Glenn Spencer was hurt at the plate in the fifth inning of this game and Steve Swetonic came in to put over another courageous slab effort that culminated in victory.

Spencer sustained an injury of his left knee when he crashed into Catcher Davis in trying to score from second on a single. Glenn came on standing up. He seemed to be safe as he bumped into the big catcher. Umpire Cy Rigler's decision against the Pirates was given a razzing by the fans.

COLLINS WINS

Phil Collins bested Heinie Meine in the first game. Heinie had the worst of the "breaks," however. Chuck Klein spoiled a probable Pittsburgh victory in the seventh when he turned in a circus catch of Pie Traynor's long wallop to right-center with the tieing run on the sacks. It looked like two runs for the Buccos when Pie connected.

Fred Brickell proved the right sort of a leadoff hitter as the long afternoon's program got under way. The former Pirate in the Quaker lineup nicked Heinie Meine for a smashing three-bagger. Brick stayed on third as Thompson went out on a foul, but he went over on O'Doul's sacrifice fly.

The Pirates jumped to the front after two were out in the second. Two force plays left Hemsley on first, but he raced to third when Meine dumped a little hit in left, and Lloyd Waner came through with a single to right that scored the catcher.

PHILS TAKE LEAD

O'Doul started the fourth with a single to right. Klein forced O'Doul, but Hurst came through with a hot single to right, sending Klein to third. Rensa doubled down the leftfield line, scoring his two mates. Whitney singled to score the catcher and thus put his club in the lead.

Brickell's circus catch of Meinie's drive in the fourth kept the Pirates from scoring in the inning and then Brick opened the fifth with a single. Thompson sacrificed and O'Doul singled to drive in Fred.

The Pirates put over their home-run barrage to effect a tie in the fifth. P. Waner hit a four-sacker into the rightfield stands at the start of the round, and after two were out, Traynor planted a drive to deep right center for a homer.

Brickell scored again in the seventh to put the Phillies out in front. Fred singled off Grantham's glove and he whirled to third on Thompson's single to left. O'Doul's sacrifice fly scored Brick.

SUHR BOOTS GROUNDER

Rensa added a run for the Quakers in the eighth which he opened with a lucky hit to Suhr, who messed up the weak grounder. Whitney sacrificed and Thevenow came through with a single to left that scored Rensa.

Denny Southern gave the Pirates a fine start in the second game when he singled. P. Waner doubled and both were able to dent the plate on sacrifice drives off the bats of Comorosky and Traynor. Lester Sweetland then worked eight runless innings like a champion.

Spencer held the Phillies scoreless up to the point of his leaving. Friberg worked his way around in the sixth and Thevenow scored the tieing run in the ninth with one out.

It took a no-hit game to keep Reliance Life's undefeated record intact in the C. and I. League last evening, but the victory was forthcoming and the Insurancemen remain on top, undefeated, in the league chase.

Dutch Spencer, veteran southpaw, hurled a no-hit game against Carnegie Steel in a seven-inning game, the Lifers winning, 1 to 0. Simms, hurling for Carnegie, was also very effective, but he threw Heyle a good one in the fourth inning and the Reliance middle fielder socked it for a home run. Spencer, besides holding the Steelers hitless, fanned eight of them and gave up but a single base on balls.

In a second C. and I. loop game Reick-McJunkins nosed out Mine Safety, 3 to 2.

In the City League, W. O. W. defeated J. L. Thomas, 6 to 1. Pleasant Valley trimmed Stowe, 5 to 1, and Homewood walloped the North Side Civics, 12 to 2.

The Homestead Aces and the Homestead Jenkins nine tangled in a Greater Pittsburgh League contest, the teams winding up in a 6-6 tie.

Bylesby defeated Duquesne Light, 7 to 5, in a Philadelphia Company League contest.

In an independent battle, the Lincoln Civics upset the Dan Heeps, 8 to 6, and the Homestead Grays made it 24 in a row by defeating Dormont in an eight-inning game, 4 to 3.

UNIONTOWN NINE LOSES

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Thomas Burns, 16-year-old fielder on the team sponsored by the American Legion post of Uniontown, Pa., played nine innings of baseball yesterday with a contusion of the brain.

At bat in the first inning of a game with the Baltimore and Ohio Post of Baltimore, he was hit on the head by a ball pitched by Charlie Burrows, of Baltimore. He played the entire game and early in the evening fainted in a hotel lobby. He was taken to the Washington County Hospital.

The game was the final in the American Legion elimination series to determine the champion of this region.

Defeating Uniontown, 4 to 2, the Baltimore and Ohio Post of the American Legion, of Baltimore, won a regional championship and gained the right to continue in competition that eventually will lead to the crowning of the legion's junior National champion.

The Baltimore players will go to Charlottesville, Va., next week to play in another elimination series, the winner of which will represent the Middle Atlantic states in the National tournament.

Charlie Burrows, pitching for Baltimore, allowed eight hits and was given excellent support. He was opposed by Hasco Talley, Negro hurler, of Uniontown, who allowed but seven hits, Uniontown, however, made six errors. The score:

| | | | | | | | | | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Baltimore | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 8 | 1 |
| Uniontown | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 2 | 7 | 6 |

FETE PLANNED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 16.—Upon their return today from Hagerstown, Md., where they took part in the national American Legion baseball elimination, the members of the Uniontown team will be met by a reception committee and escorted through the city.

Tonight a big testimonial dinner in their honor is to be given.

BENTLEY POST WINS

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Bentley Post, of Cincinnati, won the American Legion Regional baseball championship yesterday by defeating Kelley's Kids, of Clinton, Ind., 9 to 3, in the final game of the tournament. By their victory, the Cincinnati nine won the right to represent Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky in the sectional tournament next week in Charlottesville, Va.

Penn, Quincy Boats Victors at Leige

LEIGE, Belgium, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Turning in performances that ranked them as strong contenders for the final honors Saturday, the Penn Athletic Club's eight and the Quincy Boat Club's four won their opening races in the international regatta yesterday.

Penn's opponent was the Danish eight and the result was never in doubt, the Americans finishing the 2,000-meter course in the good time of 5:18 4-5—18 seconds before the Danes crossed the line.

The Quincy four, matched against Hungary and Czechoslovakia, beat the former by two lengths and left the latter far behind.

"Jans," who weighs 72, will be carried into the William Penn Hotel and hoisted to the twenty-first floor like any other entertainer. He will be walked into Studio C. There he will sit in a corner until his master is ready for him to perform. "Jans" is intelligent enough to understand questions and will whine his answers over the air, we've been told.

Visitors will not be permitted in the studio during the broadcast.

They saw a Negro climb a fire escape, force open a window, enter the store and start to climb down. As they approached, he climbed back up the wall and ran. They fired, but the Negro escaped in the darkness.

DAILY TRUE STORY

"Shoot the Dog!"

"I suppose," said Gwendoline, "his name will be 'Anatole' and we'll have to serve frogs' legs every meal."

"What difference does it make about his name? And I'm sure that Frenchmen eat no more frogs' legs than they do over here," Alice answered her cousin.

"It makes a lot of difference to me—he'll probably be just a French peasant type and I'll be ashamed to have him about."

"At any rate he saved our Cousin Will's life in the war and Cousin Will can't get back from Rio for months yet, so we've got to take care of him."

"I won't. He's probably forty and fussy. What the heck did Will ask us to take him in for?"

"Well seeing that we live in Cousin Wilbur's house and he sends us money to live on I don't think it will hurt any of us to do this. I want to."

"You have to be nice," Gwendoline remarked.

Alice pretended not to understand, but she did. Gwendoline was a beauty—one of the flashy blonde type. Men simply fell for her right and left. Alice was a shy little brown-haired girl with violet eyes and no hopes of ever being a runner-up for Miss America. Gwendoline meant by her remarks, which had every earmark of a dirty dig, that Alice, being no great beauty, had to be nice to everyone to maintain friends of the least degree of popularity.

Will Corcoran had been saved over in France by a French soldier, one George Dumas. He had kept in touch with Dumas and visited him in Paris a couple of times. Corcoran was in South America where he was interested in coffee plantations. In his home in a city suburb lived Gwendoline Dwyer and Alice Arnold—both own cousins of Corcoran, although very much younger. As they were both orphaned and Corcoran had plenty of money, he delighted in giving the girls a home.

Wires Instructions

He received word that his friend, the soldier who had prevented him from being bayoneted when wounded and taken him back to the trench, that he was coming to New York in another month and would see him.

Corcoran had received the forwarded letter and just had time to cable Dumas a hearty welcome, also to wire lengthy instructions to Gwendoline and Alice to make his friend Dumas right at home.

He had wired, "You can get along with him—he will understand at lot that you say I think."

"Well," Gwendoline said, "Cousin Will is 40, and I imagine this Frenchman is about his age. If I had ever studied French it would be different, but I'm not going to use a sign language just to please him."

"Will wired that he might understand us."

"'Might'—it was a tip to us to the effect that he didn't know a word of English. He may be able to say 'Ello' or 'Potat,' but that's swell conversation."

It was Gwendoline who chanced to be over at a party at Wally Thurston's with May Thurston when something was said that made her tell May's father, Maj. Thurston, about the coming over of Dumas.

"Oh, yes, I remember him—remember when I saw to it that he was cited for bravery. I visited him at his home outside of Paris—splendid chap—lots of money."

"Oh—he's wealthy, is he, Major?" Gwendoline asked.

"That's what interests Gwen," Wally Thurston remarked.

"Quite wealthy, nice family."

Here was something worth knowing. Gwendoline hugged herself with pleasure. One thing was sure, she wasn't going to pass this information over to Alice, but she would lay herself out to be nice to this Frenchman—having money made ever so much difference.

Just before it was time for Dumas to arrive a letter came from Cousin Will. It again cautioned the girls to be nice to Dumas. He had written to him and the letter would await him at his home.

"His name is Georges," Cousin Will wrote, "and he is gentlemanly. Tell Aunt Kate not to worry as he is a splendid man. By the way, you, you don't call him 'George' as we do in English, you pronounce his name as though it were spelled 'Schorjes' or, perhaps, 'Schorjuh.'"

Guest Arrives

"That's a hot one," Gwendoline said. "I got a picture of myself running around calling him 'Schorjuh.' I'm not going to worry my head about him."

This was solely for the benefit of Alice. Gwen intended to use those heart-panicking eyes of hers on him and when she landed him she would pretend to be greatly surprised to know that he had money.

She dreamed of living in a French chateau, or was it villa? Anyway, she had a hunch that this chap lived in a sort of small castle. Gwendoline's education wasn't so very good. As for Alice, she knew no French whatver, although her general education was better.

Cousin Will had cabled Georges Dumas explicit directions for getting out to his home.

It was afternoon when a taxi arrived, a city taxi.

"It's him, th' frog-eater," Gwendoline hissed, "the poor sap took a taxie out instead of th' train."

A man alighted. His blue serge suit was dusty. His hat seemed rather floppy and grimy. He certainly didn't look to be forty.

One funny black enameled leather suit case was hoisted down beside him. He was talking to the taxie man.

"He got a taxie man who talks French," Alice exclaimed.

And then this Georges Dumas laughed and patted the taxie man on the arm and slapped him on the back and they both talked more French. The taxie man gave Dumas an address and Dumas scribbled on a card and gave it to him.

"For Peter's sake, looks him getting chummy with a taxie driver," Gwendoline hissed.

Monsieur Georges Dumas lifted the freakish satchel and came up the walk. He doffed his hat, clicked his heels and bowed low. Then he began speaking in a torrent of words, not one of which the girls understood.

Welcome Monsieur Dumas," Alice stammered only she pronounced it Du-mass.

Bonne jovar," Gwendoline said. She thought this would make a hit with Dumas and also surprise Alice.

To make doubly sure about giving Dumas the right impression she flashed him one of her deadliest "come hither" glances.

Dumas bowed again and rattled off more talk.

Reads Letter

"For Peter's sake what a freak," Gwendoline said to Alice, smiling at Dumas all the time.

"Je t'adores," Dumas said, bowing low again to Gwendoline.

She looked around.

"The door is shut," she said and in an aside to Alice, "What in heck does he want our front door shut for?"

He spoke some French and proceeded to read it.

Alice went in to bring out lemonade and cake. Gwendoline sat near him and "made eyes at him." He finished the letter, said something to Gwen in French and leaned back.

Gwen smiled again, a mischievous smile.

"Je t'adores!" he exclaimed.

Alice was just coming out. The front door had been left open when she went in.

"Shut the door, Alice, he's a plain nut about that," Gwen said.

Aunt Kate came out and shook hands and smiled, but couldn't talk any. She didn't know a word of French.

Finally Alice started to pick up his bag. He picked it up and she led the way to the guest room and bowed herself out.

It was Gwen who went up to call him for dinner. He appeared in dinner clothes which made her gasp. But she smiled and said, "Dinner, Mr. Dumas."

"Deen-a" it sounded to Gwen, the way he answered.

"We—wee," Gwen said and gave him her best smile.

"A-h-h, je t'adores!" he said.

Gwendoline shut the door to his room and led him down.

"He sprung it again—asking me to shut the door," Gwen hissed to Alice. "He's gonna be an awful pest asking us to shut all th' doors all the time—what's eating him? Is he afraid of being pinched?"

"He might understand a few gestures—he's got a sweet smile," Alice said.

"He's coo-coo," Gwen declared.

They convoyed him to the dining room, where he ate heartily and talked constantly.

For three days this went on. Gwen did her best by her smiling to win him. She never forgot that he had money.

Monsieur Georges Dumas told her, 20 times, that he adored her.

"Je t'adores," he repeated constantly.

"The darned sap drives me nuts. If he keeps yellin' for me to shut any more doors I'll bite him," Gwendoline declared.

"He's rather nice—I don't mind if he does keep asking me to shut the door," Alice declared.

Gwen had a chance to go to a week-end party and she went.

"I'll get a good kick out of thinking of you here running to shut doors for him," she remarked.

Speaks English

Alice took him to a picture Saturday night. Then she got a late little supper.

Sunday Aunt Kate was laid up with rheumatism and Alice got the dinner.

"Je t'adores!" she said at the close of the dinner.

Alice got up to shut the door to the hall. Monsieur Georges Dumas began to laugh.

"My dear girl," he said, "it is so funny — you must forgive me!"

Alice turned red.

"Oh, you speak English? What must you think of us!"

"I think you are quite as wonderful as Mr. Corcoran wrote me about you—as for Gwendoline—why worry? Forgive me, I wanted to have a little sport, to hear your comments made on the side."

"That's all right, I don't mind but why did you keep asking us to shut the door?"

"Je t'adores—in other words, 'I love you!'"

"Oh," said Alice, blushing.

"Now I will shut the door." He got up and did so and went back to her. "Now I say Je t'adores—and I mean it—I love you, Alice! Do you love me?"

"Shut the door," Alice said, timidly, which was as near as she could get it. It was near enough.

Gwen almost went into convulsions when the next Tuesday on her return, she saw Alice wearing a beautiful solitaire and she and Georges were constantly as near as she could understand it, saying "Shut the door" to each other.

FRIENDS—and I hope I may include the little ones in this category—I have asked myself to write a few words on the subject of contentment — to unfurl, as it were, the banner of optimism and scale the dizzy heights of prevaricatosity and cowardice, stopping not for time nor tide, but leaping the bulwarks with a message to Garcia to crush the heel of pessimism beneath the serpent of hypocrisy. I would like to tell you a story, if ladies do not object, which I call Spargere Voces in Vulgum Ambiguas, which means . . . I wonder if there is any one among my vast audience of readers who can tell me the meaning of this old Welsh phrase? Let me hear from you personally, by mail, some time. Tomorrow I will be with you over the air—at least in spirits. Shall we say good-by? Aus Weidersham!

Voting Machines Ordered

Other Topics of Interest to Pittsburghers Briefly Discussed.

The County Commissioners have at last awarded the contract for voting machines. That is something to be grateful for. It is to be regretted that the machine which has been ordered is of a type that has not been extensively used and must be regarded, therefore, as more or less in the nature of an experiment. It seems incongruous with Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong's remarks, prior to the placing of the contract, that the commissioners could afford to take no chances, but would be obliged to order machines of whose trustworthiness there could not be the slightest doubt.

Still there is nothing in the situation to warrant jumping to the conclusion that the machine contracted for will be unsatisfactory. The manufacturers express the utmost confidence that it will meet all requirements. They are willing to post a surety bond. They point to a long and honorable business record. Their bid was $35,000 under that of the competing bidder, and their machine has the advantage of furnishing a printed record of the total vote as soon as the polls are closed.

The sensible thing is to keep an open mind on the merits of the machine and not condemn it without a trial nor condemn the commissioners. It may turn out to be in every respect an excellent device. Let us be optimistic about it anyway until we have some tangible evidence on which to form a different opinion. Let us be hopeful that the machine will stop election cheating, and that the company will be able, as it promises, to deliver 300 by October 15 and several hundred more by election day in November.

The Monessen merchant whose adventures with blackmailers have been so much in the papers lately deserves credit for courage. The criminals gave evidence of their desperate character when one of them killed a state trooper who was attempting to arrest him—and was himself killed. Nevertheless the merchant promptly reported to the police the second demand that was made upon him for money. If every person threatened by blackmailers were to act similarly there would be less blackmailing. It is the victims who submit that encourage the nefarious business.

The announcement that the new bridge over the Ohio River between Rochester and Monaca will be dedicated September 1 is welcome news. It replaces a rickety old structure that should have been done away with long ago. The new bridge is a link in a motor route much used in interstate travel, and it is to be dedicated with imposing exercises and a community celebration, which is fitting.

The Society of the Seventeenth United States In- fantry, composed of Spanish War Veterans, is not a large organization; yet there were present at the annual meeting here members from states as distant as California, Georgia and Maine. Judging from the attendance and enthusiasm at the war veterans' reunions, the tie that binds comrades in arms is one of the strongest to be found in any kind of social organization. Men that have suffered peril and hardship side by side delight in meeting their "buddies" annually, even after the passage of many years.

Deaths from carbon monoxide in closed garages in which automobile engines are running, and in rooms in which flueless gas stoves are burning, are common enough, alas; but the deaths of the two boys who slept on a coal dump in the open air at Harmarville present a carbon monoxide case that is different. The tragedy is a reminder that some authorities think the carbon monoxide in our streets, discharged by motor cars, is at least slightly injurious to the health of city folk. By the way, we did not use to hear of carbon monoxide deaths years ago. Was it that we did not have them, or that they were called by some other name, just as what is now called "sinus trouble" used to be called "catarrh"?

The suggestion which came up at a meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs in Connellsville that the Youghiogheny River be linked with the Potomac is decidedly interesting. Col. Jarvis J. Bain, United States engineer in charge of rivers in the Pittsburgh district, who addressed the clubs, disclosed that he has received instructions from Washington to study the Youghiogheny, with a view to making it navigable as far as Connellsville. It would mean a great deal to the valley if the stream were to be turned into an artery of traffic, and if navigable connection could be established with the Potomac the possibilities dazzle the imagination.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club reports that an amber signal light in Etna and another at Butler and Fortieth streets remain on for longer than the three seconds prescribed by state regulations. This is but an example of the watchfulness of the club on motor traffic matters. It is serving the public as well as its members through its efforts to promote the safety and comfort of motorists. And it is noteworthy also that the club took steps to have a footpath built for pedestrians beside a much traveled highway.

While the curtailment of damage to the crops, and the addition to the water supply of communities are the principal beneficial results from the half inch of rain that fell in many parts of Western Pennsylvania Thursday, it conferred another boon for which we should be grateful. The precipitation was of considerable help in fighting forest fires in Westmoreland, Fayette and Somerset Counties. Flames have devastated 10,000 acres of timberland in that region. The loss of timber must be reckoned in computing the havoc wrought by the drought.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

World Court

Our joining of the World Court will be delayed for another year.

"Bugs" Baer

By that time there will be nothing to join.

If a doombuzz is sore at his Chinese mother-in-law do we have to pick a jury out of a Kansas wheat field?

The World Court was a beautiful idea but so was perpetual motion. And that stopped years ago.

There is a world bank. That's nothing new. Many's the time we chased a bank cashier round the world.

And nobody wants to deposit their golden biscuits in a banking concern that makes you wear snowshoes to collect your interest.

We concede that many prominent men advocate the World Court. But you get just as prominent trying to get on a crowded street car with a bass drum in your arms.

In actual trial any worldwide agreement works as well as a trunkful of old shoes with their toes kicked out.

Nations sign on the dotted line and then go about their business. Which consists mostly of ignoring dots.

It requires 36 states to ratify anything East and West of the great divide. So far only 15 states have endorsed the hemispherical utopia.

Fifteen states have signed. And Thomas Edison sort of scrambles that neat little huddle by going astray to Rhode Island to pick out his bright boy.

England predicts a master slump in 1931. And apparently wants us to share all the advantages of refinement and home cooking.

And when that slump came we would get our share without asking for it.

There is a little trouble in India at present which is being ignored by the League.

And the League is being ignored by the little trouble. When it gets to be big trouble we will find that we have ringside seats on a red hot stove.

We're having enough difficulty with the drought and the price of milk right now. The last bottle of milk we got was in technicolor.

It was blue and looked as if a government scientist had used it for waterwings while swimming the Mississippi.

We know the right color of milk because we have often used it to make eggnog.

Furthermore, this is the time of year when cows eat leeks, onions and scullions. It flavors the breath. But is that any reason why a girl should break her engagement to a milk drinker just because a cow eats garlic?

NUMBER LOVE

By Archibald Henderson

In ancient days the curious and inexplicable properties of numbers were subjects of great fascination and profound study. Today, the subject is much neglected; but little or no practical use is found for many of these properties, paradoxical relationships, which have no inherent significance in the practical projects with which the physicist, the chemist, the architect or the engineer concerns himself.

The ancients took much interest in what they called perfect. Such a number is one which equals the sum of its own divisors. The smallest perfect numbers are 6 and 28. Thus 6 equals 1 plus 2 plus 3; and 28 equals 1 plus 2 plus 4 plus 7 plus 14. Nichomachus claimed that 496 and 8,128 were perfect numbers. The fifth perfect number makes a terrific big jump; it is 33,550,336. The reader may find it interesting to test these three numbers, and see if they really are perfect numbers. Even Euclid attached so much importance to perfect numbers that he devotes a chapter to them in the famous work, Elements.

Euclid proved the remarkable theorem that the number $2^{n-1}(2^n-1)$ is perfect, provided the second factor is a prime number. If n equal 5, for example, the second factor is 31, a prime number, viz., divisible only by itself and 1. The perfect number then is 16 multiplied by 31, which gives the number 496, already mentioned as a perfect number. Mathematicians have carried out the investigation only for the first 12 perfect numbers. These are got by setting n equals 1, 2, 3, 5, 12, 16, 18, 30, 60, 88, 106 and 126 in Euclid's formula. The twelfth perfect number is a "sockdolager," containing 77 digits. The reader may amuse himself by computing this number, viz.:

$(2^{128}-1)!$

It is always interesting to inquire how to tell a prime number from a composite number, the latter having other factors than itself and 1. If a number ends in 5 or 0, or in an even digit, we know it is composite. But suppose it ends in a 3, 7, or 9. There is a simple rule, known as the "rule of nine," which is worth remembering. If the sum of all the digits is a multiple of 3 or 9, then the number itself is divisible by 3 or 9. For instance, take 27.

The sum of the 2 and 7 is 9. Hence 27 is divisable by 9, and also by 3. Take the number 243. Here 2 plus 4 plus 3 make 9; and hence 243 is divisible by 9, and also by 3.

A considerable amount of work on this problem of prime numbers has been done by Pascal, Lagrange and other mathematicians. But the calculations are vastly tedious and laborious. Professor Leonard Eugene Dickson, of the University of Chicago, author of the monumental History of the Theory of Numbers, has said: "To tell whether a given number of 15 or 20 digits is prime or not, all time would not suffice for the test, whatever use is made of what is already known!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Percy Shostac has done a curious thing. He has written the story of his life in the frankest free verse you ever read. It begins like this—

"Who am I?
"A Jew.
"A Russian Jew born on the East Side.
"Twenty-nine years old—"

As simple as that. And, from that straightforward start, you live with and in Percy Shostac for 363 pages.

You live with his dreams and his despair, his foolishness and fine furies, his loneliness and weariness and poverty, his vanity and vulgarity and his stubborn, agonizing search for truth in ordinary experience.

You see the world through his eyes—not the romantic, exotic world in which writers are supposed to function, but the dirty, sluttered, shabby world of East Fourteenth street.

"I know," he writes, "that great drama is right here at my door.

"Here on Fourteenth street.

"At dinner tables, in stores, in offices, in rooming houses.

"In kitchens, bedrooms, restaurants, studios."

And that is why this book is rich and moving and why you should read it. FOR IT IS THE STORY OF A COMMON LIFE, BUT IT IS WRITTEN BY A MAN WHO SEES THAT NO LIFE IS COMMON. Percy Shostac's life is written in verse because he sees and feels it in verse. He has caught the rhythm that runs through our most casual thought or simple chore.

That rhythm runs through your life, too. No matter how poor you are, or how obscure, there is music in your days, if you will look for it. Even dish washing is part of a great song of work. If you do not catch the movement of that song, dish washing is drudgery.

But if you do feel the song, any job has dignity and purpose. And —when you have once caught that rhythm—everything that happens to you, every twinge of anger or rebellion, every surge of longing and wonder— is as truly dramatic as Milton's poems and Shakespeare's plays.

The most interesting and colorful lives I have ever known were lived by prospectors, rangers, cowboys, ranchers, engineers, and their wives and mothers in mountain cabins and desert shacks. Their days were lonely and difficult. They were filled with discomfort—blisters, boredom, bugs and other human aches. Yet always these men and women marched to music. They never put it that way themselves, of course. And they could not have told you what put the swing in their stride, the wonder and curiosity in their eyes, the eagerness in their blood. But, unconsciously, they had seen beyond hardship and monotony and had caught the rhythm of adventure.

If a man once catches that rhythm, life will always be exciting. He will always want to go on and find out what is around the next corner—disaster and disappointment and death—but they will never get the best of him, for they, too, will fit into his Marching Songs.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

There's always a lot of argument about marrying widows and widowers. Some say they are the best sort of companions because they've had the experience that the younger folks need, and others say they are always thinking about the one they was married to last.

Anyhow, there was a fellow thinking about marrying a widow, and a mean old dad of his was advising him against it.

"Why, son," says the dad, "that there woman is a widow, and that's enough to know about her. She'll be always comparing you to her first old man, and she'll be intimating that anything that was his is much too good for you."

"Yes, but Dad, I think I got the head start of her there. Her first old man was hanged for stealing horses."

"Well then, you can count on it that you won't be married a week before she'll be telling you that hanging's too good for you."

Voice of the Turtle

Of the splendors of Solomon all the world knows,
Of his wisdom, his wealth and display,
Of his Temple, whose columns like cedars arose
And his palace that rivaled the day!

But King Solomon sang long ago
of the spring
When he wearied of purple and gold;
Of the beauty of pomegranates' bright blossoming
And the voice of the turtle he told.

Long the wonders of Solomon's matchless array
On the winds have been scattered and tossed;
They are whirled in the dust, they are swept with the spray, Priceless glories he treasured are lost!

Yet, still, as of old, in the bowers of the King,
By the south wind the lilies are stirred,
Still, the pomegranates redden
the garments of spring
And the voice of the turtle is heard.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
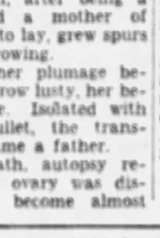
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The male gonad turns on the male hormone, and it is to its influence, not to the influence of the genes, that the remainder of the male sex characters are sensitive; and similarly with the female gonad and its hormone.

We have learned how to tamper with this second switch, and so to send the animals over on the opposite sex-track.

In insects, however, we cannot reverse sex characters in this way. Insects, evolving along another path, have not evolved the second switch. They seem to lack the sex-hormone mechanism entirely.



H. G. Wells

Castration or spaying of an insect makes no difference whatever to the other parts of the body. Here the sex is determined by the sex-chromosomes in every separate tissue, and whatever chemical substances are needed for the development of sexual characters are brewed locally under their supervision.

SEC. 7. REVERSAL OF SEX

In the year 1474 a remarkable trial took place in the Swiss town of Bale. A barndoor cock had laid an egg. With all due formality, it was tried for witchcraft, sentenced and publicly burned.

Such sexual aberrations in fowls are not excessively rare. Crowing hens are sufficiently well-known phenomena to figure in a rhymed proverb:

"A whistling maid and a crowing hen
Are neither fit for God or men."

A bird ceases to lay, her comb enlarges and she begins to crow. Some go farther and exhibit male behavior—they fight with cocks and pay court to hens. This is not uncommon.

In very rare cases, however, the transformation proceeds to its logical conclusion and the bird changes its sex completely.

Professor Crew, for instance, reports on a three-year-old Buff Orpington which, after being a good layer and a mother of chickens, ceased to lay, grew spurs and practiced crowing.

Next season her plumage became male, her crow lusty, her behavior masculine. Isolated with an untamed pullet, the transformed hen became a father.

On "her" death, autopsy revealed that the ovary was diseased and had become almost completely transformed into a testis. Apparently the disease had altered conditions in the ovary and stimulated the production of male tissue.

But, whatever the cause, the fact remains: sex-reversal is possible to a warm-blooded vertebrate, even after it has become adult.

In frogs the normal chromosome machinery can be over-ridden in various ways.

Keeping the early embryos at a high temperature increases the percentage of males, and so does acid water, while a water shortage (e. g., keeping the eggs only just moist) increases the proportion of females.

Most effective of all is making the mother retain her eggs for three or four days after they are fully ripe. Such "overripe" eggs, when fertilized, produce 90 to 100 per cent of males instead of the usual fifty-fifty ratio.

These cases differ from the guinea pigs of the last section because the reversal is complete. It affects the gonads. In the guinea pigs the hormones were upset; it was the so-called accessory sexual characters that were altered.

But in these fowls and frogs the action is on a different link of the casual chain. It is the development of the gonad itself which is attacked.

For even if we reverse the gonad of a fowl or a frog and turn it from an ovary to a testis the chromosomes remain unchanged. And the proof of this fact lies in the next generation.

Suppose that we turn a female frog, by over-ripeness, into a male, it will still have the female chromosome outfit, with two X-chromosomes. So that every one of its sperms will have an X-chromosome in it. When such an animal is mated with a normal female, who therefore is also XX in regard to her chromosomes, the next generation will be exclusively female instead of male and female in equal numbers.

By similar reasoning it can be shown that if a male turned into a female be mated with a normal male the next generation will include two males to every female. And these expectations are confirmed in practice.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA.—This is the only ship in which I remember riding that did not also carry Gilbert Miller. And the Europa should abandon that ancient subterfuge of making each passenger believe he bought the very last cabin. There was never a ship, hotel or theater without room for one more.

There was ado this morning in taking on passengers at Southampton. Whenever there is suppressed excitement among stewards in companionways I am one of those voyageurs who aches for a spot near the rail right now. So I dressed and got there, leaving my wife, the most courageous person I know, behind.

All ship officers were at attention awaiting an English lighter. On the bridge of the lighter was an easily recognizable figure, despite Savile Row tweeds and a Sherlock Holmes deer-stalker cap. The Hapsburg lip was unmistakable. It was King Alphonso of Spain.

He had run down from London to inspect the German liner. I had glimpses of him at Longchamp race course the other week, but standing goggle-eyed in a hall entrance I saw him at close range. Indeed so close that in shaking hands with the crew he leaned over to give Billy a passing pat.

The King is larger and more rugged than photographs reveal. He was in sporting costume and wore his wrist watch with the dial turned in. His hair is thatched with gray and his jutting smile is particularly agreeable. I noticed a pencil with a clip in an upper coat pocket.

Commodore Johnson took him the rounds of the "Europa" while almost the entire passenger list waited at the exit for his departure. No matter our aversion to a monarchy, it symbolizes an idea that thrills. A jaded cigaret-puffing flapper as the King passed exclaimed: "Theres my big kick on this trip!"

Alphonso talked in German to the crew, in Spanish to an aide and in going down the plank called in unaccented English to a British friend: "Hurry along, we are holding up the sailing." He returned to the lighter bridge and waved until out of sight. I liked him tremendously.

* * *

If the King is distressed by the stormy drift in his kingdom he did not show it. Today the ship daily carried a dispatch from Madrid of the continued slump in the money exchange. And it is axiomatic that when money falls the throne wobbles.

The old free lunch idea is carried out in the bar. With each glass of beer the waiter brings a sealed package of pretzels, almonds, potato chips and cheese and pickles. All beer is drawn from the keg with an Al Bedell collar.

With the $100, returned by the ship, I am indulging a tonsorial toot each morning. I climb into one of the chairs and tell the barber to shoot the works, and you'd be surprised the things he thinks up. My face has been scraped a sirloin red, my nails are filed to the quick, and my head has the sensitiveness of an over-ripe carbuncle. Yet I have spent only $8 and have three days to go.

There was a glorified Natchez and Robert E. Lee effect this afternoon. On the port side we were neck to neck—perhaps it is bow to bow—with the Homeric. The good ship Europa showed her heels—I nearly used the nautical term—in no time and within 30 minutes miles were between us.

* * *

When this reaches print I will have yodeled my customary yoo-hoo to Miss Liberty and hugged Harry Acton and Jimmie Lanehart, of the ship news crew. The next date line will be New York. And I might add the most interesting to me of all cities visited.

And additional home-coming thrill is provided in a new home furnished at 200 Park avenue during our absence where will arrive, too, Rainbow, a Sealyham puppy, a new companion for Billy. After spending all my life in a hotel I am looking forward to the experiment with a prima donna pulse. In fact like the cub reporter dispatched to devastated Martinique: "All is excitement. Cannot write."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

When you look into the future why is it that you are always seeking something to worry about?

Haven't you any hope for joy in the years to come?

Why not encourage yourself to do better work today because it will mean more happiness as you grow older?

Of course, there is a general order of things by which we may meet unexpectedly, conditions that would be distressing, but without knowing when and where they are coming, why fill your mind with dread.

When misfortunes or accidents occur they are bad enough without anticipating them.

Hope is one of the greatest things in life

It is easy to kill the hope of something better by forebodings.

Melancholia might easily start from a habit of looking on the dark side of the future when hope and confidence in the years to come might avert tragedy.

Accept today's burdens as they come, but try to fortify yourself against misfortune by enjoying the present and hoping for the future.
